Iowa State officially achieves status of university

Iowa State was founded by the citizens of Iowa in response to the feeling throughout the nation that the colleges and universities which were already established on traditional lines were not meeting all of the needs of the people. Americans believed that there should be a new type of higher education, made available to everyone at a minimum cost. This would teach not only the classical subjects generally taught in the universities but also would educate for other practical fields where the wealth of nations is produced. After 101 years, it became evident that its name must be changed to Iowa State University if Iowa State were to continue to maintain the leadership position which it had held among the land-grant institutions of the nation. The word "college" was proving costly in maintaining an excellent staff and in competing for grants. Thus, realizing the need for a change, Governor Herschel Loveless signed the bill making Iowa State College officially Iowa State University on July 4, 1959.

FOR ONE OF their half-time performances, the marching band first forms the traditional ISC, then corrects it to spell out ISU.

ON JULY 4, 1959, Governor Herschel Loveless signed the bill making official the name change from Iowa State College to Iowa State University.

DR. JAMES H. HILTON, completing his seventh year as president of Iowa State, has worked constantly for the expansion of the educational facilities of the university.

President James Hilton guides future of Iowa State

President James H. Hilton has led Iowa State for seven years. Together with his administrative tasks and his responsibilities in planning, he has combined a warm, friendly personality. His sincere interest in students and student activities and his ready support have kept him close to the student body. Receptions at the Knoll, his home, after graduation are a final reminder to seniors of his interest in Iowa State undergraduates. President Hilton also works with the Board of Regents and other administrative officials in mapping out a program of steady progress and development, maintaining Iowa State's rank as an excellent institution of higher learning.

Administration aids president in developing significant programs

Directing the growth of Iowa State University, formulating its policies and carrying out the day-to-day operations requires the loyalty, devotion and foresight of many individuals. The five men pictured on these pages, holding the highest positions in the administration, direct their efforts toward these aims. The press of students has required an expansion of facilities, and construction on campus was the answer. Plans were made for a library addition and for a classroom building. A Metals Development Building was under construction. Despite a current decrease in enrollment at Iowa State, predictions and a nationwide trend demand ever-careful planning for the future of Iowa State University.

The vice-president for business and finance, Boyne H. Platt, is chief business officer of Iowa State. He is responsible to the president for management of all business and physical operations of the university.

Provost James H. Jensen assists the president in the academic and general administration of the university. He serves as the presiding officer of the university during the absence of the president.

In the newly created position of Dean of Instruction, W. Robert Parks is concerned with the methods of instruction, curricula, new educational programs and off-campus courses. He is responsible to the president and the provost.

Registrar Arthur M. Gowan is general supervisor of undergraduate and graduate admissions and records. He works with the registration, procedures and general curriculum committees and is secretary of the graduate and general faculties.

In his position as Director of Student Affairs, Millard R. Kratochvil works closely with students. His duties include working in the area of the student's extracurricular life and enforcing the rules and regulations of the university.

College of Agriculture

A unique phase of work in the College of Agriculture is the Center for Agricultural and Economic Adjustment. During its first operational year, Center activities included sponsorship of a conference dealing with problems and policies of American agriculture, feed-livestock workshops for farmers and economists and an economic conference-workshop for agricultural editors, all of which drew nationwide participation and interest. Worldwide attention was centered on Iowa State University September 23 as the university was host to Nikita Khrushchev, a party of aides, secret service men and an army of newsmen and photographers. The head of the U.S.S.R. and his party visited the swine nutrition farm where Iowa State research workers explained programs of research in swine management and nutrition.

College of Agriculture expands facilities to new locations

Important physical facilities which have been added to the College of Agriculture include a new food processing building and a 426-acre farm just west of Ames. Acquisition of this farm will make it possible to move the agronomy research and agricultural engineering work to that location. Animal husbandry work will then be transferred off campus to the area vacated by agronomy research and agricultural engineering. The major opportunities for study in agriculture at Iowa State are agricultural business, animal husbandry, dairy industry, farm operation, forestry, horticulture, industrial education, poultry husbandry, fish and wildlife management, entomology, plant pathology, food technology and foreign trade and service. With his advanced scientific knowledge, the Iowa State graduate can face the future with confidence and security.

DIRECTING THE POLICIES of the College of Agriculture is Dean Floyd Andre, who has witnessed great expansion in the program due to changing demands of the field.

College of Engineering

Freshmen in the College of Engineering this fall were the first to begin their education under a curriculum revision. Under the new program students will take one year of basic engineering followed by three years of study in their specialized professional fields. The purpose of the revision is to offer a more flexible program so the faculty may better advise freshmen coming from varying backgrounds.

ENGINEERING STUDENTS work outside as well as inside. Here Alden Lude uses his transit to give a line up to the chainman.

TOM ROBERTS, engineering senior, operates a lathe in the mechanical engineering machine shop.

ROGER HEISER, engineering senior, watches carefully the indicators of a pulse column.

MICK MARLOWE, ceramic engineering major, operates an optical pyrometer, which measures the temperature of the furnace.

DR. GEORGE TOWN, dean of the College of Engineering, is responsible for directing the activities of the twelve engineering divisions.

Iowa State's new nuclear reactor expands research facilities for graduate students

Iowa State's new nuclear reactor, appropriately named Cy, was dedicated by Governor Herschel Loveless on November 18, 1959. The reactor is the only one of its type and size west of the Mississippi and will be used mainly by graduate students for nuclear research. The College of Engineering has twelve departments, nine of which offer undergraduate degrees, two offer graduate degrees and one grants no degree. Research is carried on at the Engineering Experiment Station. By approaching problems analytically and thoughtfully, engineering students emerge technically trained and ready to meet their obligations to industry and the nation.

College of Home Economics

Home economics is the profession dedicated to promoting the welfare of the family and its members. The freshman year in the College of Home Economics is designed to orient the student to college life and to lay the groundwork for general education. The specific curriculum does not have to be chosen until the end of the sophomore year. The various curricula in the College of Home Economics are planned to provide for personal development, for preparation to carry the responsibilities of homemaking and citizenship and for a professional career. All students in the College of Home Economics are eligible for membership in the eight departmental clubs. Home economics graduates are placed in a wide variety of positions, reflecting the diversity in areas of study available to them. Majors are offered in applied art, child development, food and nutrition, education, journalism, home economics and related science, home management, household equipment, institution management and textiles and clothing.

THE OBSERVATION ROOM of the nursery school is a familiar sight for child development majors. From behind a screen, students observe, record and analyze the conduct of pre-school children.

IN APPLIED ART, students like Sue Long and Jan Timmerman gain experience in selecting home furnishings.

DONNA WALTER, Jan Smith and Peggy Ticknor check every detail of the formal table setting they've completed for a meal management lab.

WITH THE ADVENT of spring, Marilyn Ahlgren moves outdoors to do her sketching for a watercolor class.

Home economics equips graduates for varied professions

After two or more quarters of study in home economics, a student with a 3.4 cumulative average or above is eligible to enroll in the Honors Program. Each student is granted the opportunity to do specialized, individualized study. Several groups work within the college. Home Economics Council co-ordinates the work and activities of the various departmental clubs and carries on its own activities. Twelve students make up the Dean's Advisory Board which studies areas of interest to both students and faculty. Omicron Nu and Phi Upsilon Omicron, national home economics honor societies, have chapters at Iowa State University. Graduates from Iowa State University are respected for their contributions to the dynamic, ever-changing field.

DEAN HELEN LeBARON visited in India this year to try to work out a plan of cooperation between the Colleges of Home Economics at Baroda University and Iowa State.

College of Sciences and Humanities

Education in the sciences and humanities gives the student basic knowledge with which to understand and interpret the complex aspects of modern life which he will encounter. He can become acquainted with economics, foreign affairs and human nature in addition to more technical pursuits. Many opportunities confront those trained in mathematics and the biological, physical and social sciences. Teachers, writers, technicians and scientists are needed in classrooms, offices and laboratories. The broad background offered by the College of Sciences and Humanities gives the graduate the ability for service in his work and in his community.

STUDENTS IN A PHYSICS lab concentrate on a problem given them — to find an unknown resistance by using a Wheatstone bridge.

IOWA STATE offers extensive training in the field of telecommunicative arts, including broad experience in the phases of television production. Here Don Sprague directs a closed circuit television show.

Sciences and Humanities combine liberal, technical fields

Science Council governs the student organizations and activities in the College of Sciences and Humanities. The members of the council meet to summarize student opinion concerning educational objectives and methods. Science Council sponsors activities for promoting closer relationships between the faculty and students and strives to develop and preserve a spirit of loyalty within the college. Students with outstanding academic records are eligible for participation in special study programs which stress independent, individual work. Students who excel in both activities and in studies are recognized through Lamos, local science honorary. Through their broad educational and extracurricular backgrounds, graduates in the College of Sciences and Humanities are able to make significant contributions in their fields.

DEAN RICHARD BEAR, head of the College of Sciences and Humanities, was recognized by science students this year by being made member of Lamos, science honorary.

College of Veterinary Medicine

VETERINARY MEDICINE freshmen, James Lucas and Richard Ikenberry, examine a horse skeleton. The cat, who makes his home in the lab, seems quite disinterested in the matter.

Because Iowa State University is located in the heart of an agricultural state, the student in veterinary medicine has an excellent opportunity to witness his profession at work. The two-way radio system used by the field-clinic service communicates between the college and the farms surrounding Ames. This service saves the lives of many farm animals and is another valuable function of the College of Veterinary Medicine. Professional ethics and pride are instilled within the men by an honor code. United by personal and professional respect, veterinary medicine students form the closest-knit college on campus. Their goals are high, and when attained, the men in the College of Veterinary Medicine become benefactors of mankind.

Veterinary medicine plans building for medical electronics

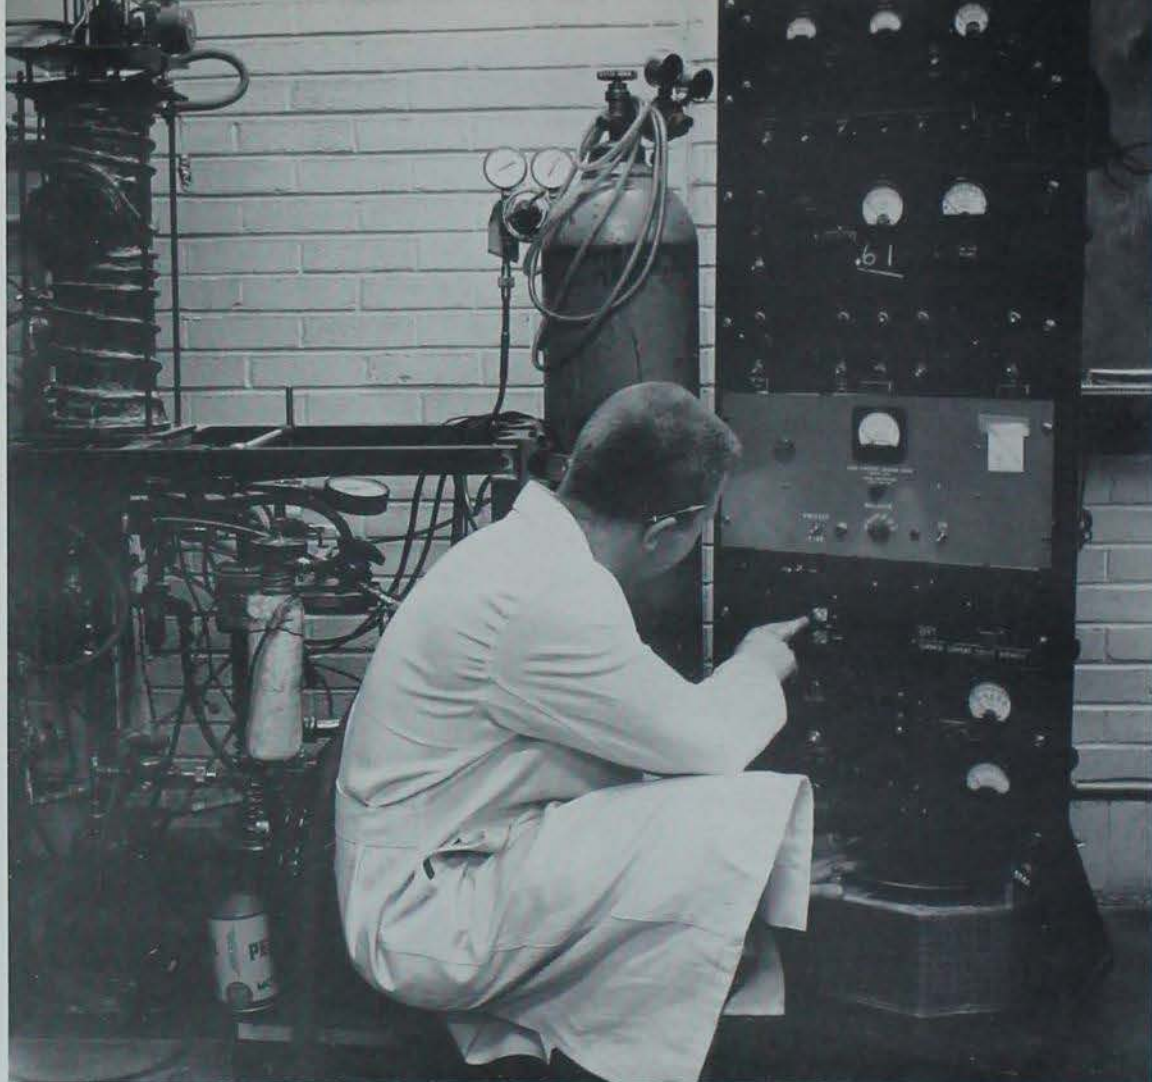

A new medical electronics building, resulting from a joint program between the electrical engineering and physiology departments, is in the planning stages. Construction is to begin in 1960. The building will be located east of the Science Building and will be used for study and research in physiology. Physiology is one of the six educational departments in the Veterinary Medicine College. In addition to these, there are hospital and ambulatory clinics, the Veterinary Medical Research Institute and the Iowa Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory. Students thus have the opportunity to observe the phases of veterinary medicine for which these laboratories are especially responsible. A minimum of two years of prescribed college is required for admission to the Veterinary College.

HEAD OF THE COLLEGE of Veterinary Medicine is Dean I. A. Merchant, who directs the operations of the six-year Iowa State program.

Graduate students perform creative and vocational study

Iowa State University has offered opportunities for graduate work to qualified students since its founding. Each of the five colleges has control of the graduate work of the students enrolled there. A special problem may create in an inquisitive student the desire to pursue his education further. This will lead him to become a candidate for an advanced degree. Today's specialized division of labor frequently demands that advanced study be oriented around vocational objectives rather than creative study and research. Professional degrees have been created to meet this need.

Extension links college, people to spread education, research benefits

Iowa State's Extension Services carry the results and benefits of research to residents in all parts of the state. The Agriculture and Home Economics Extension Service tries to reach every farm family and also urbanites interested in agriculture or home economics. The program includes conservation of natural resources, efficient marketing, youth development and education, and community improvement. The Engineering Extension Service works along engineering and industrial lines. One project which the Engineering Extension Service helped start is a summer series of 30 television lectures on pre-college mathematics. The program will be conducted by the Mathematics Department, and the extension service plans to do research on the effects after it has been completed.

AMONG THE PROJECTS of the extension workers at Iowa State was this clinic held in Marshall County on the selection and care of floor coverings.

Iowa State scientists contribute knowledge in each of the research areas in which the school specializes. The school's international rank in agriculture was acknowledged when Russian Premier Khrushchev visited the campus. Busy tempo of campus life resumes as old and new students arrive and classes begin

All too soon after Labor Day, nearly ten thousand students arrived on campus. Their coming quickly changed the campus from its summer lethargy into the hustle and bustle of the school year. Registration, as usual, was dominated by confused freshmen, wondering which station followed which. Many upperclassmen had registered by mail ahead of time in order to take advantage of one last glorious day of vacation. But the freshmen weren't alone in one respect at least. All students, with the exception of those who attended summer sessions, were registered at Iowa State UNIVERSITY for the first time. The number of students registering was down to 9,137, with the College of Engineering bearing the brunt of the decrease. But the smaller enrollment wasn't evident. The Commons was just as full — until midterm week at least — and the football stadium was even fuller than usual. And just as many pairs of tennies or desert boots shuffled through the autumn leaves on the miles of walks to and from classes.

STUDENTS ARE "stamped" upon admission to the first social event of the school year, fall quarter's Registration Dance.

THESE MEN CERTAINLY aren't trying to hide their motives in coming to the Registration Dance; even Cy seems to be in on the fun.

Fall activities include Harvest Ball, Greek Week, open houses and receptions

Fall quarter started off with a flourish of open houses, mixers and receptions. The annual freshman mixer found upperclassmen posing as freshmen to meet the new coeds. Fall meant football to both new and old students, and the season's opener found many Iowa State students migrating to Drake to cheer the team on to a 41-0 victory over the Bulldogs. The next weekend, fraternity and sorority members celebrated Greek Week with tapping for Gamma Gamma, the Olympics and a dance. Ann Erickson and Jim Bunning were chosen king and queen for the fraternities. With autumn in the air, the College of Agriculture sponsored the "Harvest Ball" at which Sally Haydon was announced as queen.

DON SHAW and his band provided music for "Harvest Harmony," an annual fall dance sponsored by Agriculture Council.

Iowa State students got a first-hand look at security precautions when Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev visited the campus Sept. 23. Curious students and townspeople lined campus avenues to catch a glimpse of the premier. Khrushchev and his wife stopped at MacKay Hall to greet officials and tour some classes before leaving the campus. Students again turned out in crowds for a spontaneous pep rally before the Missouri football game. Many of them even journeyed to Lawrence Kansas to support the "Dirty Thirty" at their migration game.

HOPING FOR a Missouri victory, students congregated in the Union and later held an enthusiastic snake dance in campus town.

and court outweigh depressing weather

Although the spirit of Homecoming had invaded classrooms and residences much earlier, Homecoming did not officially begin until the Pep Bar-B-Q Friday night. The coach and team appeared at the Bar-B-Q for the first time in four years, and their enthusiastic reception was only one of the many they were to receive during the weekend. The crowd was also excited as it heard the announcement of the queen, Marjorie Waage, and her attendants, Nancy Starbuck and Mary Morony. Other presentations made were "Cy's Favorite Alum," Carl Bluedorn from Waterloo, and the introduction of the '34 football team, back for a reunion.

