New York City.

My dear Mrs. Heywood:

We sail at noon on the Caledonia for Glasgow and again Aug 12th on the Malwa (P+O line) for Shanghai.

Yesterday I left the res of our Handbook with Appleton editor-in-chief. Hope they will publish it.

Miss Elsie Broughton is the only one who can read proof of this book in my absence. She has worked with me on it for six months solidly. I have paid her till now out of Hecksher Research Fund grants. That money is all gone; and in accordance with your last letter, I am directing her to take care of the book doing whatever is necessary to see it through the press, and to send the bill for her time to you. I think it will not be much, for she works rapidly and charges moderately.
