Sermon of The Week

By Dr. D. O. Bell, Pastor of Mt. Carmel Baptist Church
The Lord Is My Shepherd: I Shall Not Want—PS. 23-1
Subject—The Great Shepherd.

Rev. D. O. Bell

I shall not want food. "I am the bread of life. He that cometh to me shall never hunger."

I shall not want drink. "If any man thirst, let him come unto me and drink."

I shall not want rest. "Come unto me all that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest."

I shall not want guidance. "I am the way; No man cometh unto the Father but by me."

I shall not want companionship. "I have called you my friends. Lo, I am with you always."

I shall not want joy. "These things I have spoken unto you that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full."

I shall not want honor. "If any man serve me, him will my father honor."

I shall not want comfort. "Let not your heart be troubled. He shall give you another comforter, that He may abide with you forever."

I shall not want any good thing.

"If ye shall ask anything in my name I will do it. No good thing will He withhold from them that walk uprightly."

I shall not want life. "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

I shall not want power over death. "Who so ever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die. Believest thou this?"

I shall not want life eternal. "I go to prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also."

felt one sentiment upon finishing the autobiography—it could have been longer.

My association with Mrs. Groff throughout the years as a mother has made me aware of the vast storehouse of knowledge which she possesses and her day to day experiences which add to that storehouse. I feel that it would be a great asset to the community if the Waterloo Post asked Mrs. Groff to submit articles answering questions of readers, discussing current health problems, and relating her experiences. I'm sure that Mrs. Groff's articles would be not only interesting but also most helpful.

I'm very concerned about the Infantile Paralysis that is sweeping through Iowa as well as the rest of the country. If Mrs. Groff consents, please ask that she discuss this problem and its prevention and cure in her first article. Mrs. Carrie Price 338 Adams Street

My Dear Mrs. Potter,

Perhaps I haven't shown my appreciation but I have really and truly enjoyed your goodness in sending me these papers. I received a paper today. I have really enjoyed them but I have reached the point where it will do me no good to have anyone write any more letters. I shall be on my way home in a matter of days. Believe me I shall be very happy.

I have been transferred into a mixed company and I really like it so far. In a way I think it is better to be in a mixed company. That way you can learn to live as a whole.

YOUR TEETH AND YOUR LIFE

by Dr. Robert F. Harvey
Waterloo Dentist

Disatema

Certain constitutional diseases will cause spaces to occur between all teeth. Spaces in special places are most often due to local causes. Other spaces are caused by the losses of deciduous and permanent teeth. In many instances these spaces should be held open by retainers in children and dentures in adults.

Acromegaly, congenital syphilis, tumors which expand the jaw, and advanced periodontitis (inflammation and destruction of the soft tissues surrounding the teeth) are other causes of diastema or space between the teeth.

Because of the esthetics involved, perhaps, the kind of diastema that concerns the general public most is that kind which occurs between the two upper front teeth. And it is not strange that worries the female more than the male, being a greater source of social embarrassment to them.

How long has it been since you and your children had a dental examination? Do you plan to give them as little or less dental care than your parent gave you?

Are your children free from mouth troubles or, are they constantly crying and complaining because of aching teeth or "gum boils" which prevent their eating properly and studying lessons adequately?

Do you know that one of the causes of rheumatic fever in young children is due to a focus of infection in the mouth such as deep seated cavities, cysts, "gum boils", etc?

Whenever you laugh, talk or eat, nobody can overlook your teeth. If they are not good you are self-conscious about them. If they are good, you can relax and be yourself. Thus have a direct influence on personality. They have an even more important one on health. Neglected teeth, unhealthy mouth tissues contribute to a flock of human ailments. Do this:

1. Check in with your dentist at least twice a year. Have an x-ray examination if he recommends it.
2. Brush your teeth in the right way.
3. Eat well of the seven basic foods — milk, eggs, meats, grains, butter, vegetables, fruits.

SAYS HARLEM GHETTOES ARE AMONG THE WORST

New York (ANP) — The Negro people and the Puerto Rican people are being kicked around, and that's the problem we've got to meet squarely and got to beat squarely," City Council President Rudolph Halley told persons at a luncheon of the Urban League of Greater New York at the Hotel Theresa. Councilman Stanley M. Issac was the other guest speaker.

"Here we are maintaining ghettos that match anything that I've ever seen in the south or anywhere else," Halley stated.

Striking at what he termed dilapidated and indecent housing that spread disease and human misery, Halley called for stricter housing-inspection and street cleaning in Harlem as a means of discouraging 'speculation in human misery.'

Fact and Fun

Dick Wright for ANP

Some folks like crooner Johnny Ray, the gaunt, groan and grimacing man, and some folks don't like him. Anyway, the young singer kicked around numerous Negro and black and tan establishments before he became one of the nation's top money makers. At one time his manager was the owner of one of Detroit's showiest bistros and this story concerns these two gents.

