

Professor L. H. Pammel, Times, Ia.

2712

Dear Dr. Pammel: - I called Dean L. Change up by phone early in August to ask him about the dissecting instruments for the Veterinary students. He was not there. As I was going home then I wrote him but he must have been out of town for I just recently received a communication in regard to it.
He said that they would not need the instruments for Veterinary work before the end of the term or beginning of next and he thought it as well to leave it with the students whether they would have one or both sets.

It is very probable that they will not have ~~their~~ sets in town - before the end of the term and that will do us no good.

I don't see that we can do anything but provide for our own students. They can sell our sets next term to help pay the expense of getting the other ones if they like.

One thing is evident. Each student needs a dissecting set and lens to do ^{acceptable work.} Much of the poor work that has been done can be attributed to their trying to work without them. and if they are not able to get them the first of the term it is almost impossible to make them get the instruments afterward.

Much inconvenience would be saved if they could be procurable thru the book store.

This is as soon as I was able to get definite information.

Sincerely

Ada Hayden.
