EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY IS THE LAW

Lyndon Baines Johnson, the 36th President of these United States DID declare by signing into law the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Executive Order Number 11246 that all persons in these United States MUST have an EQUAL opportunity to employment. Much has been done recently in Waterloo to insure the upholding of this law.

Iowa State Employment Service Sponsors Clinic

Ms. Anna M. Weems, Minority Specialist at the Waterloo office of the Iowa Employment office, recently put together a most unique Equal Employment Opportunity clinic.

Most of the local businesses had one or more representatives at the one-day clinic.

Ms. Weems first gave all the employers a "general information test."

Fifteen questions were asked, no employer was able to answer more than 4 questions.

Ms. Weems then pointed out to the participants that just as their failure of her test did not disqualify them as good employers, that job applicants who fail the general information test they are given are not necessarily poor job risks.

THE EMPLOYER'S GENERAL INFORMATION TEST

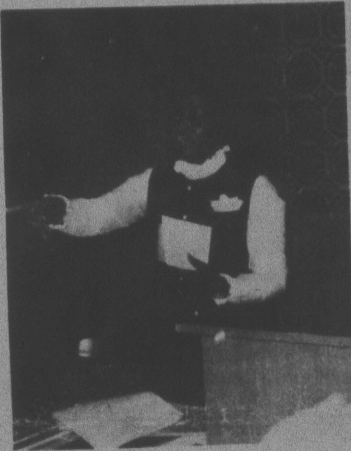

1. What is D. O. T.?
2. What is code #922-887?
3. What is code #209-388?
4. What is WIN?
5. What is AEOE?
6. What does "To be squared" mean?
7. What does "Mellow-squared" mean?
8. Where is the Human Rights Commission located?
9. What is Executive Order #11246?
10. What are the "freedom colors"?
11. What do the letters NAACP stand for?
12. What do the initials FREE stand for?
13. What is the function of the East Side Citizens committee?
14. What is the name of the local Black newspaper?
15. What is the name of the State Black newspaper?

WHAT'S BUGGING YOU

The Employers were then given the opportunity to get many things that bothered them "off their chests."

The problems included absenteeism, recruiting, interviewing, following instructions, tardiness, attitudes, etc.

Mr. Young of Young Heating felt that to just say he wanted a minority limited him. He said "Why can't we just say we need some."

Mr. Overcamp said, "When we need somebody we need them right now and we can't wait."

Mr. Overcamp also used terms like "BOY" and "COLORED" several times.

Dale Kendall of Hawkeye Steel Products personalized a "black man" by calling him by name and saying "... is a good worker, but he only works four days a week, I need a five day man." The representative from C. W. Shirey said, "I fired two blacks for absenteeism."

A representative from Young Plumbing said, "Am I missing the boat, I think these blacks have an attitude problem. I was confronted with someone dressed in black, red and green. Some of these people won't even stand for our flag anymore. Is this the right attitude?"

Mr. Jack Hoffman of Viking Pump said, "Our job is not to fire people, but to TRAIN them to produce at our expectation. Our REAL objective is to help these people. The solution to each problem, whether black or white is different."

The owner of the Sveden House said, "What has made us poles apart when before we were pulling together?"

Dave Walker, manager of Eagles at Logan Plaza asked, "How do we deal with the employe who says he is being picked on because he is black?"

Ms. Beverly Trast, director of the Area VII Media center asked, "Are these problems such as absenteeism and tardiness really a minority problem - do we really have records on this, or are these statements based on myths?"

Beverly Brower, WIN program co-ordinator, said, "WIN could help you with tax credits." She also said, "Contrary to what you probably have heard, 80 percent of ADC recipients are white."

Mr. Harris, Iowa Highway commission said of the minority employe, "Treat him like a person, you don't give special privileges."

Ms. Weems told the employers that a lot goes into the applicant before he goes out. She told of some of the problems she faces in her position - all white towns won't allow blacks to live there - employers who say, "would love one, but we don't have any openings, - afro hair styles - a hang-up that is not necessary - rising me by saying, Anna won't find me anyone."