A slightly inebriated gent took it upon himself to slur Ray one night, and among other things he loudly proclaimed, "Nothing about Johnny Ray is a man."

The owner of the Bistro took exception, heaved the drunk out to the curb, and declared, "I am."

"The man I marry must be a hero."

"Oh, come now," he gallantly said, "you're not that bad looking, sweetheart."

Facts exclusively for male consumption:

When she hangs onto you every word — you're a bridegroom.

When they listen to you and then do as they darn well please — you're a father.

When you have to shout to be heard — old dude, you're a grandfather.

A seemingly ambitious youngster applied for a job as movie usher for a local theater. He was rushed into a uniform and out to work. But he was back in less than an hour, his face wearing an indignant expression.

"I quit," he said.

"Isn't the pay good enough?" asked the manager.

"Sure," said the youngster, "but I've seen the show once all ready."

A 12 year old who had been reading the sagas of great Negro leaders asked his father, "What was your ambition when you was as old as I am now?"

Matter-of-factly, the unromantic father answered, "To wear long pants, son. And I got my wish, because I don't know anybody who wears his pants longer than I do."

Spelling is and always has been my bugbear. The results of a recent survey show that I am not alone and that even such well-known name as Shakespeare is spelled 27 different ways by supposedly educated people.

- The survey stated that poor spelling is due to two primary factors: 1. Failure to enunciate correctly, and 2. failure to pronounce by syllables. As possible aids to spelling, the following rules were offered:
1. Look at a strange word until you have a clear mental picture of it.
 2. Look up its pronunciation in a good dictionary and pronounce it aloud several times.
 3. Spell the word at least a dozen times.
 4. Write it down at least a dozen times.
 5. Use the word in a sentence or two.
 6. Make a habit of using the word in your daily speaking and writing whenever possible.

The teacher eyed her pupil accusingly, saying, "Freddie, your essay on 'My Mother' is exactly the same as your brother's word for word."

"Yes'm," Freddie grinned, "We both have the same mother."

"Joe talks an awful lot, doesn't he?" said one lovely young thing to another. "He keeps his mouth wagging all the time."

"I'll tell you he does," agreed the other. "He bores me even when he talks about me."

Fashion Trends

by Freddy S. Henderson

If you have been shopping around in the fur coat salons of the nation's stores, you might have noticed that the selection seems a bit limited this year.

Not that there is an actual shortage of coats and other fur items, but many familiar names have disappeared from the labels. Gone are such familiar names as Hudson seal, Mendoza beaver, Galland squirrel, and even the popular lapin and coney.

If in your shopping around, you see such names on the labels, then you better grab your pocketbook and start running, for now such fancy fashion jargon is no longer acceptable according to the recent Federal Trade Commission's fur labeling act. Such furs will have to be called what they are: just plain rabbit.

This law says that all fur coats and other fur garments must be advertised and sold under the "true English name of the animal from which the fur was taken." And the Federal Trade Commission has prepared a list of upwards of 100 "true English names" alpaca to zebra which will let the customer know just what fur she is buying.

Naturally this law is designed to protect the customer, and help her by letting her, if not get her money's worth, certainly know what she is getting. In this the Commission is right, since one of its chief functions is to protect the customer.

But somehow I wonder if the customer really want to be protected at all times.

That there was some merit, however, dubious, in the use of such misnomers can be justified by some in the snob appeal that they carried. For instance, who wouldn't prefer saying that her newly acquired fur is "black marten" instead of skunk; "genet" instead of pussy-cat; "blue Japanese Wolf" instead of dyed goat; or Manchurian wolf instead of Chinese dog?

By far most of the fancy fur names were "just bunny, honey, making itself a lot of money."

Of course it is too early to tell just what effect this ruling will have on fur sales, but it probably will mean that those women who buy their furs for show and conversation pieces instead of for more functional purposes will just wait until they can afford what they will be proud to call by its "true English name," or just get a little bit of a big fur — a mink stole instead of a mink coat or a broadtail cape instead of a whole coat.

And if that does happen, it can be said that the ruling has helped to reduce the fine art of hypocrisy among women — a most interesting, and perhaps unforeseen by-products.

Mrs. Valetta Fields Attends League Of Women Voters

Mrs. Valetta Fields, 816 Sumner Street, Secretary of the Waterloo League of Women Voters, took an active part in the "School for Political Effectiveness" sponsored by the league last week.

This school was held as a part of the league's drive to interest women in politics. Sixty organizations representing church and club groups throughout the city were represented at the five sessions which were held at the Y.W.C.A. Mmes Walter Betsworth, Don Graham, and Ben Cohen conducted the school.

East session was divided into three parts. The first consisted of a humorous skit entitled, "Don't Be a Vombie!" A Vombie is a person, though living, is dead as far as her government is concerned, because she isn't registered to vote. It was suggested that a Vombie could be brought back to life by telling her When, Where, and How she can register and Haunting her until she does. Mrs. Fields participated in the skit which showed the inadequacy of reasons given by many women who do not exercise their right to vote.

