Dear Sir,

I was very much interested in your article that was in Tuttle's column "In The Open" in the Des Moines Sunday Register, about wood ducks. I live on a farm along the Little Sioux river. The river runs about 100 ft from the barn, have about 2 mi of river on the farm and it is fairly well wooded. There are some wood ducks that nest near here every year. I think it would be very nice to have nests for more of them, and would be very grateful for the article on how to make and place them.

I have 18 wild Canadian geese and over 100 wild mallards.