First win since 1953 elates crowd as K-State loses, 26-0

Despite the cold weather, the stadium and additional bleachers were nearly filled on Saturday afternoon. Cheering and yelling, chilly fans watched Iowa State's "Dirty Thirty" score four touchdowns while the Wildcats from Kansas State were unable to carry the pigskin across the goal line. The crowd was thrilled with the thought of the first victory since 1953 but disappointed at the disappearance of 5,000 cards which were to have been used in the halftime entertainment by the band and card section. The cards were later found in the East Stadium rafters, but the culprits were not apprehended. After the 26-0 triumph and a victory rally, alums and students found their way back to residence open houses, reunions and coffee hours. Saturday night many students celebrated by dancing to the music of Les Elgart at "Reflections."

AFTER IOWA STATE'S 26-0 win over Kansas State, cheerleaders and Cy lead fans in shouting their praises for team members.

SOME OF THE MORE energetic enthusiasts start a snake dance on central campus, but it appears that the majority prefer to watch.

APPEARING AT the pep rally, President Hilton also had words of praise for the Cyclones.

SEVERAL of the younger spectators at the game appear to be a little dubious about Iowa State's lead over the Kansas State Wildcats.

ALMOST HIDDEN by the band, Homecoming Queen Marjorie Waage and her escort, Denny Shewchuk, proceed down the field for the queen's presentation during half-time.

LEAVING THE STAGE at the Pep Barbeque are Athletic Director Gordon Chalmers and Dr. Don Theophilus, a member of the 1934 team.

Yellow mums, the fight song refrain, returning alums...all were ingredients in making Homecoming a time of nostalgia and enthusiasm. But the overcast, wet sky and heavy wind did not fit the traditional picture. As the number of days before Homecoming decreased, the bad weather increased until on Friday afternoon many residence members found that the lawn decorations, on which they had worked hard indoors, disintegrated when they were moved outside. Some were reconstructed, but the wind and rain damaged others beyond repair. Friday afternoon the judges viewed the displays, and winners were announced that evening at intermission of "Casino," Union Holiday. First-place winners were: fraternities, Phi Delta Theta; sororities, Kappa Kappa Gamma; MRA, Stevenson House; and WRA, Birch Hall.

MARJORIE WAAGE, Iowa State's 1960 Homecoming queen, has a big smile for the photographer as she watches the "Dirty Thirty" chalk up a 26-0 win over the K State Wildcats.

AFTER A LONG DAY of activity, tired feet seemed to be the rule rather than the exception at the Homecoming dance.

TICKET SALESMEN were at their posts early in the morning to encourage Friley Hall men to attend Saturday night's dance.

SPOTLIGHTING of the manger scene re-emphasized the traditional flavor of the fourth annual Christmas Festival of Music.

Traditional music, tree lighting ceremony officially open Christmas season

Heralding the Christmas season at Iowa State was the traditional tree lighting ceremony on central campus. As melodious carols by the Iowa State Singers wafted on the air, President James Hilton threw the switch that lighted the myriads of multi-colored bulbs on the majestic evergreen. A newer Iowa State tradition is the Christmas Festival of Music. Iowa State Singers, Festival Chorus, Symphony Orchestra, Concert Band and Modern Dance Club combined to give the fourth inspirational Christmas concert. Much Christmas caroling between residences, the IFC Christmas party and the "Christmas Ball" ended the whirl of activities.

THE INTEREST of these youngsters at the Christmas Festival is captured as the spotlight falls on the impressive manger scene.

Cultural air pervades campus as musicians, dancers, actresses display talents

Guest artists and faculty members created a year-long atmosphere of culture on the campus. Before school was three weeks old, Social Bureau had brought pianist-comedian Henry Scott to the campus. The color of Spanish costumes, the rhythm of clicking castenets and the fast, flashing technique of the Spanish dance entertained an Armory audience when the Roberto Inglesias Spanish Ballet performed as part of the Artist Concert Series. Youthful guitarist Pete Seegar gave a program of folk and spiritual music a week later. A football audience enjoyed a program of tunes by Meredith Willson at halftime of the Iowa State-Nebraska game. The Iowa-born composer of The Music Man led spectators in singing "For I, For S, Forever," which he wrote for Iowa State five years earlier. Broadway star Julie Haydon showed her acting ability when she did scenes from The Glass Menagerie, The Time of Your Life and Shadow and Substance on November 13.

Current events, literature and music discussed, performed by local and national figures

Thought-provoking historian Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., discussed the implications of the technological revolution upon the age. He asked whether America could stand abundance politically or whether the luxury would soften the country. Also in the winter quarter, internationally-known marimbist Vida Chenoweth was soloist at the Symphony Orchestra concert. The Artist Concert Series brought another musical program to the campus in February. The Bach Aria Group, including Eileen Farrell and Jan Peerce among its four soloists, presented an all-Bach program.

Weekly events throughout the year included Books and Cokes and Film Theater. A faculty panel summarized the week's news and answered questions on recent happenings at News Forum, a winter program carried on into the spring upon general request.

HENRY SCOTT's performance was full of surprises, ranging from pantomime to the spoken word, from subtle satire to riotous humor.

Second annual Focus program salutes fine arts with music, drama, dance

Painting, music, drama, literary criticism and the dance were brought to the campus the first two weeks of spring quarter for the second annual Focus program, Iowa State's salute to the fine arts. This year's program included the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra with Edouard Van Remoortel, conductor; James T. Farrell, novelist-critic; and a three-day holdover-run of Laboratory Theatre's production of "The Drunkard." The two-week program also offered the Boston Opera Company's rollicking production of the comic opera, "Voyage to the Moon"; puppeteer Peter Arnott's presentation of "Dr. Faustus"; "Dance Portraits," by Daniel Nagrin; and a recital by comic songstress Anna Russell. Another aspect of Focus 1960 was an exhibition of paintings, "American Art Today and Yesterday," selected especially for Focus by artist-in-residence Dwight Kirsch from artist-dealer galleries in New York. Kirsch gave several talks and a lecture for the program.

Kingston Trio selects four women as Iowa State's Bomb Beauties

The women pictured on these pages have been chosen as the Bomb Beauties of 1960. They were chosen from candidates nominated from every campus residence on the bases of beauty, grace, poise and charm. The women attended two teas, the first in the Union and the second at the Phi Delta Theta house. At these teas judges circulated around visiting with the girls and rating them. Pictures of the eight finalists were then sent to the Kingston Trio who chose the final four. These women were candidates for Veishea Queen of Queens.

ONE OF the almost 3,900 votes cast in the all-college election March 16 is thrust into the Cardinal Guild ballot box.

PREPARING FOR a long evening's work, Guild members pour out the ballots which will determine who will fill the positions in next year's student government.

Student body president elected . . . Sundberg chosen as president of Women's Day events

Student politicking began late winter quarter as plans were made for the third annual all-college nominating convention. Getting their names on the ballot as a result of the convention were running-mates Ron Bern and Marlyn Jorgenson, and John Heath and Ross Marshall. Unsuccessful at the convention, Bill Dalgetty and his runningmate, Dave Voltmer, petitioned on the ballot with a record-breaking 3,100 signatures. Other less publicized positions also to be filled in the election were Cardinal Guild Senators, and Union Board and student publication board positions. After a series of handbills, signs, gimmicks and talks, 3,897 students voted March 16 to choose Dalgetty as president and Voltmer as vice-president. On Women's Day winter quarter, Ellie Sundberg was elected president. Speaker at a convocation was Miss Mary Kimbrough, national president of Theta Sigma Phi, woman's journalism fraternity.

CARDINAL GUILD members worked long into the night counting votes to determine the holders of next year's all-college positions.

WITH THE EXCITEMENT of the elections over, the ballot boxes, shoved into a corner, present a forlorn picture.

MEMBERS OF WEST LINDEN and Lange House combined efforts for their booth at the Blast with the theme, "Dunk the Hunk — Dip the Dish."

Humor contributes light touch to winter quarter at Varieties, Blast

Relieving the pressure of winter quarter, three student-planned events tempted students away from their books. In Varieties, one less performance than usual meant keener competition to qualify. The Sweepstakes trophy went to Phi Delta Theta for "The Yo-Yo Man," a takeoff on "The Music Man." A carnival atmosphere helped the Blast raise $1,300 for Campus Chest. The prize went to Birch Hall and Pearson House for their booth "La Jambe," which took in 700 ten-cent tickets.

ONE OF THE features of this year's Blast was a Miss Legs contest. Here the hooded finalists line up to be voted on.

HONORED AT the Activity Carnival were King Vinnie Brewer and Queen Joyce Rice.

A TRAMPOLINE exhibition was one of the features of this year's Activity Carnival.

"THE DISCOVERY," a pantomime about a hobo who regretted the discovery of a magic wand, was East Linden's Varieties skit.

BETA SIG's did a satire entitled "Robinhood," for Varieties, in which Guild spies took the place of the original happy clan.

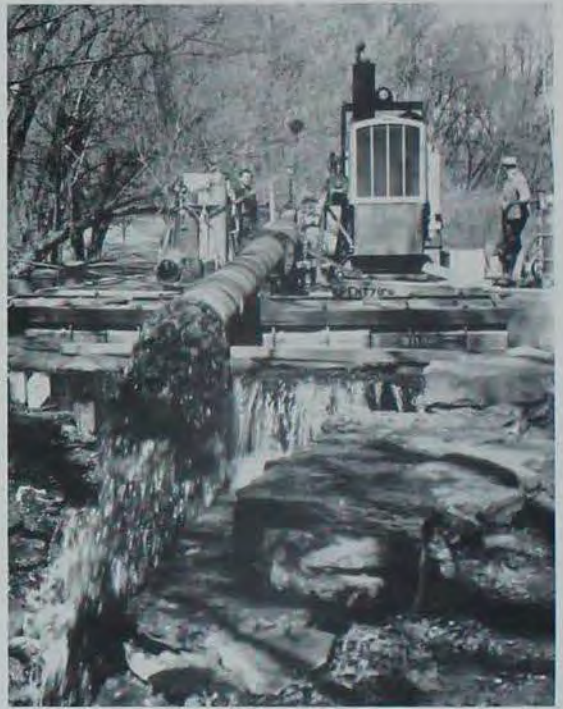

PATSY BATTEN and Charlott Sorenson take the foreground in the Alpha Delta Pi Varieties skit, a take-off on Swan Lake ballet.

Students move outside as spring finally reaches campus

Spring quarter began with a series of snow storms that made students think that the central campus nickname, "Little Siberia," was no joke after all. Campus elections, Dames Daze, the Military Ball, and nearly half the quarter had passed before spring really began to show its colors. Then students began spending less time in the library and more time sun-bathing and picnicking. During spring quarter a major improvement project got underway in the middle of the campus — the dredging of Lake LaVerne. The workings of the big machine and long pipes provided a real heyday for photographers and sidewalk engineers.

Veishea . . . shows Iowa State's education, talent, beauty

Veishea is Iowa State's spectacular way of showing itself to the people of Iowa. The thousands of visitors — alums, prospective students and friends — change Iowa State with its casual, easy-going atmosphere into a busy, crowded park. This year's early dates, May 7, 8 and 9, brought overcast skies for most of Veishea and a drenching, damaging drizzle for the parade on Saturday.

Casual events entertain students... excitement reigns at tapping

With classes over at noon Thursday, Iowa State students were prepared for the opening of Veishea. Prof. Ira Schroeder gave a carillon concert as crowds gathered around the campanile that afternoon for tapping, the first event of Veishea. The robed members of Mortar Board and Cardinal Key circled the crowd as they searched for the students to be tapped. When found, new members received the cap of Mortar Board or slap of Cardinal Key to tell them they had been selected. After tapping, many of the spectators moved across the street to Lake LaVerne where the canoe races were getting underway. Outlandishly-garbed residence members guided canoes around the race course with only pledge paddles for propulsion. That night, Veisheathon included the appearance of Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist Clark Mollenhoff, who spoke to the crowd on the importance of the newspaper and criticized apathy toward government.

LOOKS LIKE a little confusion on Lake LaVerne as entrants in the Veishea canoe races take the fatal spill.

CONTRASTING REACTIONS of both tears and smiles come as Jackie Andre is tapped for the highest women's honorary on campus, Mortar Board.

ON HAND FOR tapping is Clark Mollenhoff, guest speaker, who stops to talk with a new Mortar Board member, Mary Lou Pierce.

SURROUNDED BY cheering fraternity brothers, Bob Bartley, one of the senior men tapped, is congratulated by Ron Baukol.

THE STATELY color guard of the 1959 Veishea parade appears to be undaunted by the drizzling rain which continued all morning.

DELTA SIGMA PHI's "Alice in Wonderland" float captured the Sweepstakes trophy by featuring realistic characters from the well-known fairy tale.

BEGINNING WITH a series of traditional all-night work sessions, students construct the framework of their Veishea float.

*Parade goes on in spite of rain . . .

"Rain, rain, go away. . ." was the theme of the float builders as they saw the damp, grey sky Saturday morning. But the rain stayed, blending together the blue, greens, reds and whites of the crepe paper, and matting down the tissues meticulously woven in chicken wire. Few floats survived the battle, but in good showmanship fashion the parade did go on. A thinner-than-usual crowd showed its loyalty by huddling under umbrellas, newspapers and other improvised protection to watch the floats and bands go by. Sixty-four residence floats presented their interpretations of the parade theme, "Island Travel." An eye-catching "Alice in Wonderland" float with characters from the Lewis Carroll tale won the Sweepstakes trophy for Delta Sigma Phi. Divisional winners were Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Freeman Hall, Noble House and Beta-Epsilon Ward. Later in the day the open houses showed the educational and professional opportunities offered by Iowa State. High school students saw Iowa State on Career Day, when they were taken on tours of the open houses and treated to a barbeque lunch. At the horse show spectators saw horses in 17 classes compete for over $1,500 in prizes.

FOLLOWING THE JUDGE'S instruction to trot her horse, this pretty entrant in a three gait class of the Veishea horse show has high hopes of winning the blue ribbon.

'Annie Get Your Gun'*

Broadway and Shakespeare were both represented at Iowa State during Veishea. Stars Over Veishea, moved into the Armory but keeping its traditional name, presented Irving Berlin's "Annie, Get Your Gun." Sparkling dialogue and well-liked music kept the show moving along. In a more serious vein, Iowa State Players put on "The Taming of the Shrew," the rollicking farce telling the story of Petruchio and Kate. In addition to their talents of acting and directing, students showed their talent for creative writing at Veishea Vodvil. Four winning skits from Varieties were woven into a "Gaslight Gaieties" theme. In-between acts were interspersed among the skits. The Vodvil trophy was awarded to Kappa Kappa Gamma for its humorous portrayal of bright babies and degree-minded parents in "Pammel Place." The last event of Veishea was the dance, "Flambeau," Saturday night. Count Basie and his band kept the dance floor crowded as they played their "music with a beat."

ANTICIPATING THEIR own entrance onto the stage of the Armory, some cast members seem to be mentally going over their lines; others visit with each other unconcernedly.

SEEING THAT EVERY member of the SOV "Annie Get Your Gun" cast has the proper costume is quite a job. Here an actress surveys the unending work of the costume crew.

Graduation . . . stately procession ends four year interlude

THE LONG LINE of Home Economics students descends from the stage — each woman with a Bachelor of Science degree in hand.

Due to a change in the college calendar, Iowa State had no June graduates in 1959. Instead, 1200 students were graduated on Friday morning, May 29. For most of them, it was the climax of four years at Iowa State. . . give or take a few quarters. Donning caps and gowns, they took the final steps leading them away from the student's life of Union labs and three-month summer vacations. During the week before graduation, seniors enjoyed many events planned just for them. Senior ducats gave free or reduced admission to recreational facilities around Ames. The traditional cap and gown ceremony on central campus featured Dr. Alvin Rogness as guest speaker. For most graduates, the final event of their college lives was a presidential reception at The Knoll.

AFTER GRADUATION, parents form a long line at the Knoll to greet President Hilton.

THE PROUD PARENTS of Iowa State graduates receive credit too, as they are congratulated by President James Hilton and his wife.

AS A CLIMAX to their years of study, graduating seniors gather in the Armory with parents and friends to receive the long-anticipated college diplomas.

JIM BALLOUN, student body president, headed Cardinal Guild during spring and fall quarters, 1959, and winter quarter, 1960.

Cardinal Guild

Student government at Iowa State represents both residence groups and academic groups. In Cardinal Guild Senate, the legislative branch, both colleges and residence groups have elected representatives. Two representatives are allotted to each of the five colleges and the six residence groups — MRA, IFC, Ward System, Pammel Court, WRA and Panhellenic Council. In addition, seven senators are elected at large, bringing the total number of voting members to 29. A secretary, selected by application and interview, and three assistant secretaries perform clerical duties for senate. Senators from specific groups are chosen by application, interview, and election by the students they represent, with balloting for college representatives taking place the same time as the presidential voting. The seven senators-at-large are also elected at this time.

Guild suggests grading system change . . . sponsors Freshman Nominating Convention

The third branch of Cardinal Guild, the judicial branch, began functioning fall quarter. It consists of a Supreme Court which hears cases dealing with activities and honor system violations. The administrative branch of Guild is the cabinet, presided over by Jim Balloun, student body president. Cabinet members do research and organize machinery to put resolutions into effect. They are selected by interview. Members of Cardinal Guild Senate, the legislative branch, are chosen in the spring all-college elections. John Saathoff, student body vice-president, presided over senate. One area of effort for Guild this year was working on a more equitable grading system. Cardinal Guild sponsored the second annual Freshman Nominating Convention and Freshman Guild for a Day last fall.

Agriculture Council

"Harvest Ball," sponsored by Agriculture Council, was climaxed by the crowning of Sally Haydon as queen of the dance. The council is composed of junior and senior representatives from the College of Agriculture. A gold key is awarded to its outstanding members. Each council member must have at least a 2.25 grade point and is elected by agriculture students.

They work to coordinate activities within the College of Agriculture between faculty members and Cardinal Guild. This year the council sponsored the annual All-Ag Banquet and established a series of student-faculty committees within the College of Agriculture. Agriculture Council also sponsored an "Outstanding Departmental Club" contest. Council members helped supervise Veishea open houses within the college, coordinating the ideas of the college with Veishea rules and the Veishea theme.

Engineering Council

Engineering Council was designed to promote cooperation among the departments of the College of Engineering and to officially represent engineering students by sponsoring both official and social functions. Members sponsor a joint meeting of engineering societies and a curriculum survey. They also help sponsor the "Christmas Ball." Council representatives served as freshman guides in the fall, and participated in an engineering reception and the Engineer's Carnival. Membership of Engineering Council is composed of one representative elected annually by each engineering society. Officers last year included Bob Shiley, president; John Cronk, vice-president; Bill Bywater, secretary; and Darryl Trulin, treasurer. Faculty adviser for the council was Prof. David VanHorn, and dean's representative was Prof. J. E. Lagerstrom. The twenty-four members of the council met on the second and fourth Tuesday of every month.