The slogan for the second portion of the session was: "Look, Read, Listen, Talk, Argue, Think—then Vote." Three talks were given during this portion entitled "Politics Is Your Job", "You Can Be The Life Of The Party", and "Yardstick of Voting."

In the first talk, the definition of politics was stressed: Acting together to get something done about a common problem. It was stated that the only think wrong with our politics is the need for more people interested in more and better politics. Another point emphasized was that "One Vote Does Count". "One Votes" count up to make the mighty force for truth — the voice of the people in a democracy.

The second talk was a discussion of the jobs of parties. To fill offices, to agree on political aims, to carry out the work of the government or to criticize the work of the government; to bring all kinds of people together to educate politically, and to act as a middleman between the citizens and officialdom.

The concluding talk stressed how to make a decision on voting considering the party, the issues and the candidates. Representatives attending the sessions were reminded that one vote has many times influenced and changed an election.

The third part of the session featured a quiz. The slogan for this part was "See You At The Polls—The Women Won't Want To Be Left Out."

...Langston Hughes, poet laureate of the Negro, in his lighter moments tells a story of one of his aspiring poet friends. According to Hughes the would-be poet would get up in the middle of the night to jot down lines that came to him out of the gloom.

...Langston Hughes describes the things as "going from bed to verse."

A school teacher once told her class to listen to their parents talk and when they heard a new word to look its meaning up in a dictionary.

The next day she told them to write down the new words they had heard, and write sentences using the words.

When it came Jimmy's turn, he had but one word, "pregnant." His definition, according to the dictionary, was "to carry a child." The teacher then asked Jimmy to read his sentence with the word and Jimmy read:

"I saw a fireman climb a ladder and go into a burning building. When he came down the ladder again he was pregnant."

PERRY HOWARD PREDICTS IKE VICTORY

Mississippi Attorney Says:

"Negroes Should Avoid Sparkman"

Washington (ANP)—Atty. Perry W. Howard, National Republican committeeman from Mississippi, predicted last week that the majority of the Negro votes will go for the Republican ticket this year.

In a private interview, the GOP leader expressed his belief that a great number of Negro voters will support Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower because of his stand on the issues of corruption, inflation, foreign policy and high taxes.

"But the most overshadowing issues of our group should be 'Sparkmanism' which mean anti-civil rights," proclaimed Howard.

Negroes shudder, he continued when they think that should the Democrats be elected and a succession should occur in the White House making it necessary for the vice president to succeed the President, "that it would be Alabama in the White House and woe unto us!"

He pointed out that the nation has great confidence in Ike because of his great statesmanship and executive business ability.

Although he had strongly supported Sen. Robert Taft for the Presidential nomination, Howard agreed that since the Ohioan was defeated, he realizes that "Eisenhower is the next best man and certainly the best of all candidates now running."

It was perfectly obvious who the Mississippi committeeman was supporting by the huge picture of Gen. Eisenhower covering almost the entire area of one window of his office, and the three silver letters "Ike" upon which he was wearing upon the lape of his coat.

He feels that Sen. Taft's support of Gen. Eisenhower has greatly strengthened the party. There is a great possibility that the Republicans will win this election, stated Howard, because it is generally agreed that there certainly should be a change, especially when the Democratic administration has literally petered out.

Howar does not think, however, that the Republicans will carry the South. There is a possibility that Florida and Louisiana will go Republican.

"But how Negroes in the South can support the Democratic ticket is beyond me," Howard said. He referred to the treatment which the southern Negro receives under the Democratic administration, recalling that even the Negro Democratic leaders are not free to attend southern Democratic meetings.

