

Pitts. Courier Executive Backs GOP

"Just A Few Of The World's Headaches"

Pgh. Courier Vice-President Quits Democratic Party

Mrs. Daisy E. Lampkin, vice president of the Pittsburgh Courier, Negro newspaper, accused the Democratic party yesterday of fishing for votes with bait labeled, "I'm for civil rights," and then of putting the rod and reel away after the ballots are collected.

Mrs. Lampkin, a Democrat who made nation-wide news last week when she announced her support of Gen. Eisenhower, gave her first public address for the Republican Presidential nominee at a rally in the Sutherland hotel, 4659 Drexel blvd.

More than 300 women from the 1st and 2nd congressional districts cheered as she explained that many Negroes are interested in "clean-up" rather than in "grab-up" in the 1952 election. She said the Democrats have smoke screened their shortcomings behind "pretty words and idle promises."

Cites Democrats' Claim
"In the past 20 years we've all heard a lot of words about how the Democratic party has 'saved the Negro,'" she said. "We've heard them take credit for every advance the Negro race has made."

"We do not deny that the Negro people have made tremendous gains in their search for equality of opportunity. But we do deny that these gains are due to the Democratic party. The truth is that the gains have been accomplished by Negro people themselves."

She explained that the Negro's war time gains in employment have slipped since then, whereas Americans in general have enjoyed the widest employment in history.

"Negroes have never gained—in all the 20 years of straight Democratic rule—policy making jobs they held under Republicans almost half a century ago. Only one Negro makes policy in the federal government today — one Negro out of 15,400,000," she said.

Assails Sen. Sparkman
Mrs. Lampkin, a member of the board of directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, lashed into Sen. John J. Sparkman (Ala.), Democratic Vice Presidential nominee.

She quoted from a speech by Sparkman on April 17, 1950, over a state-wide radio hookup, in which he said, "I am against the civil right proposal — always have been and always will be. One of the first votes I cast upon going to congress 14 years ago was against one of these bills. . . ."

"Even tho the Democratic platform, as well as the Republican, carried a pledge for civil rights legislation, no such law has been enacted. And I predict that if you do not take away from us who represent you in congress the power that is ours, as long as we can operate as Democrats—on the inside—there will not be any such legislation."

Eisenhower Feted In Harlem

New York (CNS)—Having been boned up on the facts of life—that Harlem vote is needed to swing vital New York State — General Dwight D. Eisenhower, boldly turned his crusade on Harlem. He first tried a breakfast at Hotel Theresa in a surprise move on October 22nd. Emboldened by that stroke, Ike agreed to a parade and speech in front of Hotel Theresa with W. C. Handy, Bishop Robert C. Lawson, Harold Burton all at his side.

Seek Negro Teachers In Nation's Capitol

Washington, D.C. (CNS) — Though 17 Negro junior high teachers and five elementary teachers are desperately needed immediately according to a report by Asst. School Supt. Harold A. Haynes, they will only be hired providing the October enrollment figures show "immediate and critical needs." According to District School Board Personnel Committee Chairman, A. E. Steinem the enrollment figures will be completed the end of October and by then he will decide whether to invoke emergency funds to hire more Negro Teachers. Meanwhile the children must get along as best they can.

WHAT DO NEGROES WANT?

The Negro in America wants the same opportunities that are granted other citizens.

He is asking what he deserves

That he be accepted on his merits. That he be given the privilege to continue to serve his country well—and be respected, not humiliated or looked down upon as a group—or to be even classified as such.

The Negro dating as far back as Crispus Attucks, has and is still fighting, dying and being maimed "For the security of our country".

The Negro wants to be able to live unmolested (and not in restricted areas) in private and public—housing communities like other Americans.

The Negro wants to be able to spend his money wherever U. S. currency is accepted. And if America is preaching equality—then why not?

The Negro wants job equality, hospitalization, insurance, and investment privileges. In fact the Negro wants every opportunity (not charity) that will enable him to find his place in the sun.

The Negro has excelled in many fields—in music, science, education, art, diplomatic government service, literature, sports and in the armed forces. What the Negro wants is what every good American wants—life and the pursuit of happiness.

A civic and fraternal leader, Dr. Collins is also a prominent dentist and Assistant Professor at the University of California School of Dentistry.

Vote For . . . Arch McFarlane

Republican Candidate For State Representative

WHY THE COLORED PEOPLE OF WATERLOO SHOULD SUPPORT ARCH W. McFARLANE FOR STATE REPRESENTATIVE

As the day of election approaches, we are not unmindful of the fact that the colored people of Waterloo are very much indebted to State Representative, Arch W. McFarlane, whose actions in the past have convincingly demonstrated that he believes in fair play for all people.

For many years he has taken colored people with him to the State House in Des Moines, where he was able to place them in good positions, and he has otherwise shown a genuine interest in our race.