Ms. Weems told the employers they had come a long way but many things left to do. Ms. Weems said, "No one has the right to say he is going to do it his way because he is black."

Delores Williams of the DEFENDER spoke as a community representative, she told the audience that many times minorities were hired and their direct supervisor's attitude did not reflect that of the employer. Ms. Williams said that it was the job of the employer to demand quality work, but the employer's outside activities were his own, whether or not he stands for the flag. has nothing to do with his job production. Ms. Williams told the Eagles manager not to "buy" that "pickin on me story". Any employer who misses four consecutive Saturdays has a real problem which must be dealt with. The same black community that urged you to hire blacks, will also work with you and with those you have hired to see that they become productive employes.

Ms. Williams told the audience that the truth about America's beginning is that "we" the Americans refused to honor the English flag any longer and that we obtained our independence through war. Respect must be a two-way street. As the minority must honor and respect your customs ways and dress, you too must respect his ways and dress. No one is upset by St. Patrick's day and the wearing of green, no one is upset in Chicago when the Polish Americans tie up the "loop" with a noon parade, no one is upset by the German celebrations and so it must be with the Black Americans.

John White, Chamber of Commerce concluded the day's events by giving certificates to those businesses who had operated with "Operation Quik Check."

Participants other than local employers included: Lumberg, State Employment Commissioner, Frank Dixon and Bonetta Culp, Hawkeye Institute; Vanella Byrd, Cosby Center; W. R. Richardson, Waterloo Schools; Eugene Weems and Pearl Ceaser, Waterloo Defender.

Waterloo Youth Selected for Washington, D. C. and United Nations Youth Tour

Carla Hutchins, daughter of Mr. Elbert Hutchins; Delene Williams, daughter of Pastor and Mrs. Leonard Williams; Loren Austin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Austin and Alan Stinson, son of Mrs. G. T.

Stinson, have been selected to participate in a 10-day study tour.

Mrs. Annie Gary will accompany them as their chaperone.

East-Side Ministers Fellowship Installs Officers

Three hundred persons were in attendance and participation as officers of the East Side Ministerial Fellowship and Auxiliary were installed at First Lutheran church during a service of praise and celebration.

Installed were the following officers of the Fellowship: President, Rev. Robert Burt; Vice President, Rev. Luther Peterson; Secretary, Rev. Robert L. Smith; Treasurer, The Rev. G. L. Culpepper; Devotional Leader, Rev. George Sisk; Dean, The Rev. Percy Burt; Publicity Chairman, The Rev. Stanley Kennedy.

Auxiliary officers are: President, Mrs. Percy Burt; Vice President, Mrs. Robert Burt; Vice President, Mrs. Robert Burt; Secretary, Mrs. Stanley Kennedy; Assistant Secretary, Mrs. Thelma Jenkins; Treasurer, Mrs. Robert L. Smith; Teacher, Mrs. Luther Peterson; Chaplain, Mrs. G. L. Culpepper.

The service was enriched by the following churches through musical numbers: New Zion Baptist, Mt. Calvary Baptist, Payne African Methodist Episcopal, Savior Baptist, Corinthian Baptist, and First Lutheran. The African Palace Soul Ensemble also sang. The Rev. Allen Likkel, Community Chairman of the Key 73 Evangelistic thrust gave an informative report on progress. Brother George Sisk led the devotional service, Brother James Farmer read scripture, Rev. Enoch Epps offered prayer, The Rev. Percy Burt gave an inspirational talk, The Rev. Lawrence Stumme offered the benediction. Pastor Leonard Williams, retiring president, was the worship leader.