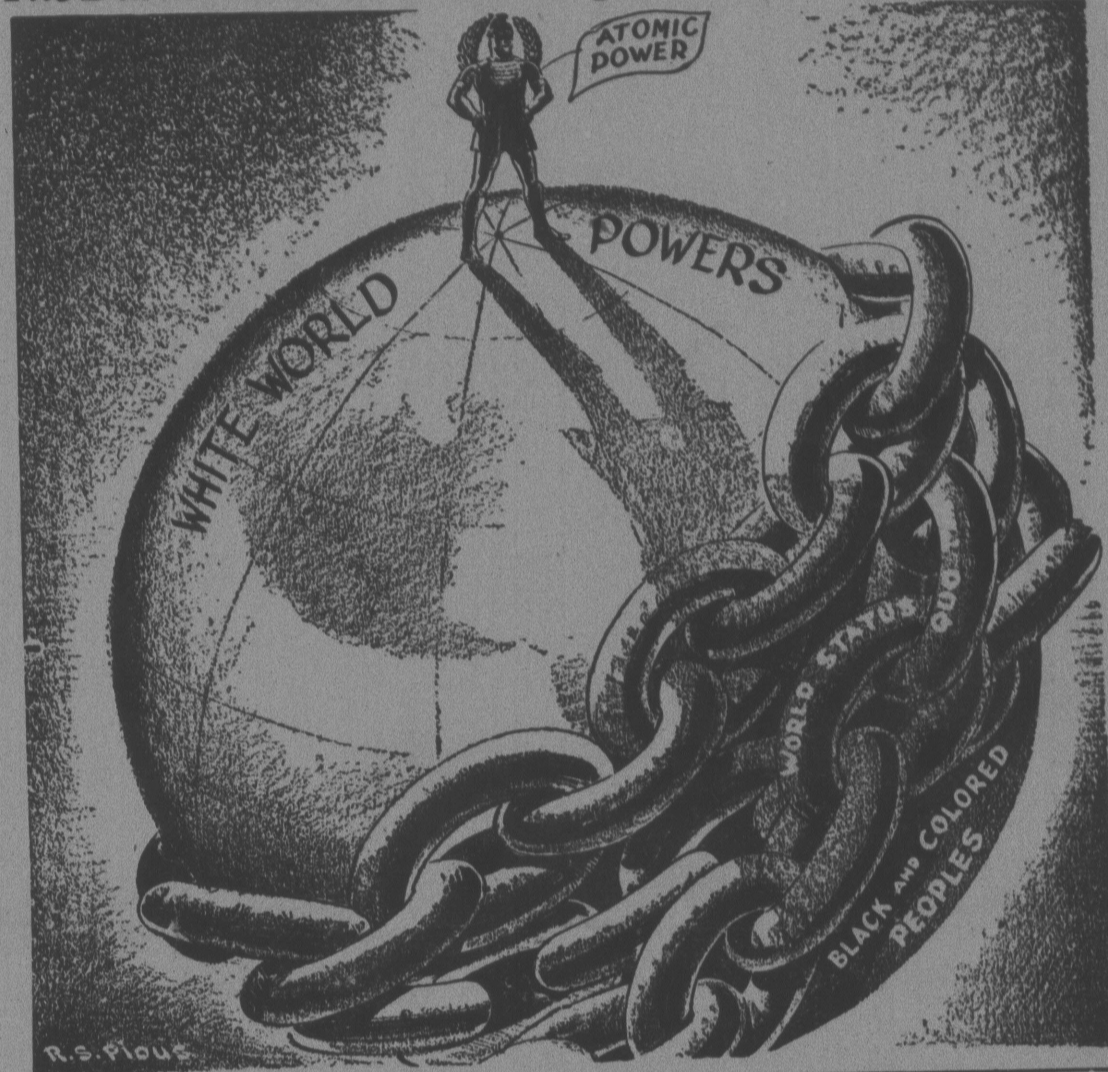

"They are voted like cattle without any voice," he said.

He does not feel that Gen. Eisenhower's visit with Gov. Jimmy Byrnes of South Carolina will have any ill effect on Negro voters because it is generally known, said Howard, that it is only Byrnes' desperate hatred for Truman that is driving him to Eisenhower.

"Byrnes and Eisenhower have nothing politically in common," commented the Washington attorney. "They couldn't have since Byrnes, in my opinion, is worse than the late Ben Tilman of South Carolina or the late Sen. Bilbo of Mississippi."

He thinks the Nixon controversy resulted in giving the party its best "shot in the arm." Since all of the Nixon publicity the pace of the campaign has been greatly accelerated on the Republican side of the house, concluded Howard.

DEMOCRAT DINNER SLATED FOR OCT. 16 AT CEDAR FALLS

Returns From Staff Confab

Brig. Gen. Robert Lee Oden of the Antlered Guard of the State of Iowa has just returned from Philadelphia, Pa., where he was called by the Grand Exalted Ruler Robert H. Johnson to take part in the General Staff meeting Sunday, October 5th.

Brig. Gen. Oden reports that there were over 300 members in attendance at this meeting. Every state in the union was represented with the exception of California, Colorado and Oklahoma. These states were represented by proxy. Business of much importance as to the Antlered Guard was discussed.

Brig. Gen. Oden was re-appointed and commended by the General Staff for the splendid work he has accomplished in Iowa. There were only three working units in Iowa when he was first appointed. Now there are seven units and prospects of more. He reports that the Antlered Guard is growing stronger and larger throughout the States.

Also from the Mid-West were Major General Roy E. Barnett of Chicago, Ill., Brig. Gen. Pascal Todd of Minnesota and Brig. Gen. Richardson of Nebraska.

Gen Oden reports that he had a very pleasant trip and met many new and old friends.

to the Editor

In response to the Letter to the Editor in last week's issue, we will soon publish articles submitted by Mrs. Catherine Detriech Groff of the Visiting Nurses Association. Mrs. Groff kindly consented to submit articles and asked that the Post inform the readers that she would gladly answer any questions that they might have concerning health.