Home Economics Council

Home Economics Council is a professional group which is affiliated with the American Association of Home Economics Clubs. It started the year by giving a card party as a kickoff for membership sales. Council members also sponsored the Veishea open house in MacKay Hall, the Home Economics Banquet, the United Nations Tea for foreign students, a state day convention and a china display. To be a member of Home Economics Council a student must have a 2.0 all-college grade point. Officers on council are elected by women in the college; committee chairmen are chosen by application and interview. Individual club officers are elected within the departmental clubs. Each home economics club is represented on the council by its president and vice-president. The council met every second and fourth Tuesday of the month under the leadership of Joan Reynolds.

Science Council

Science Council acts as a liaison between science students and the faculty of the college. It promotes interest and development in departmental clubs. Council members and officers strive to coordinate the departmental activities and clubs. Science Council members sponsored the annual "Christmas Ball." They also sponsored the reception for new students in science during Freshman Days. The 12 members of the council are chosen by application and interview. Meetings were held every two weeks in the Science Council office this year. Officers of the council included Dick Baxter, president; Sue Sweet, secretary-treasurer; Ann Thornburg and John Heath, Cardinal Guild representatives. Dr. Ellis Hicks serves as faculty adviser for the group.

AN ANNUAL PROJECT of Science Council is the sponsoring of the Christmas Ball.

Veterinary Medicine Council

THE INTERPRETATION of an x-ray is discussed by the officers of Vet Med Council.

Veterinary Medicine Council is composed of representatives of the Iowa State Chapter of the American Veterinary Medicine Association. Members of the council are AVMA officers. Representatives are chosen from each of the four classes to represent the classes on council. Also, there are two representatives from the Veterinary Medicine College elected to represent the council on Cardinal Guild. Throughout the year, Veterinary Medicine Council members heard guest speakers, usually veterinarians or men who are employed in related fields. Just before Christmas the group sponsored a party for wives and children of members. At the winter smoker, new officers were elected. The council also sponsored a fall banquet, a luncheon at Homecoming for alumni, a spring picnic and a spring dance.

Pammel Court Council

Pammel Court Council provides the means by which married students in Pammel are self-governing. Pammel Court is a small city, having an estimated 4,700 residents. Among the projects sponsored by the council this year were the spring dance, the "Fall Festival" in October and a children's Christmas party. The social committee, which was composed of ten volunteer women, and council members worked on the three events. The council includes the mayor, ten councilmen and two Cardinal Guild representatives. To serve on the council a student must have been a resident of his zone for two quarters. The mayor must have been a resident of the community for one year. Cardinal Guild representatives must have and maintain a 2.25 grade point and be a resident of the community for two quarters. Serving as mayor was Homer Long, with Morton Stelling, chairman; Rodney Armour, secretary; and Jerry Loupee, treasurer.

Social chairmen from all campus residences form Joint Social Council. During their monthly meetings council members discuss programs to improve the social activities at Iowa State. Highlight of the year was "Dames Days," a turnabout weekend sponsored by Joint Social Council.

Social Bureau

Social Bureau is designed to provide and supplement all-college social events. In the spring Social Bureau sponsored a talk on etiquette by Russell Curry. Also that quarter, Social Bureau presented spring and summer fashions at a style show, "Fantasy Fashions." During summer school, the bureau co-sponsored an informal dance. Social Bureau was busy again fall quarter, either bringing performers to the campus or the campus to performers. Henry Scott, famed humorist pianist, made an appearance on campus to entertain students. Also, the bureau was responsible for a trip many Iowa State students made to Des Moines in October to My Fair Lady. Together with the Iowa State University Players, Social Bureau co-sponsored Julie Hayden's performance on November 13. Social Bureau is composed of residence representatives besides two representatives from the senior, junior and sophomore classes, elected on an all-college ballot in the spring.

Student Union Board

Student Union Board is responsible for the many campus activities which center around the Memorial Union. Annually its members sponsor winter quarter Varieties, a series of jazz concerts, bridge lessons and tournaments, and Books and Cokes. The Union Board Talent Bureau keeps a complete file of Iowa State talent. Board members also hold registration dances at the beginning of each quarter, free movies and movie reviews, and news forums. This year Union Board presented Club "2000," a concert by the Iowa State Singers and orchestra. Union Board represents the student body on the Board of Directors of Memorial Union to set the policy for all student activities held in the Union and to allocate the use of Union facilities to benefit a maximum number of students. Members, who must be juniors or seniors with at least 2.0 cumulative grade point, are selected by interview and all-college elections.

CHUCK OLSEN and John Syndergaard, president and vice president of Union Board, direct the activities of the service group.

UNION BOARD members gather in the Pine Room to discuss plans for their sponsoring of Varieties.

Mortar Board

FOLLOWING THE tapping ceremony, a new Mortar Board member, Susie Shearer, is congratulated by friends.

Mortar Board is the highest women's honorary on the Iowa State campus. It grew from a local group called the "Jack-O'-Lanterns," founded in 1914. In 1925 the group became a part of the national Mortar Board. The most important event for Mortar Board members each year is the tapping of new pledges at Veishea. The identities of the new pledges are unknown until the active members tap them with a Mortar Board cap. Selections for pledges are made after each woman in the junior class indicates which junior women she thinks are Mortar Board material. The actives select them on the basis of service, scholarship and leadership.

Cardinal Key

A hearty whack on the back designates the selection of the junior and senior men who have been chosen for Cardinal Key, Iowa State's highest honorary for men.

The big red key, symbol of the honorary, is worn by all new members from their tapping at a ceremony during Veishea until their initiation banquet. Members of this group, which honors leadership, scholarship, character and service are chosen from recommendations of campus leaders, faculty members and local ministers.

The honorary may have from 5 to 8 junior members and 2 to 10 senior members. Total membership is never less than 10 nor more than 15 from any graduating class.

Phi Kappa Phi

Phi Kappa Phi, national scholarship honorary, has been on the Iowa State campus since 1911, fourteen years after its national founding. Undergraduates must be in the upper one-sixteenth of their graduating class to be eligible for membership. Graduate student members must be in the upper one-tenth of those receiving graduate degrees.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE is in store for these women as they find invitations in their mail to become members of Phi Kappa Phi.

Eta Kappa Nu is a national professional electrical engineering honorary. Its purpose is to recognize electrical engineering students who are outstanding in scholarship, character, leadership and activities.

Eta Kappa Nu

DEAN RICHARD BEAR is given an honorary membership to Lamos by Merlin Spencer.

Organized at Iowa State in 1955, Lamos is a local honorary of the College of Sciences and Humanities. Membership to the organization is limited to science juniors and seniors who are in the upper one-fourth of their classes and have proven to be outstanding in scholarship, leadership and service to Iowa State and the College of Sciences and Humanities. Its purpose is to give recognition to outstanding science students. There are between four and seven juniors and the same number of seniors chosen for the honorary each year. New members can be recognized by the cardboard replicas of the Lamos pin that they wear around their necks immediately after pledging. Serving as president of the organization this year was Merlin Spencer. Richard Baxter was vice-president and Delores Robbins Lindahl was secretary-treasurer. Faculty adviser of the honorary is Prof. E. W. Peterson.

Order of Chessmen

BILL BORTHWICK, president of the Order of Chessmen, presents the $100 Madge Young Scholarship check to Henry Hacker.

The Order of the Chessman is an honorary composed of 20 outstanding members of the Men's Residence Association who have actively participated in campus activities. A 2.1 all-college grade average and six months' residence in the MRA are requirements for membership, as well as leadership and service to the MRA. Recommendations for new members are made by all MRA houses. Final selection is made by active members. New members are tapped at "April Fantasy," the MRA spring dance. The Order of Chessmen administers the Madge Young Memorial Scholarship, which was established in memory of Mrs. Madge M. Young, a housemother of Friley-Hughes Hall. Bill Borthwick led the group this year as president.

Phi Eta Sigma

The purpose of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman men's honorary, is "to promote freshman scholarship and to follow any line of activity which will improve the college community of which it is a part." This year Phi Eta Sigma recognized the residence with the greatest grade point increase at the end of every quarter, established an all-college tutoring service and recommended curriculum changes to the faculty. To become a member of Phi Eta Sigma, a freshman must have at least a 3.5 grade point at the end of the first quarter or a cumulative grade average of 3.5 or more at the end of the second or third quarters. This year Phi Eta Sigma had 57 actives. One week is set aside each year for pledging. All new members were initiated in the spring or fall of 1959.

Pi Mu Epsilon

Pi Mu Epsilon is a national mathematics honorary. To be eligible a student must have at least a 3.0 grade average in mathematics beyond calculus. Pi Mu Epsilon sponsors a spring banquet at which new members are inducted.

Knights of St. Patrick is a national engineering activities honorary. The fun-loving members (as shown in picture) are chosen on the basis of activities, scholarship, and leadership. There were about 25 members this year.

Omicron Nu

Pink and maroon ribbons are proudly worn by pledges of Omicron Nu. They are selected from the top junior, senior and graduate scholars in home economics. Members sponsor a sophomore recognition tea annually.

Phi Upsilon Omicron is a national home economics professional honorary. Along with Home Economics Council and Omicron Nu, it sponsors an annual home economics banquet. A $100 award is given each year.

Phi Upsilon Omicron

Phi Mu Alpha

Phi Mu Alpha, men's music honorary, won the Cardinal Guild Service "I" Award spring quarter. During the year Phi Mu Alpha sponsored such activities as the Festival of Jazz, Sinfonia Sing and the Concert of American Music.

Sigma Alpha Iota is a national professional music fraternity for women. To be pledged a candidate must have a 2.25 grade point and be recommended by a music faculty member. SAI members sponsored Sor Dor Sing.

Sigma Alpha Iota

Sigma Delta Chi

Sigma Delta Chi is an honorary for outstanding male students in journalism. Members of the group, along with the members of Theta Sigma Phi, edit, publish and distribute the Green Gander, campus humor magazine.

Theta Sigma Phi is a national women's professional journalism fraternity. This year's members helped with Green Gander advertising sales and distribution, and sponsored a quarterly freshman-sophomore orientation program.

Theta Sigma Phi

Tau Beta Pi is a national honorary engineering society. Each year the society presents the Tau Beta Pi award to a freshman earning the highest scholastic average in the first two quarters of the freshman year in engineering. Winter quarter members give a banquet for new initiates and alumni. Banquet speaker this year was Prof. George Lamb, a member of the national executive council, who spoke on "The Glorious Adventure of Learning." Tau Beta Pi was founded nationally in 1885. Its purpose is to "mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor on their alma mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character, and to foster the spirit of liberal culture in the engineering colleges of America."

Tau Sigma Delta

Tau Sigma Delta, national honorary society for students in architecture and architectural engineering, encourages scholastic attainment.

Each year a banquet is held in honor of the new initiates, chosen on the basis of grades.

Pi Tau Sigma is a national honorary for mechanical engineers. This year's members gave the Ken L. Evans memorial, a plaque on which will be recorded the name of the outstanding mechanical engineering senior.

Tomahawk

Purposes of Tomahawk, the national honorary service club for sophomore independents, are to honor sophomores for outstanding work in activities and to improve relationships between different residence groups. Members are elected to this organization on the basis of grade average, school service, loyalty and cooperation. The main project of this year's group was helping to establish a new Tomahawk chapter at Iowa State Teachers College. Another activity was a trip to Purdue University to attend the organization's national convention. The service-oriented club helped find living quarters for visiting students during Veishea and managed an information booth. Members served as babysitters for Pammel Court residents throughout the year. Events such as biweekly powwows, pledge week, the initiation ceremony, banquets, picnics and conventions promoted fellowship among Tomahawkers. The honorary has existed on campus since 1951.

Agricultural Business Club members annually give a Farm Manager Award to an outstanding Iowa farmer. The organization is open to any student enrolled in agricultural business and now has about 70 members. The club strives to give agriculture students an opportunity to develop leadership qualities through both social and academic experiences. Members of this professional organization work under the National Economics Association.

American Institute of Electrical Engineers and Institute of Radio Engineers

MEMBERS OF AIEE-IRE enjoy coffee and donuts after a meeting at which Prof. Robert Uhrig was the guest speaker.

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Institute of Radio Engineers is a professional electrical engineering departmental club. The club was organized to acquaint students with the variety of fields in electrical engineering and to promote better student-faculty relationships. The group also works to acquaint electrical engineering students with industry. It strives to present students with a picture of the applications of technical training to industry. To become a member of the club, a student must be enrolled in electrical engineering. This year the club had 250 members. "Engineers Carnival" was one of the activities in which members of the AIEE-IRE participated. In the spring, the members sponsored a banquet and a picnic.

American Veterinary Medical Association

Purposes of the Iowa State University student chapter of the American Veterinary Medical Association are to promote the spirit of friendly relations among the veterinary students and to provide the opportunity for members to gain additional professional knowledge. It also endeavors to demonstrate the virtues of organized effort, to build character through its own honor system and to uphold the honor and dignity of the veterinary profession. It makes available to students the opportunities offered by the AVMA to its undergraduate chapters.

Requirements for membership are that a student be an enrolled undergraduate of the Iowa State Veterinary College, meet its scholastic requirements, attend meetings and pay dues.

ADVANCED VETERINARY medicine students make an intravenous injection into this patient at the small animal clinic.

Members of AVMA sponsored a spring dance last year, which was attended by students and faculty members. At the May meeting of AVMA, awards were presented and new officers were elected. A fall banquet featured Dr. Samuel F. Schiedy, president of national AVMA, as guest speaker. The lawn of the Vet-Quadrangle was the site of a Homecoming luncheon this fall. Later in the year, a Christmas party was given for students, wives and faculty. Humorous skits by junior students portraying different faculty members were a part of the winter smoker in January. Also at the smoker, officers for the second term of the year were elected.

TWO CHEMICAL ENGINEERING students find that to familiarize themselves with such complicated equipment is quite a job.

American Institute of Chemical Engineers

The American Institute of Chemical Engineers is a departmental club which was organized to provide professional development of students in chemical engineering. The program of the group acquaints undergraduates with their fellow students and professors and introduces them to the opportunities in fields of chemical engineering. To become a member of this national professional organization, a student must be enrolled in the chemical engineering curriculum. The 270 members of this year's Iowa State chapter met every other Wednesday night. In the spring the group held its annual banquet. Also this year the group helped with the "Engineers Carnival."

Block and Bridle Club

Block and Bridle Club is an animal husbandry departmental club with about 150 members. The club was organized to promote all phases of student animal husbandry work in colleges and universities, and a higher scholastic standard among these students. It also attempts to bring about a closer relationship among those pursuing some phase of animal husbandry as a profession. Membership is open to all undergraduate students, graduate students and faculty members in the Animal Husbandry or Dairy Husbandry Departments. Other interested students in the College of Agriculture may also belong. Block and Bridle Club sponsored the Veishea Horse Show and "Little International."

SKIMMING THE TOP of the hurdle is this entrant in the Veishea Horse Show, an event sponsored by Block and Bridle.

Business Students Association

Formed locally in 1955, the Business Students Association is a professional group open to all students taking business courses. Striving to correlate business with training, the organization promotes a closer affiliation between industry and the business students. The annual Industrial Administration Banquet was the highlight of the year for members of Business Students Association. The spring quarter project of the organization was its Veishea display. The display depicted business associated with the four minors available in the Industrial Administration Department. The association also sponsored speakers throughout the year from various phases of industry. Leading the 130 members this year was Carrol Schwaderer, president. Other club officers were Robert Greer, vice-president; Carl Macha, secretary; and Jerold Olmstead, treasurer. Doctor William H. Schramper served as faculty adviser. The association held monthly meetings.

Dairy Husbandry Club

This year's activities of Dairy Husbandry Club included a banquet in January which was attended by about 120 students, alumni and prominent dairymen. At this time one of the dairymen was made an honorary member of the club.

Dairy Industry Club is a professional group formed to create and promote interest in dairy industry and to encourage a closer student-faculty relationship. Among this year's projects were an open house and a student-faculty dance.

Farm Operations Club

Farm Operations Club, organized on the Iowa State campus in 1948, provides an extra-curricular activity for students with this major. The club develops fellowship and leadership among the students and strives to maintain a high enrollment in the department. Anyone enrolled in or interested in farm operations may join the club, which has a membership of about 190. Club members enjoyed a picnic at the State 4-H Camp last May. Rog Christensen was chairman of the event. Another social event of the club was the freshmen reception held in the Memorial Union this fall. Refreshments were served to the freshmen and they were told about the activities of the club. Larry Anton served as president this year and Dr. Duane Acker acted as faculty adviser. Other officers included James Freuent, vice-president; Chuck Bineau, secretary, and Dick Nyswanger, treasurer.

THE SPONSORSHIP of Paul Bunyan Days during Veishea was a project of Forestry Club.

Forestry Club

Organized in 1904, the Forestry Club strives to foster a spirit of comradeship among Iowa State foresters. It also endeavors to create an interest in topics relating to forestry among its members. As one of its projects, the organization provides for the publication of an annual magazine, "The Ames Forester." On the club's social calendar this year was a spring campfire held at Brookside Park in May. The campfire took place on Forester's Recognition Day. In October, members held a stag campfire at MacDonald Woods, and just before Christmas vacation club members sold Christmas trees as a money-making project. Another highlight of the year was the annual "Game Banquet," held during winter quarter. Members of the organization also attended the Midwest Forester's Conclave.

Industrial Education Club

Industrial Education Club is a local professional group composed of all students in the Industrial Education Department. The purpose of the organization is to promote good fellowship among the members, to discuss problems pertinent to industrial education and to cooperate and work with the students in other departments. The club sponsored a number of projects this year. The Industrial Education Banquet was held in March in the Sun Room of the Memorial Union. Industrial education majors' wives were in charge of decorations.

The Veishea open house displayed the skills, abilities and knowledge learned in this field.

In the spring a picnic was held at Brookside Park. Married members competed against the bachelors in a baseball game. In order for students to have a chance to become better acquainted with industry and its processes, club members visited an industry. Industrial Education Club also gives scholarships each quarter to give financial support to those in need.

Institute of Aeronautical Sciences

Members of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences enjoyed a spring picnic at Brookside Park which featured a softball game putting senior members against juniors. Also spring quarter the club sponsored the aeronautical engineering open house during Veishea. The open house showed the relationship between the aircraft industry and the educational background provided at Iowa State. Senior displays showing ideas formulated by students were also included. During the year seniors and graduate students reported on summer work opportunities.

