

Marble Rock, Iowa
April 8, 1963

Peter C. Peterson Jr.
Davenport, Iowa

Dear Mr. Peterson,

There doesn't seem to be much to report from here in the way of winter activities among the birds. I believe they were all here in the usual numbers with the possible exception of the Junco. I would say there was about 80% of the number seen in recent years. I had no unusual records, although Bohemian Waxwings were reported to have been seen here again, but just a few this time - not the large number of a year ago. I believe this report was reliable.

Sincerely
Pearl Knapp