She had planned to discuss "Infantile Paralysis" in this issue. However, Saturday, October 4th she underwent an emergency tonsilectomy and will have to remain on the sick list for at least two weeks.

We realize the grand work that Mrs. Groff is doing in our community. Let us show our appreciation by sending cards to her at 1642 Forest.

BEGGAR OF THE WEEK

Detroit (ANP)—After spending all of his money one night in eastside beer gardens, Oscar Rose last week discovered that he didn't even have carfare left to go home.

Rose, 41, did what he said he thought was the best and safest thing to do. He walked into the First precinct police station and demanded carfare to get home.

Instead of getting carfare, he was locked up for begging.

Thursday Rose told Recorder's Judge Joseph A. Gillis that he knew there was a law against begging on the streets of Detroit.

"Your honor," said Rose, "that is why I went to the police station and asked for 15 cents because I didn't want to get arrested for begging."

MRS. SMITH SAYS WATERLOO HAS GROWN IN THE LAST 40 YEARS

Very few residents of our community are not familiar with Mrs. Mary Alice Smith, wife of the late U.G. Smith, whose quiet yet winning manner has attracted many friends. Daily seen by passersby working in her garden, inspecting her flowers and caring for her chickens, Mrs. Smith pauses only long enough to speak and smile or wave to those passing on the bus. She is a living testimony of her often used statement, "I'd live outside if I could."

Mrs. Mary Alice Smith

A resident of Waterloo for 39 years, Mrs. Smith came to Waterloo in May, 1913 from her home in Calvin, Kentucky. According to Mrs. Smith only 40 colored people lived here then. They were I.C. workers and their families. There was no church, so services were held in the homes. A minister from Cedar Rapids traveled back and forth to conduct services.

Mrs. Smith recalls Rev. Bess' arrival in Waterloo and the work he did during his stay. Upon thinking again of the past she stated: "People have really progressed since 1913. They have nice homes and an opportunity to make a decent living. We had nothing to start with. We were pioneers in our own right."

The late Mr. Smith joined forces with Rev. Bess and worked actively in the building of Bess Chapel, now known as Payne A.M.E. church and the St. John's Masonic Building. He was a strong Mason even after an accident that disabled him and necessitated the use of a wheel chair. He remained an officer for many years doing his work from his home. Mr. Smith passed away January 28, 1949.

A former school teacher and dressmaker, Mrs. Smith is the mother of five children: Mrs. Eva Mallory of Minneapolis; Mr. Clifford Clay Smith, 317 Manson Street; Mr. Hubert Aubrey Smith, 219 Sumner street; Mrs. Jeanette Brown, 915 Newell Street; and Mrs. Bianaca Baker of Chicago. She has 7 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. She has resided at 308 Sumner street for 39 years.

When asked by the Post reporter what she does to occupy her time during the winter, Mrs. Smith replied; "Oh I stay very busy. I piece quilts and care for my pot flowers. My friends say that my back porch is like a greenhouse."

This summer Mrs. Smith took her first airplane ride. Her reaction was; "I went up the stairs like I was a sixteen year old girl. I never got a bit excited. The hostess was very nice to me continually bringing refreshments and magazines. I'd certainly like to go for another ride soon."

Although she is constantly occupied with her garden, flowers, and chickens as well as her housework, Mrs. Smith still finds time to hear the problems of her friends and give words of encouragement and advice to many youth in our community.

WHEN THE WORLD IS AT ITS WORST,
WE SHOULD BE AT OUR BEST

There are wars and rumors of wars. Nations have risen against kingdoms. There have been earthquakes in diverse places; famines and pestilence. Children have arisen against their parents, brothers against brother, father against father. Men's hearts are failing them with fear. And upon the earth there is distress of nations with perplexity. These are all things the Bible predicted would come in the last days. I don't know if these are the last days or not. But they are surely grievous days. So it behooves every one of us to be on guard. Again I say, "When the world is at its worst, we should be at our best."

JUST AN EVENING'S STROLL

While out strolling Saturday night, I was struck with the violence of the news. I went by one place and saw a big pool of blood. They said a girl had been cut (accidentally?) At another place, several folks had tried to take the establishment apart. Farther on I came upon two fellows fighting. I don't know what they were fighting about, and I'm sure they didn't either. And to cap the climax, a great big handsome Nordic drove up to me and wanted to know where he could find a woman. I started to tell him where he could find a woman. But I caught myself just in time. Waterloo, my friend, is one heck of a place on a Saturday night.

A TIP TO THE TIPS

Here's a little tip to some friends of mine, and I'm not charging a cent for it. If you don't want liquor to get you down, then don't get too much liquor down.

SPEAKING OF LIQUOR

The more you drink,
The less you think,
The less you think,
The more you drink.
Friends, it's a vicious circle, isn't it? And if you're a chronic drinker, you're caught right in the middle.

MORE ABOUT FLYING SAUCERS

We hear a lot about flying saucers, but there's one fellow around here to whom flying saucers are no mystery. He sees them every day, and it's his wife who's throwing them.