We are confident that Mr. McFarlane will work for our best interests in the future, as he has in the past, and we recommend that you give him your support on November 4th.

SEEIN' STARS

by DOLORES CALVIN
New York (CNS)—WHY THE INK SPOTS BROKE UP — They didn't stress it but the real reason for the breakup of America's top quartet was the "cancelling of dates." As simple as that. Leader of the "Spots" would constantly turn down dates secured for one reason or another, mostly personal. Disgruntled members claim that if an engagement conflicted with Kenny's interests, the engagement was cancelled. When you affect a guy at his pocket book, then there's bound to be a flareup. In this case it was a split-up with two Ink Spots on the road.

The Pearl Bailey suit against the Club Ben Miller's Riviera has been filed in Jersey and may be quite a while coming up, according to La Bailey's attorney-manager, Chauncey Olman . . . Meanwhile, despite the brutal beating, Pearl continues to work and is in Washington, D. C. at the Club Kavakas.

Carpie—Thelma Caprenter that is—clams things are quiet—she had just finished a week at the Earle Theatre in Philly and opened the very next day at Cafe Society . . . Ertha Kitt continues to be a No. 1 draw for she's doubling up at the Blue Angel nightclub along with her stint in Broadway's "New Faces" . . .

The Joe Louis Story doesn't go before the cameras until January '53 . . . It's director and producer, Stirling Silliphant, has not completely severed his relations with 20th Century Fox and won't be free until January.

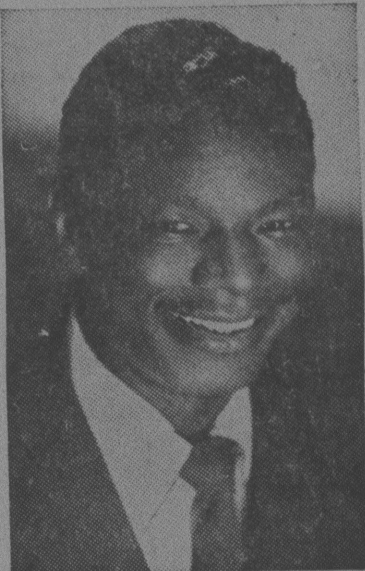

The Five Blazes which blew into the Apollo are no relation to the Four Blazers as headed by Johnny Moore and brother Oscar . . . Benny Carter wouldn't stay with the "Jazz at the Philharmonic" group. Independent Benny still has some great ideas on soloing.

Nat "King" Cole's Biog.

When Nat Cole formed his trio back in 1937, one of the men placed a paper crown on his head as he played the piano. This act gave the threesome its name and rightly crowned Nat "King" Cole as one of the peers of popular music.

Today, in addition to his superb pianistics, Nat "King" Cole is one of the country's most popular vocalists. Both the trio and Nat's singing were brought to light through necessity. The trio was formed for better chances at obtaining work and the singing was forced on Nat to keep on working.

Nat was born in Montgomery, Alabama, on St. Patrick's Day, but his family moved to Chicago soon afterwards, and he considers the "windy city" is practically his hometown. His mother played the organ during church services and attempted to teach her son Nathaniel how to play. He, however, preferred the piano and began studying on his own at every opportunity.

Nat "King" Cole

The young musician displayed considerable talent at the keyboard and was soon playing with his high school band and had a piano spot that brought considerable encouragement to work harder. Then he joined his brother Edward's band. This group recorded four sides and featured Nat's piano, which smacked of true Chicago Jazz, and these are rare collector's items today.

Nat's next move was to join a musical show, entitled "Shuffle Along." This venture brought him to the west coast and after the show closed he decided to remain there and try to form an orchestra of his own.

This idea was soon put down when Nat discovered how difficult it was to get a band booked during those days. A smaller group would be much more acceptable and the King Cole Swingsters Three was finally agreed upon. The threesome, which later became the King Cole Trio, faced the regular difficulties experienced by ambitious entertainers until wise judges of talent realized their potential and gave them the boost they needed to be heard and appreciated.

The sensation the group caused in music circles and with the public is legendary. They began smashing attendance records in theaters and nightclubs across the nation and spread their fame even further with their records.

In the beginning of his career it didn't occur to Nat that he could sing professionally. True, he joined in with vocals by the threesome, but never thought he had solo vocal talent. In fact, it was only at the insistence of an overbearing customer that he gave his first solo rendition. The song was "Sweet Lorraine," one Nat had always liked and it was good.

Early in the Spring of 1948, Nat's record of "Nature Boy" was released. Frank DeVol's orchestra accompanied him on this platter, and within the phenomenal space of a few days it became the biggest selling record of the year. It also convinced Nat that his voice was in greater demand than anything he had done before. Gradually he turned to recording more and more songs with orchestral background, accomplishing versions of tunes that drew immediate response in sales and popularity.

