Lewis' Woodpecker

Davis, F. H. 1936. Lewis' Woodpecker at Clear Lake. IBL 6:12.

Lewis's Woodpecker at Clear Lake.—I have had a Lewis's Woodpecker eating at a feeding station near my home in Clear Lake, Iowa, during the past winter. The bird was first observed on November 10, 1935, and has been seen daily since then. It is still here (March 2, 1936), and I will take note of the date of its departure. It is a large black woodpecker with a gray band around its neck blending into a robin-red breast. It is about 10½ inches in length and is not at all shy. The only other record of the Lewis's Woodpecker in Iowa appears to be the individual that was seen at Sioux City during the winter of 1928-1929.—F. H. DAVIS, Iowa State Conservation Commission, Clear Lake, Iowa. 2

Lewis's Woodpecker at Clear Lake.—This bird, which I described in the March issue of 'Iowa Bird Life' (p. 12), remained at the feeding-station until March 10, after which it disappeared. Its occurrence at this place was from November 10, 1935, to March 10, 1936.—F. H. DAVIS, Clear Lake, Iowa. 2