AND I DON'T MEAN MAYBE

Scientists have proved that the world is round, but most of the news you hear nowadays would make you believe the world is as crooked as a corkscrew, and filled with a lot of squares.

LOOK AT WHAT I'VE GOT

Cute little Willetta Rudd bought a new cigarette holder, Wednesday, and smoked up a whole package of cigarettes showing it off.

INTO THE BLUE YONDER

Several of the boys from the Waverly Air Force Radar Base were shipped out, apparently for Korea. We wish them bon voyage, good luck, and a safe return.

LADIES OF MYSTERY

There are two young ladies, who get around quite a bit. I've tried to trail them, but they're so good at covering up their tracks and hiding a scent, I haven't been able to catch up with them.

THE LORDS AND THEIR LADIES

Mr. Wilson Baker and Mr. Frank Reed went to Des Moines, Saturday, to see the Billy Eckstine, George Shearing Count Basie Show. They had been forewarned that the mothers of Des Moines had heard they were coming and had locked their daughters in, so they took their own girl friends with them. And what two fine young ladies they were. Des Moines had nothing finer to offer. But they didn't get around much. They had their hands full watching Mr. Reed and Mr. Baker. And you can bet your bots they didn't let them out of their sight. When out with these two guys, you've got to keep your eyes open. Bat an eye and they're gone.

THE LAST EPISTLE

Well, I'm not telling you anymore. If I keep on talking, I'm liable to get myself into hot water. So go on doing what you're doing. On with the show. Let the good times roll.

YOU'VE SEEN HIM

This guy monkeys around with every woman he sees, no matter whose wife or sweetheart she might be. He's got a special whistle, and wolf call for every woman unfortunate enough to get near him. But just let some man talk over two or three minutes to his wife, and he's ready to take the place apart.

WOMAN, LOVELY WOMAN

Woman, lovely woman, there is naught on earth above her;
She is a dream of sweet delight, around her angels hover;
She is my comfort and my care,
My inspiration and despair —
Sweet woman, how I love her!

1952 MODEL

Miss Opelia Mudd, is a streamlined lassie,

YOU CAN BE SURE OF THIS

Give a woman enough rope, and she'll hang you with it.

MY LITTLE PIGEON

There's a little girl in town who flits from boy friend to boy friend, like a bird flits from limb to limb. Somewhere along the way she's going to get her wings clipped.

HAVE YOU REGISTERED YET? WELL, THE, WHY DON'T YOU?

Bon jour, my darlings. I've got a little run to make. Be sweet, be good. But if you can't be sweet, and you can't be good, for heaven's sake be careful. I'll be seeing you.

A F of L TO MEET IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Mo. (ANP) — The 1952 national convention of the American Federation of Labor will be held in St. Louis if assurance is given the AFL executive council that hotel accommodations will be made available without discriminations against negro delegates, it was announced here last week.

A. Philip Randolph, president of the AFL Sleeping Car Porters Union, had protested against proposed selection of either St. Louis or Miami, Fla., as the convention site, because of racial discrimination in public accommodations in both cities.

John R. Rollings, executive secretary of the Central Trades and Labor Union, said he had received a letter from the Hotel Association of St. Louis which offered assurance that hotel facilities would be made to AFL convention delegates without regard to race.

Rollings said reservations for the convention delegates, including the Negroes have been made at five downtown hotels.

AFL Secretary-treasurer George Meany, said he will make the investigation to determine whether hotel arrangements will meet the requirements.

The 1953 convention is scheduled to be held in September.

Wife Beaten Man Stabbed

Detroit (ANP) — Thomas McCarney learned the hard way Wednesday that it doesn't pay a husband to beat his wife.

McCarney, 42, suffered stab wounds of the right shoulder, inflicted by his wife, Alice, 32.

Police said while McCarney was giving his wife the old familiar "weekly beating," he dropped a switch-blade knife from his pocket.

Mrs. McCarney seized the knife and used it to defend herself.

Soldier's Cheer

Dear Mrs. Potter,

I received your most enjoyable letter and the Waterloo Post a few days ago and as always I was very happy to do so. Reading your letters and the Post certainly has been an inspiration to me while I have been over here. I looked forward to receiving them each passing week. I had a little set back in the date I'm scheduled to leave recently. Now we aren't scheduled to leave until the third of October. In a way it's better because we'll be on a faster boat and will get to the States approximately the same time as if we had left when they had us scheduled before. The way things stand now we are scheduled to arrive in New York on the eleventh or twelfth of October.

Yes, we have some fine churches over here although most of them are Catholic or Moslem Faith. About a month ago I visited one of the British Protestant churches in town. Although I had some difficulty understanding the trend of the services nevertheless you could feel the same spirit and inspiration from the songs that were sung. I had hoped I would have an opportunity to visit one of the Moslem church services, but they are very strict about letting outsiders into the services.