Nat's choice voicings elevated a string of songs to hit status and in turn created greater legions of followers to the "King's" Court. His styling of "Too Young" made the song one of the biggest hits of the country. His recording has far surpassed any previous American hit introduced in England or other nations around the world.

"Mona Lisa," formed another Cole Classic on record and was awarded the Academy Award as a direct result of the Nat "King" Cole version. The song was in a non-musical motion picture, "Captain Carey, U.S.A." Nat has been the most consistent performer in Capitol Record's history, as a song writer as well as a vocalist. A score of his own compositions have been on top of the best-selling lists, with "Because of Rain" his most recent success.

Tickets For Biggest Show Going Fast,
May Be Largest Crowd For Hippodrome

Once again, deserting the canvas ring of grunts and groans for the stage of music and mirth, Bender and Peterson will present on Thursday, Nov. 6th the fall edition of "The Biggest Show of '52" starring Nat "King" Cole, Sarah Vaughan, Stan Kenton and his orchestra, "Modern America's Man of Music," George Kirby, Stump and Stumpy, Teddy Hale and the Congaroes. All in all, this adds up to the most extravagant package of entertainment ever presented under one roof at popular prices. Not even in the halcyon days of vaudeville has the public ever been offered as star-studded a program of entertainment as this veritable extravaganza of mirth, music and rhythm that will invade the hippodrome.

"The Biggest Show of '52" comes to Waterloo on November 6 for a short stop during its national tour of all the major cities and is the third of the series in many similar shows which will be presented at the Hippodrome as yearly events. Like the Ice Cycles, this show will be presented annually as a fresh and new edition with the very top in talent on stage.

Kirby Nation's Top Mimic

The art of mimicry has few masters with the great versatility of George Kirby, whose polished humor is bringing him fame and fortune. He imitates almost as many women as men, no mean trick when it is considered that male mimics generally do not like to tangle with female voices. Kirby is at his best when he impersonates Sarah Vaughan, Billie Holiday, Ella Fitzgerald and Nellie Lutcher.

Biggest hit in his menagerie of mimickings, however, is his unmistakable takeoff on the song style of Duke Ellington's blind vocalist, Al Hibbler, crooning Trees. Performed with all the gusto and pulsating emotion of the electrifying Hibbler, it is a stunt which never fails to please audiences. He gets his loudest applause at the spot in the song where he repeats the famed Hibbler hesitation act, which to the uninitiated might sound as if the singer forgets the lyrics. Kirby studied the artists' style for 16 weeks, on and off the stage, now almost out-Hibblers Hibbler.

While natural ability unquestionably is a major factor in Kirby's success as a mimic, he probably would never have developed the polish and finesse which now mark his act — or ever stood before the footlights as a star — had it not been for his persistency in effort. Theatre owners are congenitally skeptical of the newcomer, and Kirby continuously got the run-around. His first break came nine years ago while serving up dishes as a second cook in Chicago's Club De Lisa. He got the courage to ask the promoter of the club's floor show, talented choreographer Sammy Dyer, to listen to him imitate some voices. Dyer consented. Impressed, he gave Kirby a temporary spot in the show, but Kirby stayed with it for five years.

He worked as a dishwasher, lumber yard employee, bartender and cook before breaking into theater. His highest salary in pre-stage days was $35 a week as bartender in Chicago.

Kirby learns to mimic a person mainly by listening and watching. He studies the singers' style by playing records. Kirby has no wire or tape recorder, uses no mirror. "I don't believe in mirrors," he says, "because all I would see would be myself going through the actions — and that would not add to my confidence in the imitation. I trust my mimicry to the way I feel in a part."

Kirby's ability to master a flock of different voices often puzzles audiences. Many fans refuse to believe that he can really do all of his imitations, vocal and in song, without some mechanical aid. He is frequently cornered by skeptics who demand an explanation.

"I just tell them God gave me a good ear and an unusually wide vocal range," he declared, "They accept it — sometimes."

Soldier's Cheer

I've been receiving all of the papers from your club, and I would like to keep on receiving them. I really do enjoy them and I'm ashamed of myself for not writing you sooner. I got married since the last time you heard from me.

Pvt. Richard L. Hockett
Hill, A. F. B. Utah

Dear Mrs. Potter,

I received your letter today along with the "Posts" and as usual I was very happy to hear from you.

I am glad to hear that Herbert Cox is pioneering in what is another step forward for Waterloo Negroes. I only hope that it is a success in order that I can hear it when I come home.

I have really come to depend on your letters because in conjunction with the Post they really give a true picture of the progress that is being made in Waterloo.

I am glad to hear that Betty Middleton has a new addition to her family. The Post really shows the product of her labors and it is another tribute to her industry. For as long as I have known her she has been a tireless worker.