Representatives from aircraft industries spoke and showed films concerning the many phases of aeronautical engineering. This professional group, which was formed at Iowa State in 1943, seeks to create closer ties among aeronautical engineers by discussion of common interests. The institute has no grade point requirements. Students may join at any of the meetings throughout the year.

Funds for the club are obtained from dues and cold drink sales in the Aeronautical Engineering lab.

Science Women's Club

Science Women's Club is a local organization which was formed in 1928 to bring together educational and social purposes. Women in the Colleges of Science and Humanities, Engineering, Agriculture, Veterinary Medicine and Home Economics and related science may belong.

This year the club began a system for counseling freshman and sophomore women on selecting courses to supplement their majors.

Another project for Science Women's Club this year was the awarding of a $100 scholarship to a deserving woman in science. This scholarship and a $10 award to the senior woman in science with the highest grade point are annual events for the club. Part of the money for these projects was earned by making and selling sandwiches in the women's dorms during final week. Meetings for the approximately 30 members were held every other week throughout the year. Officers were Cheryl Vander Waal, president; Mary Pat Read, secretary; Sandy Wiggins, treasurer; and Karen Knudsen, publicity chairman. Dr. Delma Harding served as faculty adviser.

Writers' Roundtable

DR. PEARL HOGREFE points out a passage in a story as two members of Writers' Roundtable consider its meaning.

"We must examine candidly, think honestly, and strive to write with power and purpose. We must experiment, improve our craftsmanship, and work to polish and perfect techniques." With this aim, Writers' Roundtable meets weekly to discuss, analyze and constructively criticize works presented by student members. Many of these stories and poems later appear in the student publication of creative writing, Sketch, a quarterly magazine which gives all creative student writers an opportunity to publish their works. Writers' Roundtable is an interest and service group on the Iowa State campus. Dr. Pearl Hogrefe of the English Department led the group in their activities throughout the year. Dave Waller served as the Writers' Roundtable representative to Sketch this year.

Campus 4-H

The 4-H Camp near Boone was the scene of many Campus 4-H activities this year. During camp-outs, members undertook work projects designed to beautify and improve the camp area, but still found time for recreation. Each year club members participate in a special Christmas project. The proceeds are used to erect some structure on the camp grounds. During the winter months recreation deputation teams held county 4-H recreational leadership schools.

Iowa State Debaters

The Iowa State Debaters group encourages and teaches methods of analytical thought and argument, and gives speech training to promote a more liberal atmosphere. Any interested student may attend the Debaters meetings on Wednesday nights. Nine major debate trips out of town as well as on-campus debate tournaments were the major activities which occupied Iowa State Debaters this year. The members of this organization also gave regular Saturday afternoon radio discussions. About 30 students comprised this year's squad, which is open to anyone interested in all phases of debating. Officers this year were Ken Lochner, president; Dan Bechter, vice-president; and Jack Hansen, program chairman. Richard Wilkie served as forensics director.

MEMBERS of Debaters combine their wits to discuss tactics for the next meet. Leading the discussion is Richard Wilkie, their Forensics director.

Communications

Bomb

Recording the events and activities of 9,000 students kept the Bomb editorial staff busy all year. Work on the 1960 Bomb began spring quarter, before the 1959 staff had completed its work. Senior pictures were taken and photographers busily recorded the quarter's events. As school began in the fall, efforts began in full force. Staff members were constantly confronted by production schedules and pressing deadlines. Copywriters wrote lines and lines of copy describing activities of the year as photographers captured shots of campus events. Pictures were selected, cropped and sent to the engravers. Copy was edited and re-edited to eliminate possible errors. After it was set, proofs were checked for typographical mistakes. One by one, the dummies were sent to press. The process was a slow, steady one of growth. The result: the 1960 Bomb, a record of student life and activities at Iowa State.

DIRECTING THE WORK of the staff and making editorial and pictorial decisions was Carole Boughton, editor of the 1960 Bomb.

WILLIAM HOLMES, superintendent of the Iowa State Press, examines one of the first page proofs with Elmer Mallo, Wes Ritchie, head photographer, and Jerry Romans.

REFERRING to the books, Business Manager John Heath explains the progress of sales on the 1960 Bomb.

The Bomb business staff began work spring quarter of 1959. Contracts were made with organizations to be included in the 1960 Bomb so the book could be laid out during the summer. Contracts were let for the engraver and for the photographer for group and senior pictures. At the beginning of fall quarter, members of the business staff were busy getting subscriptions for the 1960 Bomb. Registration yielded many sales. In addition to a fall sales campaign, the business staff let the cover contracts. Throughout the fall and winter the business staff compiled lists of students requesting the Bomb to be mailed to them, of yearbook exchanges, and kept the bills paid. After the 1960 Bombs were returned from the bindery in May the business staff was responsible for distribution. In addition to distributing Bombs to purchasers, free Bombs are given to juniors and seniors, as determined by winter quarter registration lists. Bombs are also mailed to high schools throughout Iowa.

Iowa State Daily

One of the first things most students do when they get up in the morning is read the Iowa State Daily. The Daily is distributed to residences early in the morning so that students may have a chance to read the latest campus news before they start the "hurry-scurry" of the day.

Before the paper can be delivered, many students must fulfill their obligations to the Daily. Reporters must check their beats for stories and write them to meet the five o'clock afternoon deadline. Editors then read and reread the stories, checking to eliminate mistakes. Final drafts are sent to the back shop to be set in type. Proofs are then returned to the editors to check for typographical errors. Headlines and cutlines for the pictures must also be written to fit the allotted space. With the last of the page proofs corrected, the Daily is ready for press. The huge, lumbering press produces nearly 6,000 copies to be distributed to the campus population.

FROM THE DESK of the editor, all of the major policy and editorial decisions are made. Tom Emmerson was fall quarter Daily editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR Bob Johnson and Editor Bob LeMay consult with Issue Editor Tom Emmerson about the lead story.

SANDY CRUICKSHANK, managing editor of the Daily, explains an assignment on the "beat sheet" to Dick Doak, sports editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR Bob Johnson makes a final check for typographical errors before the Daily goes to press.

REPORTER Al Buch types out a story to meet the five o'clock deadline as Bob Harrison, sports editor, and Jim Walde look over information on a feature story they're writing.

KAYE CURRAN, society editor, has a big job in keeping up with all of the pinning and engagement announcements to run in the Daily.

BOB LEMAY, who was editor of the Daily during winter and spring quarters, arranges an interview for an editorial he's writing.

Daily staff members must work five days a week. Their duties remain basically the same throughout the quarter. The business manager keeps close check on financial matters to see that income balances expenditures. The managing editor assigns stories to the reporters and supervises the work of other news room personnel. Final decisions about editorial policy and content of the paper are left to the editor.

ELLEN MOLLESTON, fall quarter managing editor of the Daily, rewrites a story as Bob Harrison takes over on the rim to edit copy.

CHUCK KLOPF, who served as associate editor of the Daily fall and winter quarters, took over as business manager spring quarter.

BESIDES SUPERVISING the writing and selling of all the advertising, Jim Roberts, business manager fall and winter, is responsible for keeping all of the accounts up-to-date.

FOREST PETRUS watches as the scanasizer makes an engraving. The machine, new this year, can make engravings larger or smaller than prints.

GARY BRALEY removes the first of 6,000 copies of the Daily as they come off the press.

DENNIS HASENWINKEL, Daily head photographer, studies some negatives to decide which one would be best for reproduction.

Many students are kept busy in the regular publication of the Daily. Sophomore journalism students are assigned the reporting task on the Daily. They have specific beats to cover and special features to write. Other news in the paper comes from a news service via a teletype machine in the basement of the Press Building. Editing copy and writing headlines is left to typography class students and the Daily issue editors. The Daily provides an important contact between Ames merchants and students with its advertisements. A special job for some staff members is selling these advertisements to the businessmen. The ads are responsible for the financial support of the Daily. Decisions about page makeup and issue content are made by the issue editor for the day. The Daily is published Tuesday through Saturday.

Iowa Agriculturist

The Agriculturist, magazine for agriculture students at Iowa State, is published by students in the College of Agriculture under the general supervision and direction of the Department of Technical Journalism. It offers students an opportunity to get practical training and experience in agricultural writing. In addition, much of the better work of advanced students in agricultural journalism is used by the agricultural press and by daily and weekly papers.

The publication has been steadily growing for 58 years. Today it is one of the highly respected student agricultural publications in the country. Throughout the past years the magazine has won awards in competition with other college agricultural magazines. The magazine presents new ideas in farming and particularly points out the developments in agriculture at Iowa State.

NEIL WOODLEY, Sue Hammond and Virgil Harrison combine their efforts to work out the layout for the next issue of the Engineer.

Iowa Engineer

The eight monthly issues of the Iowa Engineer acquaint engineering students with various branches of their chosen profession. Articles in the magazine also place a great deal of emphasis on the latest technological developments in the field of engineering. Engineering students who desire extracurricular work in journalism or business management do the editing and advertising work of the publication. Working on the staff of the magazine also gives valuable professional experience for those engineering students interested in journalism. Members of the organization are selected on the basis of application and interview. Heading this year's staff were John Cronk, editor; Neil Woodley, associate editor; Jon Barkman, managing editor; and Jerry Toepfer, business manager. The three faculty advisers were Prof. Edward H. Ohlsen, Daniel L. Griffen and Arthur E. Burton.

Iowa Homemaker

The Iowa Homemaker is published eight times throughout the school year to present the interests and work of students and faculty members in the Home Economics College. Approximately 30 women make up the staff for the Homemaker.

Many times these girls are home economics journalism majors, but girls from other home economics departments help publish the magazine also. Staff members are chosen following a series of workshops winter quarter at which the editorial and business phases of the magazine's production are explained. The members of the staff are kept busy throughout the year selling advertisements, writing articles, creating layouts and taking pictures. The Homemaker features articles on such areas as styles in clothes, new developments in cooking and other phases of home economics.

Iowa State Veterinarian

The Iowa State University Veterinarian is the official publication of the ISU student chapter of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

This professional journal is written, edited and published by students in the College of Veterinary Medicine. The journal, which averages 64 pages per issue, is published 3 times a year, and its circulation of 1,600 includes 48 states and 20 foreign countries. One feature of the publication is an alumni section through which former students may keep in closer contact with the school and each other. Articles in the Veterinarian include both student-written technical papers and articles by prominent men in the field of veterinary medicine. A steak fry is held each spring for staff members who have worked on the publication throughout the year.

Green Gander

Fall, winter and spring quarters provide good times for the publication of the Green Gander. The Gander is the campus pictorial and humor magazine. The magazine contains short stories, cartoons, jokes, and photographs of "Gander Girls." This year the Gander has featured several picture stories on college events. It is a project of members of Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalism fraternity, and Sigma Delta Chi, men's professional journalism fraternity. These members write and edit the Gander stories.

EDITOR of the Gander this year was Dave Lendt, who was responsible for making all important editorial and pictorial decisions.

GATHERING in the Gander office for a brainstorming session are members of Theta Sig and SDX, who put out the publication.

DISCUSSING the content of the next issue of the Green Gander are Marc Anthony, business manager, Bob Harrison and Jim Roberts.

Sketch

Sketch is a quarterly magazine which gives creative student writers at Iowa State an outlet for their writing and a chance for campus recognition. Students also serve on both the editorial and business staffs. Money for the magazine is allocated at a rate of about six cents a student each quarter from the student activity fee. With these funds the magazine featured colored art work this year. During fall and winter quarters Sketch sponsors a series of book review programs, Books and Cokes, which are held in the Memorial Union. During these informal sessions critical analyses of various types of literature are presented by student reviewers.

A MEMBER of the Sketch staff distributes the latest issue of the magazine free to students.

Music and Drama

Iowa State Players

Iowa State Players is a campus organization which presents one theatrical production each quarter. It served as an extracurricular outlet for students with interest and abilities in theater production. During fall quarter, Players presented "The Heiress" and "The Importance of Being Earnest." Winter quarter found Players putting forth their talents in "Detective Story" and "The Drunkard." A comedy, "Solid Gold Cadillac," was given during Veishea. Also this spring, Players put on an experimental drama, "The Taking of Life." The plays are presented in MacKay Auditorium, Curtiss Auditorium, and in the Shattuck Theatre. The round theater workshop was renamed Shattuck Theatre this year in honor of Fredrica Shattuck, who founded Players in 1913. Laboratory Theatre, Children's Theatre and Theatre 324 are also parts of the Iowa State University Theatre.

Iowa State Singers

Iowa State Singers are divided into three sections with 125 to 170 men and women in each. The Iowa State Men's Glee Club performs at many university functions. The Festival Chorus meets once a week. It presents an annual oratorio in addition to participating in the Christmas Festival of Music. This group is open to anyone without tryouts and numbers about 500. Practices for the Christmas program start shortly after school begins in the fall and are held weekly until the program is presented in December. Iowa State Singers, under the direction of Prof. Robert McCowen, practice in Morrill Hall. Each year the group performs during the half time of a football game. This year it sang at the Parents' Day football game with Nebraska, attended by Meredith Wilson. Singers also presented selected choruses from Handel's "Messiah" at the Christmas Festival of Music.

Symphony Orchestra

About one of every six Iowa State freshmen joins a musical organization. One of these organizations is Symphony Orchestra. Members of the Iowa State Symphony Orchestra include college students, faculty members and residents of Ames and surrounding towns. Persons with an interest in symphonic music may find an outlet for their interests and talents through participation in the Symphony Orchestra. The orchestra with its 70 members makes an annual tour in November and gives formal concerts each quarter. Soloist at the winter concert was the internationally known marimbist, Vida Shenoweth. Symphony Orchestra is under the direction of Dr. Alvin R. Edgar, head of the Department of Music. Concert master is Ilza Niemack, also of the Music Department. An annual event for the orchestra is participation in the Christmas Festival of Music, together with other campus musical and dance groups. Its special number in the festival was "Jubilee" from "Symphonic Sketches" by Chadwick.

MEMBERS OF SYMPHONY orchestra rehearse regularly to prepare for the many performances that they put on throughout the year.

Concert Band

Under the direction of Prof. Frank Piersol, the Iowa State Concert Band participates in numerous musical events during the year. The band presents music ranging from classical overtures to contemporary selections still in manuscript form. The Concert Band tours Iowa and surrounding states annually, presenting both classical and popular concerts.

TO GET THE DESIRED effect from such a large group of musicians, Dr. Piersol gestures emphatically from his podium.

AMONG THE MANY events at which concert band members appeared in full dress was the Christmas Festival of Music.

Marching Band

The Iowa State Marching Band is famous for its appearance at football games. Wearing red uniforms, the 100 members of the band began the afternoon's activities at all home football games this year. The drum major led the group with the assistance of four majorettes. The band presented a pre-game show, including a flag ceremony, and a half-time performance,

Scabbard and Blade

Scabbard and Blade, national military honorary, works to further relations between military services. It also strives to raise the standards of military education. This year it sponsored the "Military Ball" and the Cadre Tea. It also promoted the ROTC drill competition and the counseling service for future officers. To be eligible for membership in Scabbard and Blade, a student must be in the upper one-fourth of his military class and have outstanding leadership qualities. This year 32 men belonged to the organization, which was founded in 1916. Under the leadership of President William Bancroft, the group met every second and fourth Thursday. Other officers included Al Brown, vice-president; John Wietzke, secretary; and Ron Rasmussen, treasurer. Serving as faculty advisers were Captain William Winlock and Major Leopoldo Rodriguez.

Student Religious Council

For the first time in its 25 years, Religion-in-Life Week stressed the practical rather than the theological aspects of religion. The week is an annual event sponsored by Student Religious Council winter quarter. Speakers included Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., leader of a Negro boycott of segregated buses; Dr. Vaclav Hlavaty, mathematician; and Dr. O. Hobart Mowrer, psychologist. Each morning students led chapel services in the South Ballroom, Memorial Union. Daily discussions gave students an opportunity to talk about different phases of religion. In the residences, talks with seminary students increased participation in the week's activities.

MEMBERS OF Student Religious Council were busy throughout the year, especially during Religion-in-Life Week, which they sponsored. Here they listen to Dr. Robert Jones, assistant director of student affairs, at one of their meetings.

THE FIRST speaker during Religion-in-Life Week was Dr. Vaclav Hlavaty, a mathematician visiting here from Indiana University.

AT THE ALL-UNIVERSITY Religion-in-Life Week convocation, Dr. Vaclav Hlavaty spoke to students on "The Ethical, Moral, and Spiritual Responsibilities of the Scientist."

INFORMAL RESIDENCE discussions like this one were common during RIL Week. Guest speakers included seminary students, faculty members, graduate students and Ames residents.

ATTRACTED BY the news that Religion-in-Life Week was to have a new practical approach this year, students flocked into the Armory for Monday morning's convocation.

DR. O. HOBART MOWRER, widely known psychologist from the University of Illinois, made several informal appearances speaking to small groups during his stay at Iowa State.

SPEAKING on "The Moral Challenges of a New Age" at the well-attended convocation on Friday evening was Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

EMPHASIZED IN this year's Religion-in-Life Week were many informal discussion groups such as this one. With guest speakers appearing in many of the campus residences, more students have a chance for actual participation in RIL.

Disciple Student Fellowship

Disciple Student Fellowship is the Christian Church group for college-age young people. Carrying out its service function, the students participate in two service projects annually. In the spring and fall, they hire themselves out for odd jobs, such as yard work, car washing and changing windows. Money from these projects is used to send delegates to the national convention in the summer. Other activities include a Bible study group held in the fall and spring with the Baptists. Through an offering called the Disciple Student Fellowship Action Offering, the group supports both the national and international Student Christian Fellowships and its own national program. In the spring members of the group are recognized at a dinner given by the church.

Frisbie Fellowship

"To witness to the students on campus our own faith and to study to strengthen it" is the purpose of Frisbie Fellowship, made up of Congregational and Evangelical Reform students. Among their projects this year was the sponsoring of a faculty-student breakfast in January.

Intervarsity Christian Fellowship endeavors to present to the campus the teachings of Jesus. Members meet to learn more about Christ. Membership in IVCF is open to any student or faculty member who is interested in its purpose and in participating in its program.

Baptist Student Group

Emphasis is on social activities when Baptist Student Group members gather at the First Baptist Church for Sunday supper. After supper every Sunday night the members join together for singing, worship and discussion. The local group is affiliated with the American Baptist Movement. The organization was formed in 1917 to provide an opportunity for religious growth and study of Christian beliefs and commitments. Members of the club participated in the Iowa Baptist Student Movement retreat during spring quarter. President this year was Sue Ellen Waters. Other officers included Ray Wells, vice-president, Marilyn Giddens, secretary, and Jerry Adams, treasurer.

