Dear Paul:

John Emlen has kindly run down the question of whether W. J. Hamilton, Jr, of Cornell has published a paper on the food habits of foxes. Emlen has showed me a letter indicating that Hamilton has a manuscript pending publication in the Journal of Mammalogy, but there are no published papers on this subject by him so far.

In his letter Hamilton offers to show me this manuscript and he would doubtless extend the same courtesy to you in case you want to see it. Emlen suggests that if you want to see it, you write him direct in care of the Zoological Laboratory, Ithaca.

Yours sincerely,

Aldo Leopold