I received my absentee ballot today and I can truthfully say that the "Post" has helped a lot by their impartial and informative articles concerning the recent political campaigns.

Enclosed is a small donation to the Susie Brooks Missionary Society in appreciation of the fine work they are doing to raise the morale of Waterloo boys and girls in the services.

Sincerely,
Pfc. John Hollingsworth

Herb Cox To Celebrate 40th Birthday Nov. 4

Making plans to celebrate his fortieth birthday, Nov. 4th and the launching of a new career as a radio announcer is one of Waterloo's well-known personages, Mr. Herbert Cox of 214 Oneida street. Broadcasting from 10:40 to 11:15 P.M. each night except Sunday, his program the Ebony Hour offers a wide selection of recordings and commercials from local businesses. Mr. Cox's show now has twenty sponsors and as an added feature accepts requests from listeners for favorite recordings.

Born in Fort Dodge, Mr. Cox traveled extensively throughout the United States as a cook on the Panama Limited and other railroads. In April of 1930 he came to Waterloo to make his home. He has been employed at Rath's Packing Company for twelve years.

Mr. Cox has gained a wide reputation through the years for the appearances as soloist that he has made at various churches, clubs, and civic groups. He is a member of the Cedar Valley Lodge No. 426; the St. Johns Lodge No. 35; and the A. G. Clark Consistory 32; and the Ancient Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine-Bashir Temple No. 156. Mr. Cox also belongs to the Senior Choir at Payne A.M.E.

When asked by a Post reporter about his new job, Mr. Cox stated: "I find my work very interesting. I get a chance to know people. I'm very grateful to Joe DuMond who gave me the wonderful opportunity in the field of radio. I also would like to thank my listeners for the wonderful response I have received from them."

If there was one job open in a factory, word would get around and thousands of desperate men flocked to the gates to beg for any work at any wage. Such is the scene above. The year was 1932. The police didn't like big gatherings. They liked to keep the sidewalks and streets clear for traffic—in case there might be some traffic.

You lost your job in '32. And then you lost hope.

You and 15 million others.

And who cared?

The Republicans had been in power for 12 years.

A Republican in Congress said "a man can always find a job if he wants one." You wondered if he was crazy.

Where could a man find work?

You left the house at dawn. You kept at it all day. A man just had to have a job.

Coming home in the dusk or dark and not knowing how to say it was the hardest part. No job. Maybe tomorrow. Maybe.

Finally, only one thing was important. Nothing else mattered. The kids had to eat. That kept you going. They just had to have food.

How a man managed to feed his children is his story. And even he can't ever put it down in words.

And the Republicans had been in power for 12 years in 1932.

At no time has dentistry been faced with great problems than in the field of children's dentistry which fundamentally is no different from any other kind, except that the techniques and the approach differs.

People of today are faced with more dental problems than their parents were because they are more aware of their dental ills and because they have become heirs of the associated ills introduced by and with greater technological developments in the food industry. Tooth decay is on the increase. In a land of plenty, we eat more but not better foods. Our parents ate better foods.

Not enough people take care of their children's teeth—especially the deciduous set. It is difficult to get over to them that the deciduous set is just as important as the permanent set. The mouth can be well on the way to destruction by the time the deciduous set is lost if you don't take care of the deciduous set. Not enough people can recognize the difference between the two. There is the very important period of the mixed dentition in which the deciduous teeth are being lost and being replaced by permanent teeth. There is not a clear line of distinction between the two, and the layman is lost.

People hide behind the customary philosophy, "Well, they are going to lose those teeth anyway, so why fix them?" Just remember that the teeth are integral parts of the body and when one part suffers the whole body suffers. Remember also that period of the deciduous dentition is in the most important developmental period in the child's life.

Marine Corps Reduces Requirements For Officers

The Marine Corps recently announced a revision of its present policy in obtaining men from its ranks for commissions. This new announcement makes hundreds eligible for reserve commissions by establishing a two year college equivalency test requirement. Traditionally the bulk of Marine Corps Combat leaders have come from the ranks. Presently officers with enlisted service approximate 85 percent. The two year college equivalency level is a reduction from a four year level, and admittedly is a move to qualify combat veterans who have proven their leadership abilities. Any Marine on active duty who has finished his basic training and any Marine who has returned to inactive duty is eligible, however, he must be between the ages of 20 and 27.

ALMAR 24 contains the new requirements which mean the general classification test (GCT) has been lowered from 120 to 115. Successful applicants must agree to serve two years on active duty.

Those so commissioned, obtain permanent commissions in the Marine Corps Reserve. The Marine Corps said it was examining all applications of Marines who previously failed to qualify under the four year college requirement. These Marines will be ordered to officer candidate screening without the necessity of renewing their application. This program will be in effect until June 30, 1953.