Discussion among members of the East Side Ministerial Fellowship reveals goals concerning both the inside the organization and its relationship to the community of which it is a part. The group feels it can be strengthened by increased active participation on the part of more of the ministers of the East Side. The group also feels a great responsibility in dealing with the community outside the group. Members have suggested support of community action groups such as Operation Free, and others; they have suggested active concern about street improvement as a continuing goal, and they have strongly suggested that we be concerned about drug involvement in the community. Special Holy Week services will be discussed and finalized at the group's next regular meeting on Saturday, March 17 at the Calvary United Methodist Church at East 4th and Newell St. at 5 p.m. The Women's Auxiliary will also meet at this time.

some 42 others from across the state.

Their itinerary will include an overnight stop in Gettysburg, Pa., where they will visit the Civil War museums and the actual battlefield.

They will spend four days in Washington, D.C., where they will visit Arlington cemetery, the Smithsonian institute, the Wax museum and the White House. They will see a play at the Kennedy center and also have the opportunity to meet the Iowa Senators (Hughes and Clark) and the Congressman from this congressional district (Gross).

They will hear speakers on the federal budget, national priorities, the constitutional crisis, military spending and the environment.

The young people will spend three days in New York City where the sight-seeing will include the Statue of Liberty, the Empire State building, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Wall Street and the Lincoln center.

Much time will be spent at the United Nations where discussions and study will be held on Apartheid, Communism, the structure of the United Nations.

A tour of the U. N. headquarters and the Broadway play, "Don't Bother Me I Can't Cope" will also be a part of the tour.

The Defender contacted each student and asked them how they felt about being selected. They all said, "We are really thankful and very excited."

Businessman's Salute

Cuba E. Tredwell, Jr., owner of the Cuba E. Tredwell Agency has been selected as businessman of the week.

After experiencing house hunting for two years with realtors of varied and indifferent attitudes ranging from "I'm only showing you this because I have to" to "If you stay on the East side, I'm more than happy to help you", finally to ONE realtor whose attitude was "I'd like to help you get the house you want, but they (neighbors and financial institutions) won't let me."

The trips to the financial institutions were as futile. Their excuses were "We can't loan that kind of money in that area", and "We're sorry we can't help you." It was then that Cuba felt that someone should work to expose the oppressive practices of local banks and lending institutions who "felt the Black people were too great a risk."

Cuba attended a housing seminar held here in Waterloo in April, 1970. He listened to the higher echelon and supposedly their expertise in the area of housing and realized how the local lenders and realtors could act so indifferent to the housing needs of Blacks--their "fathers" did and they were only continuing a pattern. This further convinced Cuba that somebody had to break up the "illy-white, don't-give-a-damn - about-those -people" clique.

In September, 1970, Cuba enrolled in the real estate course at Gates College. He finished the course in January, 1971. He applied for and took the salesman's test in March, 1971. On March 19, 1971, Cuba received his salesman's license. He began to work part time as a salesman for Burt's Realty in addition to his full time job at Illinois Central Railroad until December, 1971. He then gave up his job at the railroad and went into real estate full time.

Cuba admits his job has been

a real challenge, but also a most rewarding experience for him. It was because he felt he was accomplishing something with other realtors, financial institutions, and honestly helping people with difficulties find and obtain better housing, his desire to become a real estate broker was even greater. He studied extremely hard and in February, 1973, Cuba became a certified real estate broker in the State of Iowa, thus the inception of the Cuba E. Tredwell Agency.

Cuba Tredwell feels if the Black Community supports him, he is determined to give them the very best service possible. He assures the Black people all listings will be made available to them and they will be able to choose the home they can afford where ever they want. Cuba not only wants Black people to work with him, but also through him in obtaining information and assistance on financing and housing.

Mr. Tredwell is married to the former Marguerite Zanders and they are the parents of Scott, 7 and Becky, 5. He is a member of Payne Memorial A.M.E. church where he serves as a steward.

Mr. Tredwell can be reached at 232-7277 or by writing P.O. Box 421, Waterloo, Iowa 50703.

ts Commission Sponsors Affirmative Action Seminar

A two day A/A Seminar which was held at Porky's Clayton house this week provided the Waterloo Metropolitan area businesses with many employment experts to assist them in complying with Executive orders 1246 and 11375.

