70 PINTS OF BLOOD DONATED

The quite, unassuming LPN, Mrs. Jergene Delaney, is the real hero in the gathering in of blood for Mr. Bennie Scott on Tuesday.

Close to 100 persons came and attempted to give blood for a fellow community member.

For many different medical reasons, some of those who wanted to be donors were deferred.

However, at least 70 pints were collected.

Ms. Delaney came to Waterloo from Greenwood, Miss., just 8 years ago. Since that time she has added much to our community.

Ms. Delaney is married to Willie Delaney who is employed by John Deere and they are the parents of one daughter, Doris, age 6.

Besides being an active member of Arria Court #5, Knights of Pythias, she is also a member of the Board of Directors of the YWCA and the Visiting Nurses Association.

Ms. Delaney, who completed her nurses training in 1970 at Hawkeye Institute of Technology, is employed at Schoitz Hospital.

It was through her activities at Schoitz that she became aware of Mr. Bennie Scott.

Ms. Delaney proved on Tuesday that one person can and does make a difference.

Ms. Delaney came with her "brainstorm" of helping Mr. Scott to her lodge.

They agreed to help but it was more or less to be "her thing."

This lady inspired the group so much until they soon all began to pitch right in.

Some ladies typed, some baked cookies, some served juices, some served as Nurse Assistants. Even a teen-ager, Maxine Turner, served as a Nurses Assistant.

It was a good feeling to see the community come together to help a brother out.

Mid-day on Tuesday, two gentlemen came into the blood center to deliver cups. They were immediately "pounced on" and asked to give blood.

One of the gentlemen, after a little pep talk readily responded. It turned out that that donor was none other than the Hawkeye Chapter Chairman of the Red Cross, Mr. Bernard Ceilley. Mr. Ceilley's actions made him a very popular man in the "DEFENDER" community.

The DEFENDER does not intend to let last Tuesday be the end of our involvement. Those who were unable to give blood still can do so.

The Red Cross receives blood from donors every Monday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and every Thursday from 3 to 7 p.m.

Those who DID have an opportunity to give can give again for eight weeks.

Nixon List Is Racist, Rangel Charges

The White House list of enemies which includes all members of the Congressional Black Caucus is clearly "evident of blatant racism in the administration," Rep. Charles B. Rangel said.

Rangel, who is secretary of the caucus, "shows that the White House is ready to investigate, intimidate, harass and even remove those who stand in its way," he said in referring to the list released by former White House Presidential Counsel John Dean.

The DEFENDER joins the Knights of Pythias in thanking all of the wonderful people who volunteered their services. Also many thanks to the Red Cross staff who worked so hard.

Mr. Bennie Scott is very appreciative to the entire city for their response.

"The inclusion in the list of White House enemies released by John Dean of every black congressman can be interpreted only as evidence of blatant racism in the administration," he said.

Pointing out that no other racial or ethnic group of congressmen was part of the list, the Harlem Democrat said the caucus was committed "to social progress, economic opportunity and equal justice for all Americans."

"It is this commitment which threatens the administration and makes it ready to bring the full force of government to bear to destroy those who seek to be the advocates of the people," Rangel continued.

"First the Congressional Black Caucus is singled out as the enemy, then what follows? Are all black people in America to be so classified and dealt with as enemies of this administration?"

Conyers Calls For House Watergate Panel

A veteran black Congressman from Michigan has called on the House of Representatives to establish its own committee to investigate the Watergate and procedures for Presidential impeachment.

Making it clear that he was not calling for the impeachment of the President, U. S. Rep. John Conyers, Democrat of Michigan, said he believed the House should prepare for the possibility of an impeachment with the formation of the committee he recommended.

Last year, along with five other Congressmen, Conyers introduced a resolution of impeachment against President at the time of increased bombing in Southeast Asia. At the time, he said that the President was guilty of conducting a war in Southeast Asia without consent of the Congress, as required by the Constitution.

In pointing out that only the Congress can subpoena a President, Conyers told reporters at a news conference that the House has the power "and more importantly, the responsibility, to determine whether or not the President has been guilty of any wrongdoing."

