Dear Mr. Leopold:

Dr. Errington left this morning on a vacation trip. He has made no plans as to where he will go, or how long he will be away, feeling that he needed to break completely away from plans and schedules. For a long time he has been working too hard, and it has affected his health. It has become necessary for him to get away and rest. Before leaving, he asked me to write and tell you of his proposed absence.

I mailed to you yesterday a number of reprints of Dr. Errington's last paper, "Vulnerability of Bob-White Populations to Predation".

Very truly yours,

F. N. Hamerstrom Jr.
Wild Life Research Assistant.