Experts participating included Bennie Daugherty, Regional director of office of Federal Contract Compliance; Evelyn Ray, contracts relations specialist of defense contract administrative service region; Marjorie E. Lennox, equal opportunity specialist with EEO, Omaha area office; Marshall S. Galinsky, attorney with office of general counsel, EEOC in Washington D.C.

Also, Alvin Hayrs, Jr., Director of Iowa Civil Rights commission; Roxanne Conlin, assistant state attorney general.

Mr. Willie Mosley, director of the Human Rights commission of Waterloo, told the group that the law requires across the board hiring of minorities. If all your minorities are in menial tasks, your, as an employer are going to have trouble.

Mr. Daugherty said the National unemployment rate is five percent. The national unemployment rate among minorities is 10 percent. In some areas minority unemployment is as high as 35 percent.

Mr. Mosley said to the businessmen, that they as employers had to be able to see that what some persons chose to call preferential treatment may well be correcting situations that have been detrimental to a group of people.

Mr. Galinsky said if anything EEOC is expanding.

Much discrimination is very, very subtle and even people of good will are discriminatory in their thinking. Mr. Conlin said that most Waterloo businesses had a high school diploma job requirement. This immediately eliminates 75 percent of the black population, as statistics show that only 25 percent have a high school diploma.

Jimmie Porter, Jackie Hanson, J. Russel Lowe, Anna Weims, Jim Bradley and Delores Williams joined the experts on an employment plight panel.

Jim Bradley, KWVL, told on of Booker T. Washington's stories and related it to the local situation. Mr. Bradley said, "If a man must leave his carriage to place and keep his foot on another man's neck, it restricts his movements." Mr. Bradley said further, "Dr.

King probably said it better when he said any man that has a $50,000 home and must spend almost that same amount to protect it is living in a sick society."

Mr. Porter told the group to check their job requirements and see if they're not job eliminators.

Mr. Lowe said blacks should have the same opportunity as whites to fail, but cautioned they should not be programmed for failure.

Mrs. Weems said, these blacks present and many others work 24 hours a day, not a day goes by that one of us or most of the time, all of us does not have to deal with a hiring problem or an employment problem.

Mrs. Williams said that employers ought not be concerned with statistics, quotas, and figures but with righting the wrong. She told the audience that most of them were active in their churches and should be working on making the Old-Testament Prophet Amos cry become a reality, "Let justice roll down like water and righteousness like a mighty stream."

Mr. Porter also said to the employers, "If you want to hire a black, do that, if you want to hire a white, do that, but don't try to set a combination wrapped up in one."

Mrs. Hinson made a plea to make this day, day 1 for equality throughout Waterloo, Iowa.

Mr. Galinsky told the group, he was removing his hat as an employment expert and speaking as a man. He said, "You people don't need outside expertise, you need each other. You had better start talking TO EACH OTHER and NOT AT EACH OTHER."

Other Human Rights staff participating including Mr. Lawrence Bryant and Ms. Patricia Jones.

More Funds Will Help Cities, Carl Stokes Claims

ATLANTA -- (NBNS) -- Claiming that a compromise had been worked out in which quality education has been exchanged for "a few big jobs for a few big Negroes," the Congress of Racial Equality filed a petition in federal court for intervention shortly after the settlement between the local school board and the NAACP was submitted to U. S. District Court last week. The compromise, aimed at ending a 15-year-old desegregation case, called for busing 2,761 students and a black superintendent and more blacks in top administrative posts.

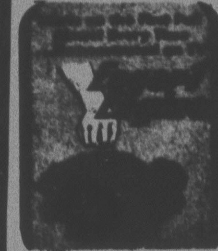

Core Intervenes In Atlanta Busing

TULSA -- (NBNS) -- Former Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes said last week the Federal Government could correct the problems of the cities almost immediately by directing "a massive infusion of funds" into metropolitan areas. Stokes, now a television newsman with NBC in New York, said the Government should support job training, relocation of the elderly outside the center city, education and other factors which have been a threat to the existence of the nation's largest cities. He was addressing an audience at Oral Robert's University Black Awareness Week.