Health Programs For Poor In Jeopardy, Rogers Says

Community mental health centers, migrant workers' health services and other medical programs are in jeopardy, since the Administration has taken steps to nullify a new health bill.

Congressman Paul Rogers has revealed that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is moving to require many of the bills' programs become financially self-sufficient.

This is regarded as literally impossible since many of these are programs for the poor which makes them incapable of becoming self-sufficient.

The Florida Democrat disputed the Administration's claim that Congress required the health services delivery projects to be, or become, self-sustaining community based operations in order to get federal funds.

Recently, the President signed the health bill into law. Since both Houses of Congress had approved them by rather wide margins, it was regarded as futile for the President to veto the measure.

President Nixon said the health bill was a "reasonable compromise" since programs under it were extended for only a year.

The announcement in the Federal Register last month regarding the proposed regulations said:

"Such action is taken because demonstration projects are inherently made for a limited period of time and as a result of the conclusion that the cost of scarcity of health services in general require that the provision of health services through the present grant to contract funding mechanisms be made more efficient, effective and equitable."

Rep. Rogers said the proposed regulations would "doom all migrant health programs, all neighborhood health centers, and about half of the community mental health centers."

Rogers, who is chairman of the House subcommittee on Public Health and Environment, wrote HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger and told him he believed the proposed regulations were illegal.

He asked Weinberger to supply evidence by July 2 that it was the intent of Congress to make all the programs self-sustaining.

"With the exception of the community mental health centers legislation in which we determined that finite number of years of support would be provided, I know of no legislative history which would substantiate these regulations for any of the other health programs affected," Rogers said in contending that the Administration had made no attempt to consult with Congress.

"It's just another way of saying that they are going to cut out the programs completely."

He said this was the third assault on the nation's health care programs. The first two, he said, was the impoundment of funds for Congressionally approved programs and the Administration's cut of health programs by refusing to ask for funds for them in the 1974 federal budget.

High Court Warns North Of De Facto Bias

In a decision applying to the Denver school system in particular and Northern school systems in general, the Supreme Court last week warned Northern public schools that they may be found guilty of fostering dual -- and therefore unconstitutional -- school systems and that they will be required to take corrective action to eliminate racial segregation in such schools.

The high court, in its first major case involving the race issue in Northern schools, held that a school system which is found engaging in significant acts of discrimination will have to demonstrate why it should not be forced to desegregate all schools in the district.

Except for rare instances where geography divides a school district into separate units, the Court stated, "proof of state-imposed segregation in a substantial portion of the district will suffice to support a finding by the trial court of the existence of a dual system."

"Of course, where the finding is made, as in cases involving statutory (Southern) dual systems, the school authorities have an affirmative duty to effectuate a transition to a racially non-discriminatory school system," Justice William J. Brennan Jr. wrote for the majority.

In so ruling, the high court applied in the North some of the legal principles used in desegregation cases in the South. However, the Court stopped short of formally distinguishing between de jure (by law) and de facto (actual) segregation, in spite of appeals by Justices William O. Douglas and Lewis F. Powell, Jr.

Last week's decision which was in response to a suit brought by Wilfred Keyes, a black school teacher, against the Denver, Colo., school board, concluded that while there have never been laws requiring separation of the races in Denver schools, a deliberate action by the school board resulted in constructing schools and setting attendance zones which isolated blacks in certain schools.

According to the Court, this move amounted to an unconstitutional act.

Previously, plaintiffs had no trouble proving a constitutional violation of the law in the South, where the age-old practice of desegregation existed by law. However, under the recent ruling, plaintiffs in the North, where segregation does not exist by law but rather in practice -- such as housing patterns -- must prove that a deliberate and official act of segregation has occurred.

Justice Brennan pointed out that such proof can be obtained even in a state like Colorado, where there is no history of de jure segregation and which is forbidden in the state constitution.

Once the discriminatory act has been proven in court, however, Brennan said, school board protests about neighborhood school policies alone will not serve to prevent wide-ranging student reassignments.

