

AMERICAN JOURNAL OF BOTANY

OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF THE BOTANICAL SOCIETY OF AMERICA

ESTABLISHED JANUARY, 1914

OFFICE OF THE EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
BIOLOGY BUILDING
UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN
MADISON

October 7, 1918.

Professor L. H. Pammel,
Iowa State College,
Ames, Iowa.

My dear Dr. Pammel:

The copy for Dr. Hayden's paper has been received. As I have looked it over rather hurriedly, it seems to be in excellent shape for publication and I hope to get it on to the printers very soon.

I notice that Dr. Hayden has not included the usual description of figures. It is true that she refers, in connection with each species, to the corresponding figure. It might be worth while for her to consider, however, whether it would not be helpful to the readers to have also a condensed description immediately preceding the plates, which might hardly be more than a list of the species referred to. Should she decide that this would be an improvement, as I am personally inclined to think it would be, I can return to you either the plates alone or the plates and the text if that should be necessary.

Sincerely yours,

C E Allen

Allen