THE KITCHEN of the First Baptist Church is often the site for members to get together for conversation and an evening's snack.

THE WEEKLY SUNDAY evening supper served at the Memorial Lutheran Church is always a popular event with Gamma Delta members.

Gamma Delta

This year the Gamma Delta crest was built by Jim Jasper in memory of a former member who was killed in an automobile accident. Members also provided draperies for the new student lounge and sponsored a stand during Veishea. Another project was building up a record collection for their high-fidelity phonograph. The name of the organization may be interpreted as "Gamma" meaning knowledge and "Delta" meaning service. This Lutheran Student Organization provides fellowship with other Lutheran students on campus and promotes spiritual development. Students may become members of Gamma Delta by belonging to the Missouri Synod Lutheran Church and by being interested in the activities of the organization. Students who wish to become associate members have to fulfill only the last qualification. The 150 members of the group met every Sunday night this year at the Memorial Lutheran Church for supper and a program.

Lutheran Student Association

The main project for members of the Lutheran Student Association this year was their service project with the Lutheran Children's Home in Ames. Also, they published a monthly Lutheran Student Association newspaper. A smorgasbord supper is an annual affair for the group.

Other activities throughout the year included buffet suppers, retreats, hayrides and seasonal parties. The student center is open all day for students, and the association meets every other Sunday afternoon. Weekday activities include choir "lift groups," noncredit courses, Bible study and committee study projects.

Newman Club

Picnics, firesides and hayrides helped fill the schedules for Newman Club members during fall quarter. Any Catholic student at Iowa State may become a member of Newman Club. This year the club had 600 active members. The activities of Newman Club throughout the year have represented its purpose, which is "to further the religious, educational, and social growth of its members." Members of the club sponsored a tea for other religious organizations' officers.

WESLEY FOUNDATION members often take advantage of the quiet surroundings of their church library to do some studying.

Wesley Foundation

Wesley Foundation provides a "church away from home" for Methodist students. The foundation seeks to educate students in the church's history, in the meaning of Christianity, in the beliefs of Methodism and in the church's problems and opportunities. During winter quarter break, members of Wesley Foundation went to Chicago to visit skid row missions, the slum districts and to investigate various problem areas of Chicago. After this, they talked with officials about the existing problems in the city. Another trip was made to Evanston, Ill., for the students to hear the lectures of the Garrett Seminary. Also this year, the foundation helped support two missionaries in South America. During spring quarter it sponsored a banquet and a semiformal dance for its members.

Westminster Fellowship

Working on a new youth center occupied many members of Westminster Fellowship during the year. The students painted, helped lay tile floors and worked on the small prayer chapel. Some of the members of this Presbyterian Fellowship had done similar work during the summer at a work camp in West Virginia.

The camp, Mountaineer Mining Mission, served six mining communities in two counties.

The students at the camp painted buildings, built Sunday School classrooms, and dismantled a church in a ghost town. The fellowship also sponsored a year of study at Allahabab University in Allahabab, India, for one of its junior members. Eight members visited Chicago between winter and spring quarters, seeing the people's needs and the many opportunities for service.

MEMBERS OF Westminster Fellowship break into smaller groups at the end of one of their weekly Sunday evening meetings.

YMCA

The YMCA sent about 30 students on a 10-day trip to Washington, D. C., and New York between winter and spring quarters to attend a Washington-United Nations Seminar.

Representatives were also sent to regional conferences. Among the activities which the YMCA sponsors on campus are the all-college mixer and firesides. It also holds a camp for entering freshmen and an international student outing. Money to support these programs comes largely from sale of gifts in December.

Four thousand dollars worth of Christmas gifts were sold at the International Gift Fair this year. The items come from such widely separated countries as Tanganyika, Sweden and Japan. The YMCA is a fellowship of members "who by study, worship and service, are seeking to understand Christ and in His spirit to serve their fellowmen on the campus, in the nation and throughout the world." About 500 students and faculty members belong.

DURING FALL quarter registration, incoming freshman men were told about YMCA activities on campus and encouraged to join.

DURING FRESHMAN DAYS, Y members chose a western theme for their open house skit.

The YWCA sponsored a Freshman Y camp for incoming freshman women for the first time this summer. The camp was held the weekend before registration at the YMCA camp near Boone. Freshman Y is one part of the program of the Young Women's Christian Association at Iowa State. The YWCA provides an opportunity to the women to have fun, to share wisdom and ideas, and to learn about Christianity. It offers a varied program to develop the spiritual, social and intellectual life of its members. This year All-Y programs were given every Tuesday. Freshman Y met on Wednesdays. Its project this year was making and selling popcorn balls. The money from these sales was used for freshman scholarships to the regional YWCA conference at Lake Geneva, Wis., during the summer. The YWCA sponsored a committee which worked with international students. The Y was represented at district intercollegiate conferences held in the fall.

Football... "Dirty Thirty" achieves best record

twenty-one years

Football history is made every season as gridiron records continue to swell annually. During the 1959 season, records were broken at Iowa State, too, but the story behind the new records is different and is destined to become a legend here. Individual accomplishments — and there were several — were interesting and pleasant sidelights. The action that stole the show and produced again a winning tradition on the Cyclone gridiron was from one of the smallest football teams in the country. The "Dirty Thirty," as the team members came to be known, were a single unit with one objective — another win for Iowa State. And seven times in ten the team achieved this objective for the best record in twenty-one years. Its 7-3 season record earned Iowa State a tie with the mighty Oklahoma Sooners for the best record in the Big Eight Conference. In conference play, a 3-3 record placed the Cyclones in a tie for third place with the Universities of Colorado and Kansas. The most outstanding of the individual accomplishments were performed by Dwight Nichols, Iowa State's 164-pound All-American player, Nichols, known as "Moe" to ISU fans, was the fourth Iowa State player in history to achieve this honor. During his three years of Iowa State football, "Moe" nearly rewrote the record book. He set a new Big Eight rushing record with 2,232 yards. His other records included: most total offense in one game, 269 yards; most total offense for career, 3,949 yards; most time rushed in a career, 638; and most plays in a career, 872, ranking second nationally.

HARD-RUNNING BACKS and bone-crushing blocks made the "Dirty Thirty" move offensively this year. Mickey Fitzgerald (top and bottom) and Dwight Nichols (center) show how they did it.

JOE BURDON was All-American Dwight Nichols' substitute but gave home fans plenty to cheer about when given a chance. With two years left, Burdon has a bright future.

IOWA STATE BACKS were only half the show at best. The "Dirty Thirty" also had a line, and gang tackling the opposition was one of its favorite assignments.

BIG TOM WATKINS, Cyclone fullback, finished second in total rushing yardage in the nation this fall. He could become the second Iowa State back to gain All-American honors.

TRAINER WARREN ARIAL kept the team at a peak physically and never lost a man. Fitzgerald receives a few game-time repairs.

LITTLE SALLY PETERSON, along with the rest of the cheerleading squad, keeps the fans voicing their enthusiasm.

DWIGHT NICHOLS was named to the All-Big Eight team three years in a row and was elected to the All-American team this year—a fitting tribute to an outstanding player.

Iowa State's football coach, Clay Stapleton, who finished fourth in the nation in the poll for "Football Coach of the Year," saw his team, the "Dirty Thirty," play some of the hardest-nosed, most determined football ever. It came as no surprise to Coach Stapleton; he had it planned that way. Top condition and a mastery of the basic fundamentals were Stapleton's aims, and he wasn't satisfied until his players were hitting as hard the closing minute of the game as they did the opening minute. In two years he brought a team from the cellar of the conference into a battle for the Big Eight crown at the season's close.

IOWA STATE'S "Dirty Thirty" earned its victories with the rushing of Tom Watkins, second in the nation . . .

THE USUAL PROCEDURE for Cyclone passing was Nichols launching them and either Don Webb (80) or Mickey Fitzgerald (33) receiving. This time, however, Webb and Fitzgerald act as decoys while Nichols pulls in the pass.

Basketball . . . young team produces 15-9 record

The 1959-60 basketball season produced several outstanding individual players and a winning season at Iowa State. The Cyclones were young both in their personnel and their coaching. But their 15-9 season's record is proof enough that both departments improved tremendously during the season. During his first year as head coach, Glen Anderson showed fire and determination plus a cunning and calculating knowledge of basketball. Coach Anderson was not afraid to experiment with his attack, shift his players to different positions and give the men on the bench their try too. Only one Cyclone will graduate from this team that finished fourth in the Big Eight. As the only senior on the squad and its captain, Larry Fie carried well the responsibility entrusted in him.

JAY MURRELL was one of the hardest scrappers on the team and whenever there was a loose ball you could count on him to be in the action. Here two South Dakota players try unsuccessfully to squeeze him away from the ball.

SOPHOMORE GUARD John Placek and Coach Anderson come to their feet in a real hurry to protest what they considered a bad call by one of the referees.

BY PROVING HIMSELF to be one of the best rebounders on the team, Jay Murrell is bound to be starting next year.

JUNIOR TED ECKER drives past two Nebraska defenders for two points. Ecker often scored crucial late-minute points.

VINNIE BREWER was the brightest player of the 1959-60 season for the Cyclones. He was voted "Most Valuable Player" in the pre-season Big Eight Tournament which Iowa State won. He was also named to the All-Big Eight second team.

COACH ANDERSON tries to convey a message to his players on the floor, and at times receives much oral support by members on the bench. As the game progresses and tension mounts the excitement is registered on the faces of the players.

LACKING SEVERAL inches of height advantage, Jay Murrell still is in the thick of this rebounding fury with Kansas' Wayne Hightower (40) and Bill Bridges.

THAT TAMA TERROR, Gary Wheeler, shows these South Dakota players that being only 5' 10" and just a sophomore has nothing to do with the way you score Iowa State points.

STILL ANOTHER big factor in the Cyclones' success this year was sophomore center, Bob Stoy. Here he goes high for a rebound.

A record which many fans expected to stand for some time fell this year to the Cyclones' fine sophomore forward, Vinnie Brewer. He scored a total of 366 points for a 15.2 average which erased the first-year record effort of 349 points by All-American guard Gary Thompson in 1955. Brewer was the first sophomore to lead the team scoring since Ray Wehde did in 1941-42 with 124 points. Brewer finished sixth in conference scoring. Number 30, which will undoubtedly become famous to Iowa State fans in the next two years, seemed to be in on every play this season. His sparkling play earned him a berth on the All-Big Eight second team. A combination of Henry Whitney and Brewer at the forward positions provided board power difficult for the opposition to combat. Whitney collected 229 rebounds to lead the team, with Brewer close behind with 222 to rank them fifth and sixth in the conference. Jay Murrell, substitute forward, ranked third in rebound totals with 113.

VINNIE BREWER goes after a jump ball in the Utah State game and tips it to alert Larry Fie (22).

LARRY FIE and a Nebraska player collide as Fie lays up the ball and is fouled in doing so.

TOM FERREBEE, a football player who was converted to a wrestler this year, competed in several meets for the Cyclones at 191 or a heavyweight.

Wrestling . . . Cyclones second in nation, third in Big Eight

NORRIS HATTLESTAD was one of Nichols' several sophomores on the squad. Here he seems to have the advantage over a Sooner.

Iowa State's reputation as one of the top wrestling teams in the country was preserved this year when it placed second in the NCAA Tournament at the University of Maryland. The top three wrestling schools in the Big Eight were again the top three in the nation. Oklahoma took both the Big Eight crown and the NCAA honors. Oklahoma State fell 10 points short of retaining its Big Eight crown for second place and Iowa State finished third. In the nationals Iowa State placed enough men high in their brackets to finish second, with the cowboys third. Harold Nichols, named "Wrestling Coach of the Year" in 1959, produced a team with a 12-3 record. Losses were to Michigan, 14-11, Oklahoma, 17-11, and Oklahoma State, 18-10. Larry Hayes and Les Anderson both won the Big Eight and the NCAA championships.

LARRY HAYES WON his second NCAA wrestling crown in two years this spring at the University of Maryland. Exceptional strength and good speed make many of his wins by falls. The Kansas State matman above is about to experience Hayes' pinning abilities.

LES ANDERSON, Iowa State's 137-pound NCAA champ this year, has a 5-2 lead over his foe but seems to be having trouble here.

DICK BROWN looks as though he's still contemplating his next move as his opponent comes into close quarters.

Swimming . . . two champions lead team to third at conference

The Iowa State swimming team had as tough a schedule as any team in the country during the 1959-60 season. The season's record of 3-6 was no lower than most expected. The important aspect of the season and the record was the caliber of the teams included among the Cyclones' opponents. Such teams as the NCAA champs from Michigan and perennial Big Eight winner Oklahoma tell an important part of the story. Coach Jack McGuire lost his first contest to a Big Eight school other than Oklahoma when Kansas downed the Cyclones 61-34. Iowa State won over Nebraska, Kansas State and Colorado. At the Big Eight meet in Boulder, Colo., the Cyclones nailed down the number three spot. The meet produced two Big Eight champions from Iowa State. Paul Witherell topped all challengers in both the 20-yard individual medley and the 100-yard free style. Don Echleberger was the champion diver.

PAUL WITHERELL, taking a breather at the side of the pool to talk with Coach Jack McGuire, is one of the brightest prospects ever to swim on the Iowa State team.

STARTS WERE important to this young star, whether it be the racing start for the 100-yd. free style or (below) shoving off for the back stroke event.

JACK KENT, the Cyclone ace in the distance events, takes a long breath as he completes a turn in his 440-yard event.

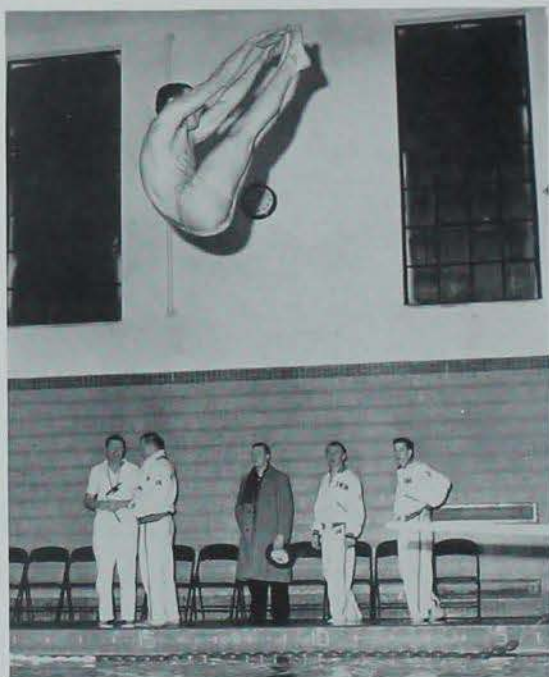

COACH JACK McGUIRE tensely checks his stopwatch against that of his assistant; it looks like his swimmer had a good time.

IOWA STATE'S Big Eight champion diver, Don Echeberger, who is fresh from competing himself, lends some verbal encouragement to a racing teammate.

ALL EYES ARE FIXED on Don Echleberger as the best diver in the Big Eight Conference shows his championship form.

AGAIN ECHLEBERGER makes championship diving look easy as he knifes into the water with perfect form.

Baseball . . . 10-8 record in Big Eight play ranks Cyclones third

GRANT HALSNE was the top hurler for the Cyclones during the 1959-60 baseball season. His blazing fast ball and a good batting average were the weapons that netted him a professional contract at the season's end.

THE THIRD BASEMAN stands tensely ready as an Oklahoma batter takes a level cut at a Grant Halsne delivery (above). The ball comes steaming in again from ISU's mound ace, Halsne (below).

RON LOCKER initiates a squeeze play as he lays down a bunt in the Oklahoma contest. OU catcher Don Nipp rises to his feet in readiness for action likely to happen soon.

The 1959 Iowa State baseball team finished the season with a 11-12 record. Among its victories were a pair from nationally ranked Oklahoma State. One-run losses seemed to plague the Cap Timm crew during the early part of the season. Minnesota started the trend in the last game of the series in Ames by defeating Iowa State 9-8. The Cyclones lost five of the next seven games, all by a single run. After taking two games of a three game series with the Oklahoma State Cowboys, the Cyclones traveled to Boulder, Colo. A 10-5 record gave Iowa State a good chance of winding up in second place and a possibility of first place in the conference. The Buffalos spoiled these chances by defeating the Iowa State nine in all three games, including another one-run win. With these three defeats on the record, Iowa State finished third in the Big Eight with a 10-8 record.

KEN SWEENEY, captain of the 1959 team, is one of the best hurdlers in Iowa State's history. He placed second in the Big Eight meet.

Track . . . team wins only dual meet after rain reduced schedule

The Iowa State spring track team won the only dual track meet in which it competed during its 1959 season by defeating Drake 97-57. Burl Berry's runners won 13 of the 14 events. One of two double-event winners in the meet was Captain Ken Sweeney. He won both the 120-yard and 440-yard high hurdle events. Also contributing two firsts to the Cyclones' cause was Frank Binder. He won the javelin-throw and the shot-put events. Iowa State records in the 880-yard relay and the medley relay were broken the same day. Dual meets with Minnesota and Kansas State were rained out, but the Cyclone cinder team saw much action in several relay meets. The Texas Relays on April 4 officially opened the track season. Ken Sweeney placed second in the 440-yard high hurdles with a time of 53.8, and the medley relay team placed fifth. Two weeks later at the Kansas Relays fourth places were earned by Sweeney, Chuck Runge and the medley relay team.

POLEVAULTER BALLER's face shows a mixture of apprehension and determination as he sprints down the approach for a vault.

Only Cyclone to place at the annual Drake Relays was Captain Ken Sweeney. He placed second in the hurdle event. At the Big Eight Conference Track and Field Meet in Norman, Okla., May 15 and 16, Kansas University dominated the action. The Jayhawks scored 125 points to lead second-place Oklahoma State by 35 points. Iowa State finished eighth in the conference meet. Ron Sanson took third place in the mile event, and Chuck Runge placed second in the broad jump. Destined to be one of the standouts on the varsity team last spring was Dave Rudolph, pole vaulter. While competing in the State AAU Meet at Drake he broke his neck and was sidelined the remainder of the season. Before his injury Rudolph turned in a 13 ft. 10 $\frac{3}{4}$ in. vaulting mark while competing indoors. Another standout effort during the spring of 1959 was a 4:11.8 mile by Ron Sanson in the Meet of Champions at Houston, Tex.

RON SANSON lunges into the tape at the end of the race. Sanson graduated in 1959 and became Iowa State's cross country coach.

IOWA STATE TRACK COACH, Phil Delevan, catches Gary Haltmeyer's time as he crosses the finish line in the Drake-ISU meet.