Attorneys for the NAACP Legal Defense Fund cheered the Denver decision although the ruling is not expected to have an impact on cases in cities such as Richmond, Va., where a longstanding history of de jure segregation and organized resistance to integration attempts failed to move the high court to uphold a lower court order to merge the city (predominantly black) school district with two nearby suburban (predominantly white) districts.

In the 7 to 1 decision, the Court voted to reverse the lower court's findings that the Denver school system as a whole was not segregated, but did not order the lower courts to return a finding that the school system is, in effect, segregated and, therefore, revise its earlier finding.

Justice Byron White, a former Colorado resident, did not participate.

The lone dissenter, Justice William Rehnquist, said the Court "has taken a long leap in this area of constitutional law in equating the district-wide consequences of berrymandering individual attendance zones in a district where separation of the races was never required by law with statutes or ordinances in other jurisdictions which did so require."

"It then adds to this pot pourri," Rehnquist added, "a confusing enunciation of evidentiary rules in order to make it more likely that the trial court will, on remand, reach the result which the court apparently wants it to reach."

Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. concurred in sending the case back to district court, but, in a partial dissent, stressed that the courts should stop maintaining a double standard in desegregation cases in the North as opposed to those in the South and should develop and implement desegregation solutions which are not so dependent on busing.

Appeals Court Affirms Phillips Ouster

A federal appellate court has affirmed the ouster of Howard Phillips as acting director of the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), the nation's anti-poverty agency.

For the time being anyway, the U. S. Court of Appeals said the Economic Opportunity Act of 1970 "reinforces rather than diminishes the requirement of Senate confirmation." The court suggested that government attorneys had not shown "sufficient likelihood to reverse the ruling of U. S. District Judge William B. Jones.

Federal lawyers had told the court that the agency would suffer "irreparable injury" if the appeal was upheld.

But the court said it was "unable to resolve those issues because of a lack of sufficient information."

Hinting that it was not impressed with the argument that the President had the power to appoint Phillips to the job as acting director, although the law requires Senate confirmation of the appointment, and Phillips has never been confirmed by the Congress the Court insisted that it was not judging the case on its merits, but merely denying the government request for a stay.

One attorney pointed out that the appeals court "... is giving Jones the opportunity to decide whether his decision to oust Phillips means everything he (Phillips) did was unlawful to whether there should be a distinction drawn between his acts."

But Jones will probably also have to decide how the agency will be run when Phillips is removed.

The suit, pressing for Phillips ouster, was filed by Senators Harrison Williams of New Jersey, Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, Walter Mondale of Minnesota and William Hathaway of Maine. All of them are Democrats.

Phillips took over OEO on January 29 when President Nixon announced plans to dismantle the agency. Earlier this year, Jones ruled that the phase-out of the agency was illegal and ordered it stopped immediately. The Phillips ruling followed that decision.

Waterloo Public Library

Names of the children who won prizes in the first three weeks of the "Pirate's Treasure" program at the public libraries were announced by Mrs. Betty Bergman, head of Youth Services.

"During our summer activities, each child who comes to any of the public library outlets -- the East Library, the West Library or the Mobile libraries -- has a chance to win a paperback book," Mrs. Bergman said, "and each week there are eight winners." "Every Saturday, in all the libraries, we have two drawings. First we draw the name of a preschool age child. He wins a paperback picture book. Then we draw the name of a youngster in the intermediate grades. He makes his choice from a variety of paperbacks," she said.

Pre-school winners for the first three weeks in June are: Brian Cose, Diane Patterson, Wanda Schebach, Peggy Clark, Sherry DeGroote, Chris Dolan, Joyce Brustkern, Penny North, Tina Ann Cooper, Scottie Levi and Ellen Jensen.

Intermediate grade winners are: Scott Wenthe, Jimmy Payne, Luann Dee Aneweer, Craig Bachen, Tom Ede, Christy Brockmeier, Julie Rokes, David Reinard, Lori Hiley, Steve Anderson, Amy Brustkern and Amy Weber.

The weekly drawings will continue until the last week in July. Children do not have to be present at the drawings to win.

Old time movies starring Charlie Chaplin and Laurel and Hardy will be shown at the West Public Library on Saturday, July 14.

