Jim,

We got a report yesterday from DeSoto NWR that a person saw 3 Harlequin Ducks on Monday the 17th. The report is second hand from Mindy Sheets who talked to an unknown observer. The observer described the birds to her and she said it sounded like a good sighting. We also have a report of a Harlequin Duck being shot by a hunter in the DeSoto NWR vicinity. Apparently, from what we understand, the hunter communicated with George

Gage, the refuge manager on the identity of the duck. I don't know when the duck was shot but I believe in the last week.

Babs and I saw a winter adult male Oldsquaw at Lake Manawa yesterday, the 21st.

We went to DeSoto Refuge today and looked for the Harlequin Ducks but found none. If we hear anymore about the ducks we'll let you know.

Loren