Cross-Country . . . ISU team ranks second in Big Eight

During his first year as Iowa State cross country coach, Ron Sanson produced this sport's first All-American at Iowa State, Captain John Darby. Sanson's team also was runner-up to 13-time winner Kansas in the Big Eight cross country meet. Darby took Athlete of the Week awards twice during the season. The first time he shared honors with football fullback Tom Watkins. He was selected following his 14:19 effort in the three-mile event at the Big Eight meet. It was a new Iowa State record for the event. Then at the 1959 National Collegiate Cross Country Championships he finished 13th for All-American and single AOW honors. For Darby and Gary Haltmeyer, this was their last season, but junior Harlan Millikin and sophomores Karl Brown, Don Muyskens, Bob Downey and John Highbarger should provide for a strong 1960 team.

Golf . . . team ends season with four wins, two losses

The 1959 Iowa State golf team posted a season's record of four wins and only two losses despite the fact that it was suffering from inexperience.

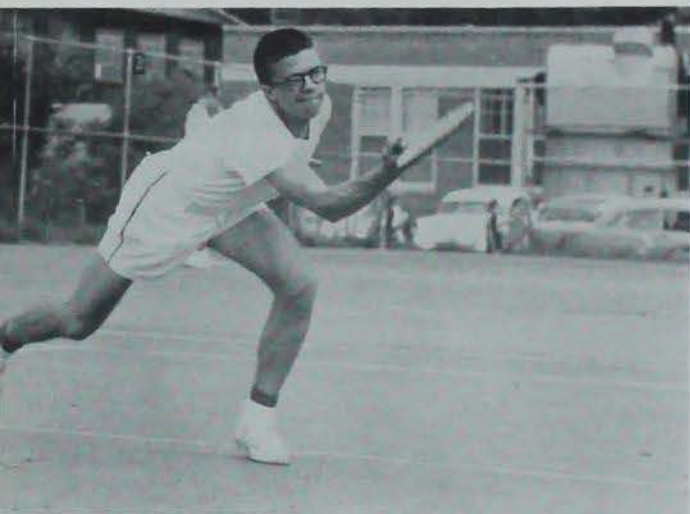

Missouri opened Iowa State's golf season rudely by trouncing the Cyclones $14\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$. Iowa State came back after its poor debut and defeated Grinnell, Nebraska, Drake and Kansas State. The second loss was to Mankato State. The Big Eight Conference meet at Oklahoma proved a sad ending for the season with the Iowa State squad finishing last. But prospects for the 1960 season looked promising. Coach Jack McGuire will have his number one, two and three men returning. They are, respectively, Ben King, Gary Ridgeway and Bob Appenzeller. All were sophomores on this year's team. The only returning senior on next year's team will be Phil Ritz.

BEN KING holds the pin while Phil Ritz lines up his putt. Both men will be back next year. Ritz will be a senior and King a junior.

ROGER BARNEY catches a low ball just in time to make a successful return. Barney captained last year's team as a senior.

Tennis . . . squad ends season with 'surprising' 6-2-1 record

Iowa State's final 1959 season record of six wins, two losses and one tie surprised even the most loyal fans. Stylish senior Roger Barney captained the winning season. Possessing more power than ever before, he served his third and final year as a varsity member. The only senior on the starting team was Dick Sahr. Sahr compiled a 5-5 record in singles competition and finished 8-1-1 in the doubles department. Lanky Al Brown was the big winner for the Cyclones as a junior. He won six of his nine singles matches and helped score a 3-1-1 record in doubles matches. Serving as the nucleus for the 1960 team will be returning regulars Brown, Glenn, Trapp and Hoffman, with several promising sophomores to fill out.

Athletic Director Chalmers hopes for expanded facilities

Gordon Chalmers, Iowa State's new dynamic athletic director, came to the university a year ago to replace retiring Louis Menze. The results of Chalmers' program are already evident in several areas. Most apparent is the enthusiasm and support for athletic teams. This renewed vigor is present in the alumnae, faculty and especially within the student body. To fire up this enthusiasm, Chalmers has worked extensively with such organizations as Pep Council. Results include a winning football team, a successful basketball season and a championship wrestling squad. In the future Chalmers hopes to expand Iowa State's athletic facilities.

AFTER COMPLETING his first year as Iowa State University's athletic director, Gordon Chalmers has definite ideas for improvement of the athletic facilities here.

The Varsity "I" Club began the year by selling football programs at the games. During the winter the organization chose and crowned a queen at their "I" Club carnival. It also sponsored an Athletic Bust for all varsity letter winners and freshmen numeral winners. To become a member of "I" Club, a student must have been awarded a varsity letter for participation in a college sport.

Pep Council

Pep Council this fall helped sponsor a membership drive which netted the student Cyclone Club about 1,000 members. One project in the drive, conducted by members of Pep Council and Varsity I Club, was a Cyclone membership dance given in coordination with Social Bureau. The drive helped meet the purpose of Pep Council, which is to build student enthusiasm behind athletics and to help recruit athletes. Other ways in which the council tries to achieve this include football rallies and the card section featured during half times of football games. Another fall activity was a freshman football dance sponsored by the council. Each week throughout the year Pep Council members choose the "Athlete of the Week." Pep Council also honors the teams at banquets. Planning these programs are approximately 40 students, chosen by application and interview.

PEP COUNCIL members Jeannine Reeder, Phyllis Hall and Tom Kline display the "T" Club air horn, used at football games to bring the team members onto the field.

Men's Intramurals

The men's intramural program provided an opportunity for over 5,000 male students to participate this year in more than a dozen sports.

Open to the men were touch football, golf, handball, outdoor track, tennis, horseshoes, bowling, swimming, table tennis, volleyball, basketball, wrestling, indoor track and softball.

The Iowa State program of intramurals is one of the most highly organized in the nation. Students from all residence groups participate in the intramural system. With the intense amount of active participation in the intramural program, management of the sports could present a major problem. Physical education majors, however, keep the program moving in smooth fashion and receive practical experience by acting as scorers, timekeepers, referees and managers. In addition, intramural games serve as an observation ground for varsity coaches who may spot likely material to enrich the varsity athletic teams.

WITH HIS teammates to urge him on, this player sets his jaw with determination to slam the ball for a home run.

STRETCHING to receive a pass is a participant in the touch football intramural program.

HOPING FOR a strike, this entrant in bowling competition eyes the headpin.

Women's Intramurals

Members of any organized house, dormitory, or town girls' group may enter the intramural program at Iowa State. The program is guided by an intramural board, made up of one intramural manager from each residence. These women set up all intramural tournaments and contact those who are interested in participating. Independent miscellaneous teams may be formed by applying to the Intramural Board. Fall quarter found intramural members busy playing table tennis singles, volleyball, and tennis singles and doubles. Badminton singles and doubles, and basketball occupied members winter quarter. The games were played in the Women's Gym. Women competed for titles spring quarter in bowling, golf, softball and swimming. Faculty adviser for the intramural program this year was Miss Dolores Ashley.

Panhellenic Council

Panhellenic Council serves to guide and unite the sororities at Iowa State. Each sorority is represented by one junior and one senior member. This year Panhellenic Council worked with members of Alpha Chi Omega as that sorority made plans to colonize at Iowa State. It also sponsored the annual Panhellenic Banquet and a spring tea for city alumnae. Other projects for the council included work in Greek Week and the Iowa State Star, both in connection with Interfraternity Council. Also working with IFC it sponsored a high school recruitment program and published an informative booklet sent to all rushees.

CAROLINE ROBERTS, Rosie Stock and Joyce Pullan, officers of Panhellenic Council, talk over steps to be taken in the colonization of Alpha Chi Omega sorority at ISU.

Junior Panhellenic Council

Junior Panhellenic Council works to promote closer relationships among sorority pledge classes. To achieve this, it sponsors chocolate hours during winter quarter. Pledges get together at various houses after classes to become better acquainted with each other. The council also sets up a system of exchanges among the sorority and fraternity pledge classes. Another purpose of the council is to encourage sound scholarship. These programs are planned by the eleven elected representatives to Junior Panhel, one from each sorority pledge class, together with their advisers.

FAIRLYN FORSYTH, junior panhel adviser, discusses plans for chocolate hours with Stephanie Crawford and Kathy Busboom.

A D Pi's take a study break during final week and enjoy a playful snowball fight on the lawn in front of their house.

SOLITAIRE isn't a game for one at the A D Pi house, for it seems that there are always sisters near to help point out plays.

A D Pi's rank first in grades . . . receive stereo phonograph from pledge class

The A D Pi's ranked first among sororities in scholarship fall quarter and placed second on campus. This was the fourth consecutive quarter the house had been among the top three in all-campus standings. Good scholarship is encouraged with a spaghetti-and-steak dinner each quarter at which the better scholars are rewarded with steak. Another inducement to scholarship is a traveling medal, given each quarter to the woman who made the greatest grade improvement. Four A D Pi's are participating in the home economics honors program. In addition to studies, the A D Pi's enjoy a full social calendar. In the spring they donned bermuda shorts with suspenders to take the place of lederhosen for a Heidelberg party. Tables were set up on the terrace, with drip candles and checked tablecloths providing a German atmosphere. Tyrolean hats were given to dates. In the winter the A D Pi's escaped to the "Golden Orient" for their annual formal, given at the Marshalltown Country Club. A 15-foot pink dragon, a lattice-work ceiling and Japanese lanterns transformed the room. Just before Christmas the pledges gave the annual fireside, Santa Claus was present to hand out gifts to dates. In the spring the pledges gave the house a stereo set. They earned the money through various projects over the months. The entire house contributed money to help support the National Society for Crippled Children, the A D Pi national service project. The money went for the hospital equipment bank sponsored by the society. Also in the spring the A D Pi's celebrated Founders Day with a luncheon at the chapter house for alumnae from surrounding areas. The second and third floors of the house were redecorated during the summer months.

ALPHA GAMS look over plans for a new recreation room which will be a part of their addition to be built this spring.

Alpha Gam's plan house addition . . . give seasonal 'Mardi Gras,' ski-lodge parties

A wishing well with goldfish swimming in it stood at one side of the dance floor at the Alpha Gam spring formal, "Mardi Gras." Filmy trees, colorful butterflies and bright flowers completed the decorations for the dance, held at the Ames Country Club. Couples danced to the music of Spec Red, and dates received tall glass mugs as favors. Alpha Gam's chose another seasonal theme when they gave their Christmas party. The house was decorated like a ski lodge even including a bear rug in front of the fireplace. Also winter quarter, the pledges entertained the actives with a party. Each Alpha Gam and her date planned their costumes around a song title, and the rooms were decorated like different songs. Informal social events during the year included a joint party at the Larry Jo Ranch with the Chi Omega's, a beatnik exchange, a surprise breakfast exchange and an early-morning horseback riding exchange. The Alpha Gam back yard was the scene for several impromptu barbecues during the spring. Alpha Gam's hosted alumnae and parents at open houses during Veishea, spring graduation, Homecoming and Parents' Weekend. They finished fourth in intramurals, winning first place in the swimming meet. Their Veishea float was entitled "Isle of Terror," and depicted a dragon spitting fire. At Homecoming their display showed well-known Eloise holding the K-State Wildcat by its neck with the caption "Let's Squank Them." In addition to house activities, Alpha Gam's are also busy with campus activities. Members belong to seven honoraries and hold presidencies in four home economics clubs. Women are anticipating the addition to their house which will include a recreation room, dining room and 11 bedrooms.

LAST FALL, Alpha Gams gave a new German rush party. Characters in the skit are Gayle Julsrud, Linda Klein and Thirza Hull.

Chi O's win second in Homecoming with weather-vane display . . . place in Varieties

The Chi Omega's captured the first-place trophy on the opening night of this year's Varieties. Their winning performance of "Alley Epic" depicted a romance of the cats in modern dance fashion. Another campus event added an additional trophy to their case. Their second-place Homecoming display showed a large medieval weather vane with the slogan "Cyclones Will Reign, Wildcats in Vain." At the Homecoming Pep Barbeque Nancy Starbuck was named attendant to the Homecoming queen. During Greek Week Muriel Jones Morgan was tapped for Gamma Gamma. For Veishea, the Chi O's float, "In the Middle of an Island," humorously showed Mr. Magoo lost on a traffic island. Mixed up as usual, he thinks he is on a real island. The Chi Omega calendar of social events was bursting with parties. In the spring, the Chi O's and the Alpha Gam's entertained their dates at Larry Jo's Ranch near Boone. The evening started with a picnic supper which was followed by dancing and skits by both houses. For their "Suppressed Desire Party," Chi O's and dates wore costumes revealing their individual secret desires. The annual formal, "Carnation Christmas," was held at the house early winter quarter. Couples danced to the music of Denny Matice and enjoyed the singing of the Chi O quartet at intermission. At the evening's end, dates left with Christmas stockings, made and filled by the women. Chi O Dad's Weekend on January 16 gave the fathers a chance to get acquainted. They were taken out for dinner, then to the basketball game with Oklahoma State and to the Varsity "T" Carnival. They were then given full charge of the house for the night and received sweatshirts marked "Property of Chi Omega." On the more serious side, Chi O's continued their sponsorship of a Korean War Orphan.

CHI O's entertain a rushee at one of their fall rush parties at which they took on new roles and played the part of pirates.

'Tri Delta Man' award presented at annual Christmas party for service to house

The highlight of Tri Delta's year socially was the formal, "Trilogy in Blue," given in the spring. Couples dined at Lincoln Lodge in Boone and then returned to the chapter house for the dance, held in the recreation room. Dates received lamps decorated with the crest of Delta Delta Delta as favors. Music was provided by Denny Matice. The atmosphere of spring was reflected in a fireside given by the pledges. Entitled "Spring Fever," the theme was carried out with such decorations as a small pond surrounded by fishing poles. The annual fall fireside, given at the house, was based on a casino theme. Another annual event for the Tri Delt's is their Christmas dance. Highlight of the evening is the presentation of a prize to the "Tri Delta Man," who is chosen by the women as the man who has done the most for the house during the year. This year the prize went to pinmate Louis Thompson. Christmas stockings were given to the dates as favors. In addition to social events, Tri Delt's participate in campus events and activities, both individually and as a group. Working together they constructed a Veishea float entitled "Isle of Splendor." On the float, which depicted a Japanese scene, water was spraying from a fountain. Their Homecoming display featured a trio of bananas playing guitars and bongos and dancing. The display was captioned "We're Playing for a Bananza." In Varieties, Tri Delt's entered their skit, "The Anatomy of a Week." It was written in verse and showed a typical college week. Individually, Tri Delta is represented in such honoraries as Phi Upsilon Omicron, Omicron Nu, Gamma Gamma, Alpha Lambda Delta, Sigma Alpha Iota, Delta Phi Delta and Mortar Board. Included in the house are the presidents of Mortar Board and SRC.

LOOKS LIKE these Tri Delt's are attacking a man's job as they start work on their 1959 Homecoming lawn display.

MID-WEEK inspiration is sought by these Tri Delt's as they gather around the fireplace for an embers service.

Delta Zeta's win awards for song and scholarship improvement at province convention

Delta Zeta's have "adopted" a two-and-one-half-year-old boy whose parents were killed in an auto accident. His mother was a Delta Zeta alumna.

Various gifts are sent to the little boy in California. The women also participated in other service projects and spent a Saturday painting at the Des Moines Day Care Center. On the lighter side, Delta Zeta's enjoyed a full calendar of social events. Chinese motifs, butterflies and a wishing well illustrated the Oriental theme of the Delta Zeta spring dance, "Wishing for Spring." The party was given by the pledges, and a pledge skit entertained partygoers at intermission. The women also attended a province convention in Des Moines spring quarter. They returned home with two awards, a traveling trophy for most improved scholarship and a first-place trophy won in a song contest. During Veishea, the Delta Zeta entry in the canoe races splashed across the finish line to take first place in the women's division. The women then entertained parents and alumnae at a buffet dinner. Highlight of the fall "DZ Man Party" was the presentation of the DZ Man Trophy to the lucky date who was selected by popular vote of the chapter.

Decorations carried out the night club theme. Dates received straw hats and walking canes as favors. Fall quarter also marked the selection of Sally Haydon as Harvest Ball Queen. Other fall events included a Founders' Day celebration, held with the local alumnae chapter in October, and a tea honoring the new housemother, Mrs. Flora Fridley. A tea for parents and alumnae was given after the Homecoming game, and a buffet dinner was given during Parents' Weekend. Delta Zeta's selected a wintry theme, "Artistry on Ice," for their winter formal, held in Marshalltown.

DZ's help themselves to some punch at a tea which they gave to honor this year's new housemother, Mrs. Flora Fridley.

MARLENE TIPTON AND KAREN WOOTEN admire the lamp awarded to DZ's for winning first in province day competition.

"Pink Carnation Ball"*

A redecorated house greeted the Gamma Phi Beta's when they came back for school fall quarter. During the summer the living room, dining room, chapter room and bedrooms were redecorated. The Gamma Phi's had a shiny new trophy to display in their house as a result of winning first place in Sor-Dor in the spring. Spring quarter also marked the "Pink Carnation Ball" held at the Hotel Savery in Des Moines. Pink carnations were used for decorations and figured steins were given as favors. Partygoers were entertained with a skit given by the pledges. Veishea found the Gamma Phi's busy building their float, "Island Ahoy." Gamma Phi's were also represented in Vodvil with their skit from Varieties, "The Boyfriends." Built around a playboy theme, it was a story of the girl with the most dates ending up alone when the evening is over. At the tapping ceremony beginning the Veishea weekend Gamma Phi's learned that Margery Molden and Jean McKee had been chosen for Mortar Board, and that Ann Erickson was an attendant to the Veishea queen. Ann was also Military Ball Queen, a Bomb Beauty and a finalist for Greek Week Queen. Also during spring quarter Gamma Phi mothers enjoyed a "Mothers' Weekend." A similar event was held fall quarter for the Gamma Phi dads. Prizes were awarded for various activities during the parents' weekends. Another fall event was Founders' Day, which the women celebrated with a tea. Two other teas were held during the year to honor Mrs. Effie Bell, the Gamma Phi housemother. Winter quarter Gamma Phi's and their dates used their ingenuity designing costumes for the "Yard-and-One-Half Party." Costumes could be created only from the allotted amount of material. Odds and ends were used for decorations to complete the offbeat theme. A guitar duet was presented at intermission.

Theta moms redecorate rooms . . . house depicts showboat era at winter party

Kappa Alpha Theta moms provided an unexpected treat for Theta's this year — newly decorated rooms to move into fall quarter. As the quarter got into full swing, the Theta's entertained their fathers at their "Dad's Weekend."