The short films include "Behind the Screen", "Double Whoopee" and "Laughing Gravy".

They will be shown in the Youth Services Department at 10:30 a.m., 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Each showing will last approximately one hour.

The Waterloo Public Library will provide free movies for children at the Maywood and Black Hawk schools next week.

Miss Jeanne Lompe, head of the School Stations Department at the library, said, "This is the first time we have shown movies in the schools as part of our summer library activities. We have always had public library books at the schools for the children to borrow, but now that films are available at the downtown library we can have some free shows for them too."

Three films will be shown at Maywood School on Wednesday, July 18, at 10:30 a.m. They are "Grizzly Bear," "Moonbird" and "Robinson's Island."

The same films will be shown at Black Hawk School on Friday, July 20, at 10:30 a.m.

White Couple Wins Right To Black Kids

A white couple in Ellenville, N. Y. have been allowed to keep two black children, who they want to adopt, despite efforts of the local welfare agency.

The children have been with the John Morrrows for 18 months now. Last year the children's mother died and the parents asked to adopt the two children. The identity of the father is unknown.

Last week, a social worker took the youngsters out of class and advised them they would be sent to another home the following day.

The Morrrows then planned a demonstration to protest the seizure of the kids. And the NAACP agreed to help along with several members of the county legislature. The couple have no children of their own.

But the county social service commissioner, Bernhardt Kramer, reversed his social worker's decision when he learned of it.

"I looked into it, and I decided the children are to remain in the Morrow home," he said. "I also told her (Mrs. Morrow) she can submit a petition to adopt the children."

Mrs. Morrow and her husband, John, who is a department store salesman, said they couldn't believe the assistance people gave them.

New Odd Job Program In Waterloo

Operation Threshold Youth Development has announced a new odd job program for the youth of the metropolitan area. The program, to be called, Rent-A-Teen, will service Evansdale, Elk Run, Waterloo and Cedar Falls youth. The program is designed for youth between the ages of 14 and 18. Employment will be found throughout the metropolitan area doing odd jobs, such as babysitting, lawn work, washing cars, cleaning, painting, etc. Residents will be able to call a central number for aid in finding a youth to help them with their odd jobs. Through the cooperation of five different agencies in the community, Operation Threshold Youth Development hopes to be able to reach all youth that are interested in the program.

Any youth, between 14 and 18 wishing to apply to be part of the Rent-A-Teen program can do so at any of the following offices: Evansdale - The Evansdale Youth Center, 3543 Lafayette Road; West Waterloo - The New School, 414 West 11th; East Waterloo - The YWCA, East Park and Lafayette; and Cedar Falls - The Joynt, 102 1/2 East Third.

House Panel Gives Domestic Programs Funding

The House Appropriations Committee, normally a conservative-oriented group, has voted to buck the President and approve a number of domestic programs that Nixon wanted abolished or reduced.

Declaring it "could not possibly accept the meat-ax approach to the problem which was proposed in the (President's) budget," the committee sent to the House floor a measure which calls for $32.8 billion to fund the Office of Economic Opportunity, and the Department of Labor and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and related agencies in the fiscal year scheduled to begin July 1.

That figure is more than $1.2 billion in excess of what the President requested and may be inviting another Presidential veto. None of the President's vetoes have been overridden by Congress this year.

The OEO and its legal services and community action programs would be reduced under the measure as the agency would receive $333.8 million. The President asked that the program be dismantled.

Another $1.8 billion would continue elementary and secondary school aid at current levels, although the President wanted these consolidated into a special education revenue sharing plan.

Other programs funded included: $15 million for construction of community mental health centers. The Nixon Administration did not request funds for this program.

$197.2 million to support regional medical programs. The President wanted this eliminated too.

$324.6 million more to finance the training of health personnel and to construct medical schools.

At the same time, the committee voted to reduce to $440.5 million the shifting of aid to higher education students into a new system of basic educational opportunity grants. The President had asked for $959 million.

And it also restored $176.2 million for library assistance programs, which the Administration also wanted done away with.

The $827.5 million approved for the Labor Department was just a little bit below the President's request.