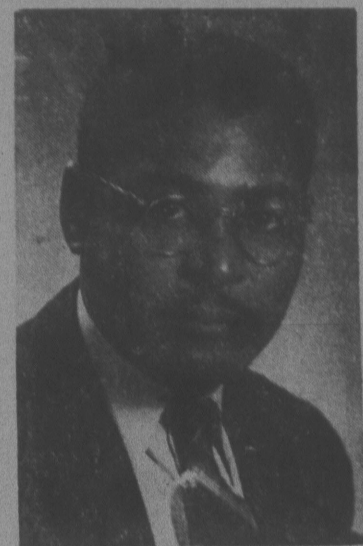

Although I shall be out of the armed services in the near future I shall continue my prayers for the continued success of the project that you have undertaken for the fellows in the services. My thanks go out to you and everyone connected with making my stay over here more pleasant and enjoyable.

Sincerely,

Ozie Dee S. Robinson

YOUR TEETH AND YOUR LIFE

Waterloo Dentist

Abnormal Relations of Individual Teeth

Interference with normal eruption and malposition of the teeth are often associated with disease of a general character. In some instances malposed teeth adjust themselves, but more frequently orthodontic treatment is indicated. Teeth may be fully erupted, partially erupted, or unerupted. Of these three kinds there are many variations with their own particular problems and solutions.

The most commonly affected are the third molars and canines—commonly called wisdom and eye teeth. We shall be concerned here only with the wisdom tooth. The degree of eruption varies from that of completely unerupted to almost completely erupted. From the partially erupted third molar we often get the infected third molar flap with which so many people are troubled. There are a lot of causes for failure to erupt or impaction of the third molar, but the most common one is lack of space due to underdevelopment of the jaws. The treatment generally is a surgical problem for the removal of the offending tooth. Before the removal of this tooth some people suffer the most excruciating pain.

Partly erupted teeth are often infected, causing trismus, swelling of the face and abscesses. Ulcers due to Vincent's infection are frequent. Pain occurs and is often neuralgic in character. Indefinite feeling of pressure in back of the head is often severe, interfering with study and work, causing many to walk the floor at night. The person who has suffered with one is well acquainted with the symptoms.

I am often asked if primary teeth have roots. They do. Primary teeth loosen just before being shed due to the resorption of the roots.

Can you save a tooth with a gum boil or abscess? The answer is that under certain conditions it may be saved. The decision of whether a tooth can be successfully treated depends upon the clinical and anatomical findings. Each case must be treated upon its merits. Teeth with more than one root, with curved and twisted roots can seldom be successfully treated. Teeth in which infection has progressed through the apex of the root and into the surrounding tissue is seldom successful unless the tooth is devitalized and followed with a root resection or apicoectomy. If pus has formed prompt extraction of the offending tooth to establish drainage will generally prevent complications. The treatment of chronic abscesses and granulomas depend upon the duration of the infection and the complications. Extraction is more certain to elimination the infection than apicoectomy.

MICHAUX GIVES BIBLES TO RED NATIONS

Washington (ANP) — Elder Solomon Michaux, pastor of the Church of God, recently announced that he will go to Western Europe with the Rev. Basil A. Malof, president of the Russian Bible Society, to help distribute 10,000 Russian Bibles behind the Iron Curtain.

The Bible is a greater weapon in international relations than the atomic bomb, declared the "Happy Am I" minister. He plans to take his 156-voice Cross choir on tour to raise funds for the printing of more Russian-language bibles.

Fact and Fun

Dick Wright for ANP

A reader called up the paper last week and asked: "What is the charge to run a death notice on my husband?"

She was told that space was sold by the inch. There was a long hesitation at the other end of the wire. Finally she declared, "That's more than I can afford. My husband was six feet four."

A young lady, planning to be married, took the prospect to be "inspected" by a fearsome aunt who had the uncomfortable habit of saying exactly what she thought whenever she wanted to say it.

As the young people were leaving, the aunt took her niece aside and whispered, "All I got to say is I'd rather have him for lunch than for life."

A hep little chick who was trying to appear otherwise looked at her new interest, murmuring, "You certainly don't act like a man kissing his first girl, though, of course, I wouldn't know."

At a recent party I was introduced to a young woman who was referred to as a "grass widow" and I began wondering how such a term came into existence.

Investigation showed it came to life when the British army was occupying India and many of the professional soldiers sent their wives and children to the hills in the summer away from the intense heat of the coastal area. These hills were characterized by lush carpets of grass.

Therefore, half-jokingly, the man dispatched his wife to the hills, spoke of sending her "to the grass" and the woman was referred to as a "grass widow".

The expression has now come to apply to any woman separated but not divorced from her husband.

The manager of a New York shipping firm had not wanted to hire a Negro clerk, but because of the union and the fair employment law in that state, the bigoted employer had little alternative. As a result, the employer hounded the clerk as much as possible.