After treating fathers to a football game and dinner "out," the daughters paired up with dads for the traditional look-alike contest. When the big day was over, the women moved out of the house and dads took over for their annual stay. A similar "Mom's Weekend" was held spring quarter. Another spring event for the Theta's was a dance at the Waveland Lodge early in April. Entertainment at intermission was provided by pinmates. Theta's kicked off winter quarter with a "showboat" party. The entrance of the house was decorated as a gang plank, with the interior of the house representing the different rooms of a showboat. Southern costumes, depicting the era of the showboat, were worn. The annual "spring formal" was transformed to a winter dinner-dance at the Hyperion Country Club in Des Moines. Exchanges and casual evenings rounded out their social whirl. Among honors which came to the Theta house during the year was the selection of Susan Shearer and Mary Lou Pierce for Mortar Board. Another Veishea activity for the house was its parade entry, entitled "Travel the I-land of Education." In beauty competition Linn Rundell was named a Bomb Beauty and three other Theta's were finalists. Theta's were also the fraternity sweethearts of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Beta Sigma Psi, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Sigma Chi and Delta Sigma Phi. The women in the chapter also had the privilege of being hostesses to the Kappa Alpha Theta grand national president.

KD's and their housemother find that a cold winter evening is the perfect time to put the fireplace to practical use by popping popcorn.

KD's earn second-place trophy in Veishea parade with "Canary Island"

Kappa Delta won the second-place trophy in the sorority division of the Veishea parade. Their float was entitled "Canary Island," and depicted "Tweety" in a cage on an island with "Sylvester" in a boat rowing toward the island. For Homecoming the KD's display featured a large dial telephone with moving receiver and the magnified voice of an operator. The theme of the display was "Hold That Line." Other events during the year included Founders' Day and a tea honoring Mrs. Violet Osborne, the Kappa Delta housemother. Founders' Day was celebrated at the chapter house and included a smorgasbord given by alumnae in addition to a brief inspirational ceremony. Kappa Delta pledges, actives and alums attended the celebration. Another event for the house members during fall quarter was a visit from the sorority's national chapterian, Mattie Ruth Gallagher. Highlighting the KD's social calendar for the year was their "White Rose Formal," held spring quarter at Hotel Fort Des Moines. White roses decorated the dinner table and the picket fence which enclosed the band. Music for the dance was provided by Denny Matice. As favors, dates received pledge paddles with their names printed on them. On the KD calendar fall quarter was a fireside planned around a Bermuda theme. Decorations included fish nets and a pond with live goldfish. A trio, Bruce Butterfield, Louie Thompson and Julien Schmidt, entertained KD's and their dates with ballads and folk songs. On a more serious side, members of Kappa Delta put money in a "Sunshine Box" as part of their service project. The money went to help pay for entertainment for children in the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond, Va., which is the sorority's national philanthropy.

FLOODLIGHTS are a necessity to finish those last details on the KD Homecoming display.

*Kappa's win first in scholarship
Veishea parade, Vodvil,
Homecoming displays*

Members of Kappa Kappa Gamma captured the first-place trophy in the sorority division of the Veishea parade. Their float, "Christmas Island," was decorated with snowballs collected during the winter and stored in a freezer. Further honors came to the house during Veishea as Karen Johnson was crowned Veishea Queen of Queens, and Harriet Mason, Rosy Stock, Sue Goulding, Dee Robbins, Ann Thornburg and Jackie Andre were tapped for Mortar Board. The Kappa's variety skit, "Pammel Place," won first place in Veishea Vodvil. The Kappa's also won the first-place trophy in the sorority division for their Homecoming display fall quarter. Their display, "It's In The Cards," featured large replicas of the "four aces."

PRACTICING for their winter quarter Varieties skit, Kappa's portray a country lass and a delinquent eyeing the haughty "rich girls."

During Greek Week in the fall, two members of the sorority, Harriet Mason and Sue Goulding, were tapped for Gamma Gamma. The Kappa's, who stress scholarship both in the active chapter and in the pledge class, captured first place in campus scholarship spring quarter and won the pledge scholarship trophy. Members of the sorority are active in many campus activities and honoraries such as Lampos, Psi Chi, Omicron Nu, Phi Upsilon Omicron, Theta Sigma Phi, Phi Kappa Phi and Alpha Lambda Delta. Kappa's include the president of Freshman "Y" and two political interns to Washington, D.C. Social events included the "Monmouth Duo," which was held with Pi Beta Phi sorority spring quarter. The annual dance celebrates the founding of both sororities at Monmouth, Ill. Decorations included hearts inside glittery balls. Dates received live chickens as invitations to the Kappa's "Barefoot Farmers Party" which was also held in the spring. The couples enjoyed grilling steaks at the sorority house.

TIRED OF WAITING, these Kappa's decide to take action to remove a talkative sister from one of the phone booths.

with special weekends . . .
give "Monmouth Duo"*

Pi Beta Phi's entertained their parents at separate weekends during spring and fall quarters. Spring quarter's "Mummy's Weekend" was based on an Egyptian theme. Mothers received towels stamped with Pi Beta Phi as favors. "The King and I" offered a theme for father's weekend in the fall. Each woman presented her father with a small pledge paddle. Another event spring quarter was the spring formal. The party, traditionally planned by the seniors, included a picnic at Inis Grove and dancing on their gayly decorated patio. For Veishea, they planned their float around a pun, entitling it "Lost on a Dessert Island." Later in the spring the seniors observed another tradition by breaking their glasses after their last Sunday dinner as everyone sang "Ring Ching, Ching." Soon after school started in the fall the Pi Phi's and their new pledges went on a weekend retreat to the Larry Jo Ranch. Spring quarter marked the annual "Monmouth Duo," held jointly by Pi Beta Phi and Kappa Kappa Gamma sororities. The party celebrates the founding of both sororities at Monmouth, Ill. That same quarter the alums sponsored a luncheon at the chapter house for the actives and pledges. Group singing provided a friendly atmosphere in which they could become better acquainted. The pledges took their turn by sponsoring "Pi Phi Patch," a winter fireside built around a Dogpatch theme. On Valentine's Day the Pi Phi's participated in their community service project. Their pin, the arrow, provided a natural theme for the project. Throughout the year the Pi Phi's added trophies to their mantle. They won first place in sorority intramurals and second place in Sor-Dor competition.

THIS VISITOR at the Pi Phi house doesn't seem to mind the overdose of flattering attention he's receiving from the girls.

SK's give "Legend in Lavender"...

Marjorie Wagge reigns as Homecoming queen

Preparations for Homecoming began early as the Sigma Kappa's began planning their display.

It featured a huge anchor and chain, and the caption read "We'll Sink 'Em." Following the game, an open house was held for alumnae and friends. The "castle-on-the-hill" became a royal palace when a Sigma Kappa, Marjorie Waage, was crowned Homecoming Queen. Another project for house members was the construction of a Veishea float. The women used the famous quotation, "No Man

Is An Island," for the title of their entry in the parade. Parents, friends and alumnae were invited to visit the sorority house during Veishea. Also spring quarter, Sigma Kappa's celebrated State Day with a dinner held in the Sun Room of the Memorial Union. Mrs.

Warren Baker, editor of the Sigma Kappa "Triangle," was guest speaker. Attending State

Day were alumnae, mothers from Iowa and surrounding states, active members and pledges of the local chapter. Dinner at the Broiler preceded the spring formal, "Legend in Lavender," which was held at the Indian Creek Country

Club in Nevada. During intermission

couples shared a favorite custom of passing a lighted candle to announce two engagements and a pinning. Dates received men's jewelry boxes with the Sigma Kappa crest on them. Soft candlelight carried out the theme of the SK winter formal, "Enchantment By Candlelight," which was held at the Hyperian Country Club in Des Moines. At the SK's Christmas fireside, a December tradition planned by the pledges, dates helped decorate the 18-foot Christmas tree. In addition to social events, members of the house were also very active in campus activities and honoraries, including

Omicron Nu, Women's "T" Fraternity, Sigma Alpha Iota and Pi Mu Epsilon.

SIGMA KAPPA's join Marjorie Waage in admiring the trophy she received as Iowa State's 1959 Homecoming queen.

ARMED WITH the necessary equipment, books and cakes, these Sigma Kappa's are well prepared for a midterm study session.

COORDINATING the many activities of Interfraternity Council are officers Tom Lettington, vice-president, Bob Means, president, and Clark Warden, business manager.

Interfraternity Council

Interfraternity Council is the governing body for the fraternity system at Iowa State. Its membership includes a representative from each of the 31 houses on campus. IFC coordinates activities among individual fraternities and sponsors general fraternity programs. The administrative, legislative and judicial branches of IFC organize rush week procedure, plan public relations and handle other specific areas for the fraternity group. Together with Panhellenic Council, IFC sponsors Greek Week and the Iowa State Star, a newspaper-format publication for members of fraternities and sororities. Other projects for this year included the annual Christmas party for Ames children and speaking tours acquainting Iowa high school students with the Greek system. Interfraternity Council also sponsors scholarships for Iowa high school students, given each fall on the basis of academic achievement and participation in activities.

ONE OF THE 23 GREEKS chosen for Gamma Gamma, the Greek honorary, receives surprise notice of his selection to the group.

MARTY MICHELL, Chi Omega president, visits with new Gamma Gamma members, Bill Trester and Gerald Baumgartner, at a Greek Week reception held for new members.

INTERFRATERNITY Pledge Council officers meet to discuss the agenda for their next weekly meeting. They are Warren Brown, Russell Mullens, Wayne Murphy (pres.), Larry Nelson and James Kaegle.

MEMBERS of the Greek system turned out in full force to cheer their teams on to victory in the Greek Week Olympics competition.

Greeks tapped for Gamma Gamma... hold Christmas party for Ames school children

Twenty-three sorority and fraternity members were tapped for Gamma Gamma, the Greek honorary, as Greek Week activities got underway on September 25. Greek Week royalty, Ann Erickson and Jim Bunning, were crowned at the same kick-off event, which was held in the Armory. A jazz session followed. Phi Delta Theta pledges took sweepstakes in the Olympics. Jimmy Dorsey's band set the mood that evening for the "Athenian Ball," also held in the Armory. Another joint project sponsored by men and women of the Greek system was a Christmas party. Twelve hundred elementary school children from Ames spent an exciting afternoon at fraternity houses on December 12.

JERRY WHITE is the obliging subject as Donna Hecker and Sue Rippetoe squeeze their hardest in trying to win this Olympics event.

GREETING MARGE MOLDEN, new Gamma Gamma member, and Dick Wiltamuth to the Greek Week reception is Mrs. Amber Stow, Chi Omega housemother.

ONE OF the last guests to leave the IFC Christmas party, this young fellow seems to delight in leaving in high style.

ISU Acacians earn highest award for scholarship among their fraternity chapters

Acacians at Iowa State were chosen last year as the best Acacia chapter nationally for scholastic achievement. On campus they have ranked near the top scholastically among fraternities for the last eight years. Honors came to the Acacia men in another field when their Varieties skit was selected for Veishea Vodvil. The skit, set in a saloon in Alaska, was a pantomimed narration of the poem, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew." For their entry in the Veishea parade, they presented "Penguin Paradise." Alums and parents were welcomed to their open house during Veishea. Acacians also held an open house during Homecoming. Their Homecoming lawn display showed a guillotine and asked, "How Are You Fixed For Blades?" In addition to open houses, the men enjoyed a wide range of social activities. Their spring formal, a dinner-dance, was held at the Hyperion Club.

Their most unusual party for the year was the fall quarter "Night on the Nile," held at the chapter house. Acacians and their dates were garbed in Egyptian dress, and a prize was given for the best costume. The Egyptian theme was also carried out in the favors. Pledges entertained the actives and their dates at intermission.

Winter quarter's Valentine season provided an appropriate theme for their semi-formal

"Sweetheart Dance," given at the house. Other seasons lent themselves to such specific events as the spring picnic, fall hayride and Christmas fireside. Also at Christmastime the men participated in the annual IFC Christmas party for Ames children. Another special project for the Acacians this year was putting storm windows on the Eastern Star Home at Boone. The men also participated in Sinfonia and intramurals. Spring quarter the house ranked ninth in intramurals.

MRS. R. H. DINSMORE, Acacia housemother, seems to be getting some extra advice as she joins the men in a hand of bridge.

PLEDGES GATHER around the notorious "boulder" which they often deposit at sorority houses, agreeing to pick it up only in return for a serenade or exchange.

*Adelante's rank high in scholarship
... crown fraternity 'Lady'
at spring formal*

Adelante, the second oldest local fraternity in the United States, has "Scholarship, Fellowship, Leadership" for its motto. Special emphasis is placed on scholastic attainment. A scholarship trophy is awarded each quarter to the member who earns the highest grade point for that quarter. This trophy is awarded at the quarterly scholarship banquet. At this banquet members with a grade point above the house average eat steak while those with a grade point below the house average eat beans. Adelante was second in scholarship among the fraternities spring quarter and has been in the top ten fraternities scholastically for twenty-seven out of the past thirty quarters. Members of Adelante were also active in intramurals. They ranked in the upper one-third of fraternities spring quarter in points per man, winning second place in class B basketball. The Adelante's enjoyed a well-rounded social calendar, including one major party each quarter in addition to exchanges and firesides. Their spring formal, entitled "Artistry in April," was given at the Hyperion Club in Des Moines. "Lady of Adelante" for the formal was Sandra Knight. Partygoers danced to the music of Mark Van Slyke, and dates were given pen sets as favors. The annual Founders' Day celebration was held during Homecoming. A banquet was given in the Sun Room of the Memorial Union, and a program was presented in the Gallery. Guest speaker for the event was Dr. James Hilton, an Adelante alumnus. Another house activity was the construction of a Veishea float, "Arctic Iceolation." Adelante's made several improvements in their house during the year. The kitchen was remodeled, and new furniture was purchased for the recreation room and the living room.

TERRY PENNIMAN (left) is lectured on the uses of the pledge paddle by an active member of Adelante, Jim Fruehling.

THE CHRISTMAS SEASON is a time for parties, and Adelante's put this theory into practice as they invite their dates to help make decorations for the Christmas tree.

Alpha Chi Rho's vary party themes from "Treasure of Memories" to fall beatnik dance

Members of Alpha Chi Rho were welcomed back after summer vacation by a new housemother, Mrs. Ruth Reeve. During fall quarter the Crows held a tea for her. The Boone Country Club, decorated for the occasion, was the setting for "Treasure of Memories," the Alpha Chi Rho spring formal. Favors of carnations, the fraternity flower, and miniature hope chests were given to their dates. "Man, like crazy!" were the pass-words to the Alpha Chi Rho beatnik party fall quarter. Members and their dates dressed like "cats," and had a fun-filled evening at the chapter house. At Homecoming the Alpha Chi Rho's held an open house for visiting alums, providing a friendly atmosphere for the members, pledges and alums to become better acquainted. Dancing, cards and games provided entertainment for the Crow's social calendar. Scholarship ranks high in importance with the men of Alpha Chi Rho, and when grade averages are compared they rank in the top half among fraternities. An annual project for the men is the IFC Christmas party for Ames children. The Alpha Chi Rho pledges, aided by Santa Clause, spread good cheer among the children. Participation in softball, football, volleyball, basketball, bowling, ping-pong and pool won the Crows second place in team points and the class A championship in softball. Spring quarter found the Alpha Chi Rho's cheering the baseball team to victory and shouting for their fraternity brother, Bill Willard, catcher for the team. Other individuals brought honors to the fraternity through honorary memberships and as Veishea open house chairmen.

AGR's receive second-place award for activity participation from national fraternity

OVERLOOKING THE FIREPLACE in the AGR living room is a replica of their badge, a crescent encircling a sheaf and sickle.

ALPHA GAMMA RHO'S FORM a quartet to harmonize to the piano accompaniment of their housemother, Mrs. Arminia Brandt.

Iowa State's Alpha Gamma Rho chapter received the second place national AGR activities award. Members of the chapter represented the house on Agriculture Council, departmental clubs in agriculture, Veishea, Cardinal Guild, Union Board and the Iowa Agriculturist Publication Board. AGR's included the champion and reserve champion showmen at the 1959 Little International and the state president of Young Republicans. House members were also active in intramurals. They were runners-up in class A softball, and had teams in the track semifinals and class A and class C bowling. Another house activity was the building of a Veishea float, captioned "Paddle Boy, Land Ahoy." It pictured a life raft nearing an island. Also spring quarter the Alpha Gamma Rho's gave their spring dance barbecue, "Farmers' Ball." Decorations lent a western air to the party. A split-rail fence led to the house, and straw, saddles and ranch gear decorated the interior. Beef barbecues were served to fit the theme. After the party, the AGR's moved out of the house and their dates took over for the night. Summer vacation provided an opportunity for the men to host their alums at an annual picnic at the State Fair Grounds. Another annual summer activity is the AGR State Fair banquet, given for actives, alumni and guests. Gordon Chalmers, Iowa State athletic director, spoke at the dinner this year. Fall activities for the house included a pledge party and a hayride. At Homecoming they constructed a display entitled "Cy Says, 'Wildcats Gotta Go.'" Their annual "Pink Rose Formal," at which the Alpha Gamma Rho Dream Girl was crowned, was held winter quarter. The dance was named for the fraternity flower.

ALPHA SIG'S make it a point to keep their trophies in top notch condition. Here two of the men polish a 1958 Greek Week trophy.

IF POOR RECEPTION was the problem, we doubt if the drastic steps these Alpha Sig's are taking will help the situation.

Alpha Sig's capture trophies in intramural basketball, softball, billiards

Alpha Sig's won the second-place trophy in class A basketball in winter quarter intramurals. They also earned the top spot in intramural billiards and class C softball. In scholarship they placed in the top third among fraternities spring and fall quarters, ranking fifth fall quarter. Early in the spring the men gave their annual "Black and White Formal" at the Hyperion Club in Des Moines. The club was decorated in black and white, and dates received black and white stuffed skunks. Tim Yantz' band provided music for the party. During spring quarter Alpha Sig's gave a picnic for their parents. They also held a smoker to welcome the Alpha Kappa Lambda fraternity colony to Iowa State. Veishea found the Alpha Sig's in tune with the weather as they entered a float entitled "Atlantis" in the parade. It showed Neptune and his court in front of a huge sea shell. At Homecoming they built an aqua, chartreuse and pink modernistic display captioned "Let's Go Modern — Win." The men also held a reunion for alumni at the chapter house. Other fall events for the men included a hayride and a tea honoring their new housemother, Mrs. Carrie Baker. At the beginning of winter quarter they entertained alumni at the house for a Founders' Day banquet. During the Christmas season Alpha Sig's and their dates trimmed the tree and sang Christmas carols at the annual Christmas fireside. Another Christmas party for the Alpha Sig's was one given for Ames children as part of an IFC-sponsored project. Before settling down to study for winter quarter finals they gave a "Waterfront Wail" party at the chapter house. Alpha Sig's and dates dressed like hoodlums for the occasion. The entrance hall was transformed into a wharf, and other rooms represented dance hall and gambling dens.