POET'S CORNER

Depersonalization

In the history books he watched himself as a slave. He was separated from his family and from then on was called "nigger". He learned that inferiority and superiority were synonyms of being Black and White. If you're White you're superior and if you're Black you're inferior. He learned that laws would always keep him down and that segregation was forced on him in restaurants, stores, buses, churches, schools, public bathrooms, hospitals and housing areas. He was oppressed. His culture was taken away and after so many times of being told he was nothing he began to believe that it was true.

On the television shows he watched himself as a slave. He was seen in shows like "Amos and Andy", "Jack Benny", "The Little Rascals", "Danny Thomas", and in those starring Shirley Temple. He was lazy, always smiling with his white teeth and big eyes shining and was always the perfect black unintentional comedian.

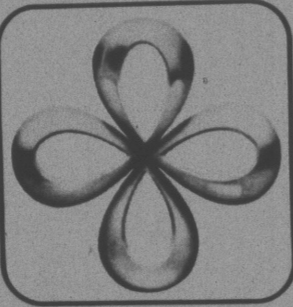

Where he lived he watched himself as a slave. His dwelling place was called a ghetto where he lived with the rats and the roaches. His school and apartment was overcrowded. He had to pay almost twice as much in his stores for groceries than those in other neighborhoods. Since his education was poor he had to take jobs as janitors, garbage men, or factory workers. He was told he wasn't college material and therefore was among the first to get drafted.

Time continued to pass and he was still a slave. He was beat with clubs and chains, bit by dogs, blasted down by water from water hydrants, shot down, stamped on, treated not like a human but a being with no feelings whatsoever. He was sent to Vietnam and there he was to die having been told to fight for a freedom that he himself had never experienced.

He (the Black man) has found the modern word that best describes all these conditions of servitude in this WASP society; depersonalization, the losing of identity in even being recognized and treated as a person.

If credit for the recent players-owners agreement is to go to one man, it should go to Curt Flood. Flood, who sacrificed a nine-year career to take baseball's reserve clause to the Supreme Court and lose, can now see his efforts reaping some results. The provision of the agreement that permits a player with 10 years of major league service, the last five with the same club, to reject a trade is part of what Flood was seeking in his suit. And now that a crack has been made in the wall other sports may help expand it, so that Flood's reserve clause may be a thing of the past.

The West Omaha home of St. Louis Cardinal pitcher Bob Gibson has for two years been the victim of vandalism that Mrs. Gibson has labeled "racially motivated." Incidents including broken windows and a bent mailbox have occurred at four distinct times while no other house in the neighborhood has been damaged. Mrs. Gibson, who is herself very much involved in the black community, attributes much of the abuse to her husband's frequently outspoken attitudes. The abuse has also taken form in telephone calls and irate letters which correspond to events in Gibson's career and to his wife's activities -- as when she resigned from the Omaha Human Relations Board saying the mayor and city council "were not listening."

The National Broadcasting Company has hired Maury Wills, the former Los Angeles Dodgers shortstop, to replace the resigning Sandy Koufax as commentator for the backup game of the week series. Wills, 40, who once set the record for most stolen bases in one season with 104, retired last year after 14 years in the majors.

Highland Neighbors
Fete Tredwells with Baby Shower

Mrs. Cuba E. Tredwell, Jr., was the honored guest at a Neighborhood Baby shower last Friday night in the Andred Small home.

The Tredwell's were showered with gifts ranging from bassinet to receiving blankets.

Among the 12 guests attending, prizes were won by the Mmes. Janie Zanders, Mary Dutton, Lynn Richardson, and guest-of-honor-Marguerite Tredwell.

Refreshments were served. Along with gifts, Mrs. Tredwell was presented the conversation piece of the evening -- a live-floral centerpiece sporting striped baby rubber pants, which was the handi-work of co-hostess, Mrs. Charles Quirk.