One day the clerk was hurried and submitted a poorly written report which the manager promptly returned with the comment: "I can't read your writing."

The clerk sent the report right back with a notation of his own: "Don't hold me responsible for your education."

Two ebony lovelies who were nursemaids for some uptown New York families were wheeling their charges in the park, when one said to the other, "are you going to the dance up in Harlem tonight?"

"I want to," the other answered, "but to tell the truth I'm afraid to leave the baby with its mother."

Beware of the wrath of a provoked child is probably the advice that the father of the kid who was on his first train ride would probably give you. The kid was making a general nuisance of himself, climbing on top of vacant seats, and scooting up the aisle screaming like a banshee.

The father finally succeeded in grabbing his shirttail and hissing in his ear, "Sit down and be quiet or I'll slap the devil out of you."

"You hit me just once," the kid screamed loud enough for the whole car to hear, "and I'll tell the conductor how old I really am."

It's a fact strictly for the ladies' consumption: All men are alike, but they have different faces so you can tell them apart.

NEGRO BUS DRIVER CLEARED IN SHOOTING

Detroit (ANP) — The Wayne county prosecutor's office denied a warrant Tuesday against Lewis Van Benjamin, 31, bus driver, on a charge of first degree murder, in the fatal Sept. 17 stabbing of white Homer McCoy, 32.

Detective Lt. Jerry Walters and K. Perry of the homicide bureau completed the interviewing of nine persons who saw the altercation and stabbing.

The prosecutor's office ruled that Benjamin stabbed McCoy in self defense, that "McCoy was the aggressor and asked for what he received by his actions."

The officers said Benjamin stopped traffic to aid McCoy in getting through to his destination. After McCoy had parked his car he came back and started an argument with Benjamin.

Lt. Walters said Benjamin's bus was not involved in the altercation, but a mechanic bus blocked McCoy for a few minutes.

Lt. Walters said McCoy wanted to fight Benjamin and he refused telling him "I had nothing to do with your car being blocked, it was the other bus."

McCoy pulled a knife and stabbed the bus driver in the shoulder.

Benjamin had been parked on the corner selling tickets to the factory workers, which is a daily routine before the shifts change at a nearby plant, the officers said.

McCoy is from Tennessee and had lived in Detroit a short time.

THE SIREN LOOK — APPROACH WITH CAUTION

The fashion industry, in its endless quest to make women dissatisfied with their present wardrobe, comes up from time to time with a featurer "look". There has been the "New Look," the "Middy Look," the "Little-middle Look," and now this fall, the "Siren Look."

Now, the siren look has its advantages, chief among which is the fact that it invariably attracts attention — particularly masculine attention. Unfortunately, the wolf's whistle can not be depended upon as a barometer of good taste, so in the matter of looking or not looking like a siren, a woman has to be her own best judge.

The siren look means just what it says — to look like a siren. In other words to look alluring, tempting and enticing. That suggests not only certain types of clothes (or the absence of them) but it also suggests certain physical attributes.

The siren look is sleeky and slinky. To achieve it means the wearing of sexy, sheathlike, sophisticated, overfitted, satiny or otherwise glittering gowns, referred to by one high style fashion writer as "exotic trappings."

What the dress seems to lac kin fabric, the accessories seem to take on in the form of bulk, for earrings are large and massive, or long and dangling, the gloves long, as though trying to compensate in modesty for the extreme lack of it in the cut of the gown.

The shoes are likely to be just a series of straps that twine provocatively around the ankle and calf.

Obviously this type of regalia was not meant for the average American woman who stands around five feet, three inches and weighs 130 pounds. (What fashions were?) Unless you are tall, thin but yet curvesome, and move with the grace of a panther, then you had best forget about the siren look, and just be contented to be your sweet chaming self until the fashion experts see fit to publicize the "Wholesome look" or some other type less rigid in physical specifications.

Meanwhile, there is great wisdom and considerable comfort in the words of the French dressmaker who when asked by the buxom customer to make her a gown to make her look thinner replied: "Oh, but madam, not all men like zee skinny girls."

BIGGEST SHOW OF '52 OPENING IN DETROIT OCTOBER 26th

Detroit (ANP)—The "Biggest Show of '52", the big Deal of Show Business will pla ythe Motor City October 26.

The 1951 edition of this great entertainment package played to 10,000 at the Olympia stadium. The promoters predict even bigger crowds this time as this all star attraction will feature some of the top names in show business.

Heading the Biggest show are Nat (King) Cole, Stan Kenton and his orchestra, Sarah Vaughn, Teddy Hale, George Kirby, Stump and Stumpy and the Congaroes.

Nat (King) Cole, whose recording of "Somewhere Along the Way" on the Capitol label is a hit parade favorite in the mid-west, is popular in the Detroit area. Stan Kenton, whose recordings are tops with the younger set and lovers of progressive style of modern jazz, has played for dances here that broke box office records.

Sarah Vaughn's theatre engagements here have been among the top drawing attractions.
