Include size, shape, details of all parts (bill, eye, head, neck, back, wing, tail, throat, breast, belly, under tail, legs, feet). Also mention voice and behavior. I was watching a low flying group of blue birds when this crow-sized folcon moved in behind them. I thought the folcon was after a bluebind but they both flew over my head and then up and over some Trees and out of my sight. From the side I could see the folcon was med, brown and the mustash was thinner Than a peregrine's should be. It was merely a line going down from the eye. From below the most obvious mark I remember was the very dark axillaries, These patches were almost Triangle shoped starting wide along the body and topering to a point near the bend in the wing. The bird flew with steady shallow wing beats and moved rapidly. Similar species and how eliminated: Peregnine would not have the dark ax illowies. Did any one disagree or have reservations about identification?____ If yes, explain: Viewing conditions: give lighting, distance (how measured), and optical equipment: Distance about 50 ydo - Clear day - looking away from sun -10×40 binoas Previous experience with species and similar ones: 1st one for Jewo / but I've seen than elsewhere.