Hosting this event were Mmes. Charles Quirk and Andrew Small.

The controversial Chicago White Sox first baseman Dick Allen, who was branded a troublemaker by his first four managers, has just signed the richest contract in professional baseball. Last year's American League Most Valuable Player will receive an estimated $675,000 over three years, a considerable raise from the $130,000 he earned while hitting .308 with 37 homers and 118 runs-batted-in in 1972. Allen, who usually isn't eager to start training, said that he had decided in September to come to spring training and help the White Sox win the pennant.

In other signings, Willie Davis is reported to have become the fifth Dodger in history to reach the $100,000 plateau when he received a raise over the $90,000 he earned in 1972, while Frank Robinson signed with his new team, the California Angels, what he called "The best contract I've ever signed."

It was also a good week for football players moneywise with Detroit's Lem Barney and Minnesota's Carl Eller signing record contracts and Chicago's Carl Garrett receiving back pay that he lost during a three-week suspension last season. Barney became the highest paid defensive back in NFL history when he signed for $120,000 over a two-year span; while Eller, by accepting a four-year contract with bonus provisions made himself the highest paid lineman in Minnesota Viking history. Garrett, who appealed the suspension by his former team, the New England Patriots, to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, won a decision giving him the pay for the three games he missed after allegedly skipping a total of 13 practices--plus $5,500 in bonus money.

As the NBA playoffs approach, the New York Knicks are chasing the Eastern Division leaders, the Boston Celtics, who now lead by three games after the Knicks took a 123-91 victory behind Walt Frazier's fine performance. Frazier scored 28 points and established a new club record for assists with six to raise his total to 2,952, two more than Dick McGuire. First and fourth quarter scoring spurts sparked by Frazier provided the unusual 32 point margin.

The loss of rebounding and defensive strength suffered by the nationally ranked University of Maryland when center Lou Elmore broke his right foot became painfully evident in the stunning 62-60 upset of Maryland by the ACC's last-place team, Wake Forest. A deliberate offense and 68 percent shooting by Wake Forest proved effective against the Maryland Terrapins and dimmed their tournament chances should Elmore not return. Elmore was injured in the Terrapins' impressive 96-68 victory over Duke in which he had 10 points and 10 rebounds.

With the acquisition of world record holder Bob Beamon the fledgling professional International Track Association can now claim a top-notch long jump competition for their season premiere, March 24, in Los Angeles. Beamon, who astounded the world with a 29 foot 2-1/2 inch jump in the 1968 Mexico City Olympics that exceeded the old world record by nearly two feet, will compete against the likes of Henry Himes, Preston Carrington and Norm Tate.

As expected the January winner of the S. Rae Hickok poll for the Professional Athlete of the Year Award is heavyweight champion George Foreman for his stunning second-round victory over formerly undefeated Joe Frazier in Kingston, Jamaica. Foreman tallied 146 of 155 first-place votes. This obviously didn't impress Muhammad Ali, who said in Dallas that he won't fight Foreman until he proves himself. Ali reasoned that either Foreman landed a lucky punch or Frazier was still feeling the effects of his title bout with Ali two years ago.

Midtown Center

"Everything you've always wanted to know about medicare but didn't know who to ask!!!! On Thursday, March 15 there will be a meeting on medicare that is open to all area senior citizens.
 This meeting will be held at Pilgrims Rest Baptist Church 825 N. Barclay, Waterloo. It will start at 12:00 and last until 2:00. Free transportation can be arranged by phoning the Jesse Cosby Center (234-1793 or 234-1794). All senior citizens in this area are urged to attend this informative meeting.

Waterloo Public Library

Free movies for children will be shown at the West Public Library on Saturday, March 10. Show times are 10:30 a.m., 2:00 p.m. and 3:30 p.m.
 Films to be featured are "King Midas and the Golden Touch", the ancient fable of the King who turned his own daughter into gold, "Stream", a story that deals with water pollution, and two nature films, "Forest Babies" and "Ducks."

Tape cassettes of famous children's stories and tape players can now be borrowed from the Waterloo Public Library. 269 cassettes and 49 players were added to the library this week.
 Mrs. Betty Bergman, head of Youth Services at the library, said "This is something new for us and the children are excited about it. They like the idea of being able to borrow cassettes and players, take them home, and listen to stories. It opens up a whole new field of enjoyment."

The collection of cassettes includes many well-known children's stories such as "Rumpelstiltskin", "Angus and the Ducks", "Heidi", "Wind in the Willows", "Black Beauty", "Nursery Rhymes", excerpts from "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" and many others.
 Experienced narrators like Julie Harris, Carol Channing, Boris Karloff, Basil Rathbone and Ogden Nash tell the stories.
 Mrs. Berman also said that "Children who listen to all the tapes, even those that are above or below reading level, will have a good background in children's literature. They will be familiar with many of the great children's classics. We also feel that the tapes will help children who have reading difficulties. If they borrow both the book and the tape and read along while they listen, they will both see and hear the words and in that way improve their vocabulary."

More tapes will be added to the collection as they become available.

Attention

A Big Sisters Organization was started at the University of Northern Iowa this past fall, and we feel an expansion of the organization is needed in order to assist more 13-15 year old girls.

The purpose of the Big Sisters Organization is to provide black girls in the Waterloo community with a mature friend. The "big sisters" need to meet only two requirements: 18-25 years old and have sufficient time to devote to their little sister. If you are interested in becoming a "big sister", please contact Clozelle Reed at 273-6684 or Sharon Harris at 233-6921 before Wednesday, March 14.

Wartburg College

The Gospel choir of Wartburg college will present a spring concert on Saturday, March 10, at 7:30 p.m.

The featured guests will be DeLores Barrett Campbell and the Barrett Sisters.

Keith Burrows will direct the Wartburg Gospel choir.
 Admission charge is only $1. YOU should plan to attend.

The concert will be held in Neumann auditorium on the Wartburg campus.

U.N.I. News

The University of Northern Iowa was recently notified by the Dept. of H.E.W. that its grant application to increase KHKE (FM)'s power to 100,000 watts, convert to stereo and upgrade control room equipment has been approved in the amount of $129,448.

It's All in Your Mind -- 10 a.m. Topic: "Children-Race." The final program in the series includes an interview with Dr. Robert Liebert of the State University of New York at Stony Brook, an interview with Dr. Charles Thomas of the University of California at San Diego and excerpts from a symposium on children's racial attitudes.
 Louis Stokes Lecture -- 10:30 a.m. Congressman Louis Stokes, chairman of the Black Congressional Caucus, will speak "Black Politics: Coming Full Circle." The lecture was sponsored by the Martin Luther King Afro-American Center at Boston University.
 Festival USA -- 12:00 noon Folk-singer Judy Collins, a child prodigy on the piano at the age of 12, is the featured performer. Ms. Collins, who has suffered from both polio and tuberculosis, has grown beyond traditional ballads and protest songs to become an unsurpassed interpreter of contemporary songs.

Just Jazz -- 5:00 p.m. Highlighting the program will be the music of Julian "Cannonball" Adderley. Adderley, who completed college and was a high school music teacher for a time, gathered many of his ideas from Charlie Parker. Adderley is also well-known for his work with jazz workshops at colleges around the United States.

By recent action of the IHSAA Board of Control, additional protection has been purchased for those athletes participating in Association-sponsored tournaments. The coverage is secondary and is provided after the participants own insurance is used and would be extended up to a $5,000 limit. If the participant is uninsured, it would provide "first dollar" coverage.

Teacher Of The Week

Mrs. Yvonne Cavil is this week's honoree. Yvonne is a native of Chicago, Ill., where her father and mother are employed as a postal worker and a public school teacher respectively.

Yvonne received her early education on the Chicago Public schools and her B.A. Degree from Upper Iowa college in Fayette.

Ms. Cavil is married to Chester Cavil who is the assistant manager for F. W. Woolworth Co. in the College Square Shopping center. They are the parents of a son, Phillip, five months old.

Yvonne teaches a 4th and 5th grade combination at Cityview schools where she has served for two years.

She is the first teacher of the week that has been nominated by her fellow workers. The entire Cityview staff is vocal in their praise of Ms. Cavil and her dedication to her 25 students.

One Cityview staff member said, "One thing that we're really im-

New Personnel, Plans for Vocational Workshop

The Hawkeye Institute and the African Palace, Vocational Exploration program announces it's new personnel and the plans for their Vocational workshop.

Mr. Derrick Davis, who comes from Chicago, and has worked at the Martin Oil Co., as assistant manager, Community Youth Organization as a Musician, parent advisory board, with the Dept. of Human Resources, City Wide choir as a Musician, St. Mary's Baptist church as director of music and in Waterloo as part of the Terry Shane Trio. Mr. Davis is the education specialist, with the Vocational Exploration program.

VOCATIONAL WORKSHOP

We are planning to advance our career program by implementing a career workshop.

We hope to move beyond the jobs which offer little hope or requires little skill. We hope to move toward the better-paying and higher-skilled jobs.

In our workshop we hope to provide material that will insure the involvement of youth, teens, students, young adults, and all concerned citizens.

We hope to demonstrate a capacity to deal creatively with change. We hope to affirm the dignity of the individual and to be a continuing source of inspiration. We hope to work toward the necessary procedures, methods and attitudes that it takes to maintain a job.

We hope to create a workshop that will shift the cultural values in such a way that people will find a sense of vocation and meaning in the ways they choose to work for others and for society. We hope to cover all phases of employment such as: How to apply for a job; how to fill out an application; how to conduct an interview; how to have discipline, patience and a sense of concentration. We hope to teach managerial skills, organizing, planning directing, controlling and staffing.

Managerial skills, of course, will not be learned overnight. You can only be a manager by managing; that means by applying the principles of management to your work situation. As you go you will no doubt make mistakes here and there but, in turn you will learn from your mistakes. That's why we have got to have all phases of management working with us to give these young people a chance to prove themselves. That's the only way our program can work.

We hope to utilize every means of expertise to improve our community through our young people. So let's get together and be a helping community rather than a hindering one.

A 25-man Representative Council formulates the aims and policies of the IHSAA and has the power to initiate amendments and new rules for the Executive Secretary to submit to the electorate. Council members are elected to five-year terms by member schools.

OEO Supporters Gain Momentum

WASHINGTON - (NBNS) - Supporters of the Office of Economic Opportunity, the government anti-poverty agency which is currently being phased out, gained some supporters this week in the form of 18 bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal church, the Congressional Black Caucus, the Washington Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, and a union representing OEO headquarters employees, the American Federation of Government Employees.

AME BISHOPS PROTEST SOCIAL PROGRAM CUTBACKS

WASHINGTON - (NBNS) - Calling the Nixon Administration's social policies "dehumanizing" to black and poor people, 12 bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal (AME) Church last week strongly denounced the President's budget cuts, the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity, and the impoundment of Congressionally-appropriated funds.

In a press conference with the Congressional Black Caucus--which is comprised of the 15 black members of the House, all of whom are Democrats--the bishops said they would unite with other groups, including white church leaders, to fight the budget cutbacks and called on the President to "rescind these threats to the very vital lifeline of our communities."

The bishops said they were attempting to serve as "voices of prophets trying to avoid a long, hot summer."

"We're trying to take the leadership for the people in the street," said Bishop D. Ward Nichols, the group's spokesman. "If our voices are not heard, I greatly fear the radicals will take to the streets in the summer and there will be bloodshed. We are here to ask Congress to help avoid what we see coming."

Four of the bishops--who have taken a conservative stance in the past--supported President Nixon's re-election last year. However, last week, Bishop Nichols said, "but the majority of black people did not support the President."

Noting that they were becoming activists for the first time in the 157-year history of the church,