ATO's and dates don costumes for annual 'Calypso Party' and Halloween dance

With Halloween falling on Saturday during fall quarter, the ATO's had a perfect occasion for their fall party, held at the VFW Hall in Boone.

Couples dressed as ghosts, witches or other Halloween characters and humorous prizes were awarded for the best costumes. ATO's and dates amused themselves playing such Halloween games as dunking for apples. At Homecoming the men took the inspiration for their lawn decoration from the comic strip "Little Abner." Schmoos of all sizes and shapes covered the lawn to carry out the theme, "The Masses Are Behind You." They entertained their parents at an open house and luncheon during Parents' Weekend.

In winter quarter the men turned the house into a nightclub for their formal, "Casino." The music of Denny Matice's combo and a pledge skit at intermission provided a fun-filled evening. Dates were given pajama holders. Spring quarter, couples drank punch from hollowed-out pineapples at the fourth annual "Calypso Party," held at the chapter house. The house was elaborately decorated for the occasion, and calypso music was piped to various sections of the house. Couples had their pictures taken dressed in an array of "calypso-type" costumes. Dates received polar bear pajama holders as favors. Special entertainment was provided by the pledge class members who presented a skit. Besides being active in social activities, ATO's captured first place in intramural horseshoe pitching and golf in the spring. They also participated in many campus activities and honoraries such as Cardinal Guild, Tau Beta Pi, Eta Kappa Nu, Alpha Zeta, Phi Eta Sigma, Keramos, Lampos, Knights of St. Patrick, Sextant, Scabbard and Blade and Sigma Delta Chi.

Iowa State Beta Sig chapter cited for activities, scholarship by national fraternity

With the coming of spring, Beta Sigs' thoughts turned to the annual "Gold Rose Formal," held at the Marshalltown Country Club. A trellis entwined with gold roses provided the setting for the presentation of Carolyn Dashner, Sweetheart of Beta Sigma Psi. Gold music boxes with the fraternity crest decorating the lid were given as favors to dates. Tests, term papers and grades were pushed into the background for the Beta Sig fall dinner-dance, "Northland Enchantment." Couples danced to the music of Denny Matice and his combo at the Boone Country Club. The Beta Sig's honored their parents with an open house during Parents Weekend fall quarter. The rest of the year was filled with picnics, exchanges, serenades and the annual winter costume party. Beta Sig's sang their way into the Sinfonia finals during spring quarter. At Veishea the men entered their float, "This Island Earth," in the parade. Another construction project for the Beta Sigma Psi's was their Homecoming lawn decoration, entitled "No Sweat." Jim Covey, a Beta Sig, was a member of Cardinal Key. Other members of the fraternity were active in IFC Administrative Council, Gamma Gamma and Homecoming Central Committee. The Beta Sig's also captured first place in class C ping-pong intramurals and participated in the annual Interfraternity Council Christmas party for Ames children. These activities helped the Iowa State chapter earn Beta Sigma Psi the outstanding chapter award, based on expansion, activities and scholarship. The Beta Sig house lounge was entirely redecorated this year. The room is now complete with new carpets, curtains and furniture. Members of Beta Sigma Psi are Lutherans and are active in both the Memorial Lutheran Church and the University Lutheran Congregation.

THE PIANO not only affords a means of entertainment for Beta Sigma Psi members, but also helps them in learning fraternity songs.

THESE FOUR BETA SIG'S seem to be in a deep state of concentration as they try to outwit each other in a game of bridge.

"Island of Never Never Land" wins third-place trophy for Beta's in rainy Veishea parade

Beta Theta Pi won third place in the fraternity division of the Veishea parade with its float "Island of Never Never Land." Built in two sections, the float depicted a scene from "Peter Pan." A figure of Peter Pan circled the first section, and Captain Hook and his ship followed on the second.

Another honor came to the Beta's during Veishea when Jim Balloun, student body president, was tapped for Cardinal Key. The Beta's also received an award for their Homecoming display entitled "Beat, Man, Beat" which earned them the Chi Omega Purple Shaft. During fall quarter's Greek Week three Beta's were tapped for Gamma Gamma. Beta's also have members in other honoraries, including Knights of St. Patrick, Phi Mu Alpha, Scabbard and Blade, Tau Beta Pi, Tau Sigma Delta, Alpha Zeta, Phi Mu Epsilon and Arnold Air Society. The Beta's, who take special pride in their singing ability, won third place in Sinfonia spring quarter. Also that quarter Beta's and their dates enjoyed an informal Bermuda Party at the Waveland Country Club in Des Moines. Another party, the annual spring formal, was held at the Boone Country Club. Dates received pillows decorated with the Greek letters for Beta Theta Pi for favors. The annual "Beta Bar B-Q" was given fall quarter, with a dance in the chapter house following. Also held fall quarter was the "Miami Triad," a semi-formal dance given annually by Beta Theta Pi, Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Chi fraternities to celebrate their foundings at Miami University. A house party was given winter quarter by the pledge class.

The Beta's also held informal exchanges during the year, including the traditional breakfast exchanges with the pledge classes of all sororities.

BETA's SURPRISE their housemother, Mrs. Ann Hannon, by presenting her with an electric heater for a birthday present.

THESE BETA's are especially proud of the trophy they won for taking third place in the fraternity division of the Veishea parade with the float "Island of Never Never Land."

Stalactites create mood as pledges make Delta Chi house into cave for "Spelunkers Party"

Delta Chi's and their dates climbed through a basement window and slid down a board to enter the chapter house for the "Spelunkers Party." The party, given by the pledges fall quarter, had a cave-exploring theme. Pledges turned the basement and first floor into a cave, complete with stalactites. Also fall quarter Delta Chi's enjoyed a hayride. After the hayride, the couples gathered at a Legionnaire cabin where a fire in the fireplace set the mood for cider, doughnuts and dancing. Just before Homecoming, Delta Chi's could be found gathering leaves, bushes and even small trees to transform their lawn into a waterfall. Their Homecoming display, appropriately enough, was entitled "Kansas State Falls." Earlier fall quarter Delta Chi's entertained alumni at a dinner to celebrate Founders' Day, October 13.

DELTA CHI'S start preliminary work on their Homecoming display, a 15-foot waterfall entitled "K. State Falls."

THOSE WARM, fall Saturday afternoons provide the perfect opportunity to get the car slicked up for Saturday night's date.

Winter quarter the Delta Chi's held their annual formal, "Carnation Fantasy." When the Delta Chi's returned from summer vacation, they found new furniture in the living room and a new carpet in the music room. An older, but unique feature of the Delta Chi house is the fact that the kitchen is open to anyone for snacks whether he is taking a study break or is just relaxing. Delta Chi's were active in campus activities. Bill Trout headed Activities Advisory Service, and Ron Nordstrom served on Veishea Central Committee as coordinator. Members of the fraternity were active in intramurals, participating in class A football and winning second place in track. A house honor went to Dick Cushing when he was chosen outstanding active, based on grades, activities and fraternity participation. For their Veishea float, Delta Chi's drew upon the beauty of the Orient for their theme, "Java — Jewel of the Orient." One attention-getting feature was a gold eastern-style crown.

WILLIAM NOBLITT, past national president of Delta Sigma Phi, was the guest speaker at the Delta Sig Founder's Day banquet.

Delta Sig's win sweepstakes trophy in Veishea parade competition with "Alice in Wonderland"

Delta Sigma Phi topped a field of more than 60 floats to win the 1959 Veishea Sweepstakes trophy with its float "Alice in Wonderland." This marked the seventh consecutive year that the Delta Sig's placed in float competition. The prize-winning float, built in two sections, showed oversized figures of characters from the Lewis Carroll story. Another high spot of Veishea for the Delta Sig's was the tapping of Rollie Hauser for Cardinal Key. Also during spring quarter the Delta Sig house was the site of the Military Ball Queen reception. Delta Sig fraternity gave a Housemother's Tea to which housemothers from all campus residences were invited. During Homecoming the Delta Sig's held their Founders' Day Banquet with the past national president of Delta Sigma Phi fraternity as a guest. Later, at Christmastime the Delta Sig's participated in the IFC Christmas party for Ames children. Delta Sig's enjoyed many social events during the year. Spring quarter they held their annual Carnation Ball at the State 4-H Camp in Boone. The large room was elaborately decorated to carry out a spring theme. Ann Thompson was crowned Delta Sigma Phi sweetheart. Howard Rohm entertained partygoers with his card tricks, and brandy snifters were given as favors. The day after the Carnation Ball, a steak fry was held at the Ledges State Park for the men and their dates. Fall quarter the Larry Jo Ranch was the site of an unusual dual party with Pi Beta Phi sorority. Entertainment for the evening included dancing, horseback riding and skits given by both houses. Also during the year the Delta Sig's enjoyed exchanges with sororities and dormitories which included roller skating, horseback riding, dancing, softball and miniature golf.

FRED NELSON, Grant Halsne and Jim Champion pause for a cigarette after class on the front steps of the Delta Sig house.

WITH THE ARRIVAL of spring quarter, frequent after-dinner water fights become popular sport with the Delt's.

TAKING ADVANTAGE of their large front lawn, Delt's put in some passing practice.

Social season for Delt's ranges from "Orchid Formal" to "Communist Party"

Climaxing the school year, Delta Tau Delta held its annual spring "Orchid Formal" in Des Moines at the Commodore Hotel. Appropriately, dates received orchid corsages and miniature fraternity paddles decorated with the Delt crest. Jill Sawyer was crowned queen during intermission. Also spring quarter was the traditional Delt "Four-Poster Party" which featured an oversized four-poster bed in the center of the living room. Delt's and their dates, clad in pajamas, enjoyed the music of Spec Red and his combo. Fall quarter the Delt's held a "Communist Party" at their house. Costumes were planned to follow the "Red" theme. One room was converted into a salt mine for the evening and another depicted a vodka distillery. Entertainment was provided by the Delt pledges who presented a skit. Besides their regular dinner and dance exchanges, the Delt's had several unusual ideas including a breakfast exchange and a bermuda exchange. Spring quarter they invited all of their parents to a family picnic at Brookside park. The Delt's Veishea float, "Which Way to Veishea," featured characters from the comic strip "Little Abner." Homecoming found the Delt's inspired by "Yogi Bear" as they entitled their display "Let's Conk the Cat, Boo Boo." The display showed a large bear swinging a club at a wildcat which moved back and forth on a roller platform. As a special service project the Delt's participated in the annual IFC Christmas Party. Delt's were also active in all-campus organizations. The president of Pep Council, president of LSA, vice-president of IFC and vice-president of Social Bureau were Delt's.

DU's observe 125th anniversary of national founding...give "Street Fight" party

The DU's celebrated the 125th anniversary of the fraternity's founding this year. Other items on their calendar included an early fall tea welcoming their new housemother, Mrs. Audrey Weaver.

During Homecoming weekend the DU's encouraged alumni to visit the house and entertained their parents instead of building their annual display. They were active in Greek Week activities, taking honors in the Olympics.

The DU "Street Fight," a juvenile delinquent party, was given October 17. Partygoers were entertained by the jazzy beat of Eddy Randall and the Moderns, and DU sweatshirts were given as favors. The theme of the DU winter formal was "Club DU." Couples ate and danced at the Boone Country Club. Crested desk sets were given to dates as favors.

On the more serious side was the DU's service project whereby they cleaned the Lutheran Children's Home. Interest in activities and membership in honoraries seemed to characterize the DU house throughout the year. DU's were represented in 10 honoraries — Pi Mu Alpha, Pi Tau Sigma, Tau Beta Pi, Eta Kappa Nu, Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Eta Sigma, Scabbard and Blade, Sextant, Sigma Gamma Tau and the Knights of St. Patrick. Responsible positions in activities were held by many members. John Cronk was editor of the Iowa Engineer and president of Engineering Council. Steve Wells was an associate editor of the Iowa State Daily. Phil Ritz, house president, was secretary of the Iowa State Scientist Publication Board. Chuck Fjelland presided over the Knights of St. Patrick. He and Joe Douglas received the Delta Upsilon scholarship award from their chapter for the greatest grade average improvement. The chapter itself received an award from the Delta Upsilon national organization for outstanding pledge training.

FOR AFTER-DINNER entertainment, DU's often gather around the piano to brush up on some of their fraternity songs.

AS WITH MOST pledge classes, DU pledges often receive the Saturday afternoon assignment of raking the front lawn.

FarmHouse motto helps fraternity lead men's scholarship at ISU for 19 years

Members of FarmHouse have been the all-campus men's scholarship leaders at Iowa State since the school year of 1940-41. They attribute their high scholarship partly to the influence of the fraternity's motto, "Builders of Men." In addition to top scholarship awards, FarmHouse men participate in campus activities. Four of them were representatives to Cardinal Guild Senate, and Chuck Oldham was tapped for Cardinal Key at Veishea. The entire house worked together to build its entry in the Veishea parade. The theme of the parade was "Island Travel," and the FarmHouse men designed their float to depict the notorious island of Alcatraz. For their Homecoming display, they constructed a football player carrying the Kansas State wildcat and captioned it "This Cat's Gotta Go." Also during fall quarter FarmHouse gave a tea honoring their national president and secretary-treasurer, both Iowa State alums. FarmHouse men participated in intramurals and won the fraternity class B basketball championship. Social events also kept them busy. "Imagination" was the theme of their spring dinner-dance at the Marshalltown Country Club. Dinner at Lloyd's preceded the dance. The annual winter quarter "Farmers Frolic" was named "Seward's Folly" in honor of the new state of Alaska. Carrying out the Alaskan theme, the decorations represented a gambling room, igloo and trading post. Partygoers wore costumes which fitted the theme, and dates were given FarmHouse pillows as favors. During spring quarter, the annual steak fry was held, and there were several dinner exchanges each quarter. Along with these events, the fraternity had three firesides with the pledge class providing entertainment.

AN EARLY-EVENING snack is found by these FarmHouse men to be the perfect excuse to forget mid-term studying for awhile.

EXAMINING THEIR display of trophies, FarmHouse men are particularly proud of the awards they've won for high scholarship.

Homecoming marks anniversary of founding of Kappa Sig on Iowa State campus

Homecoming 1959 was a doubly important occasion for the Kappa Sig's as they celebrated their golden anniversary at Iowa State University.

Alums from all over the nation returned to their alma mater to join in the festivities. Also fall quarter, Greek Week was an exciting time for the Kappa Sig's. Jim Bunning, their past president, was co-chairman of Greek Week, was tapped for Gamma Gamma and was crowned King of Greek Week. An activity in which the whole house participated during the year was intramurals. Also during the past year various additions and improvements were made on the chapter house. A large display case for the array of Kappa Sig trophies was added in the living room. Some of the improvements were made by teams of pledge fathers and sons.

Each pledge father and son undertook a project to improve the chapter house physically, such as painting, decorating or maintenance.

Dressed in western attire, Kappa Sig's and their dates climbed a 10-foot high corral built around the front door of the house to gain admission to the annual "Kappa Sig Bar-Nothing" fall party. The couples danced to the music of a combo, and the pledges put on skits for entertainment. The dates received "Old Hilton" bottles and purse atomizers as favors. Kappa Sig's went from a western theme to a beat theme for their Homecoming display, "Kansas Is Beat." The lawn display showed the Kansas State Wildcat playing bongo drums. Winter quarter the annual "Black and White" formal was given in Des Moines. Carrying out the theme, Kappa Sig's and their dates wore only black and white. Fairlyn Forsyth was crowned Kappa Sigma Dream Girl and was presented a 24-inch traveling trophy.

ENJOYING A GAME of ping-pong, these Kappa Sig's agree that the recreation room is an indispensable part of their house.

KEEPING THE MANY activities of the Kappa Sig's recorded in a scrapbook is a big job. Here the men review last year's events.

*Lambda Chi's build new house... plan to complete it
by fall quarter*

Drawings for a new Lambda Chi Alpha chapter house on the Iowa State University campus were well underway by fall quarter. During the previous summer, the houses in which the men had been living were torn down to make way for the construction. The modern split-level house will accommodate 66 men and provide private rooming facilities for the Lambda Chi housemother and cook. Living quarters for the men will be divided into six-man suites.

The front of the split-level house will have full-length glass doors leading into the dining area on the bottom level, with full-length glass windows completing the second level. The fraternity hoped the construction would be finished so the men could be in by fall quarter, 1960.

Taking advantage of the building site at

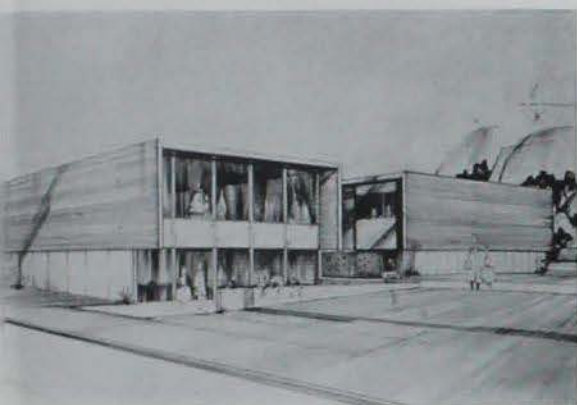

WITH THEIR OLD house torn down, Lambda Chi's pitched in with hopes of speeding up the construction of their new house.

203 Ash Avenue, the Lambda Chi's had as a Homecoming slogan, "If You Think This Is A Mess, Wait Until You See Kansas State." In the midst of construction, the Lambda Chi's had many social events. The fraternity gave its annual "Blue Room Party" during fall quarter. Gambling casino decorations set the scene, and Lambda Chi's and their dates appropriately came dressed as gangsters. Earlier spring quarter, the Lambda Chi's gave their "White Rose Formal," at which their Crescent Girl, Virginia Hickey, was crowned. White roses set the scene for the dance, which was held at the Hotel Holst in Boone. Entertainment was provided by the "Nairobi Tribe," a vocal quartet composed of John Poulson, Ron Porter, George Forsyth and Tom Richards. Another aspect of fraternity life for the Lambda Chi's was campus activities. They participated in several intramural sports, including softball, touch football, bowling and volleyball. The Lambda Chi's also continued their Christmas door decorations contest for all Greek residences.

LAMBDA CHI's inspect an artist's drawing of their new house, which they hope will be ready to move into by fall quarter.

KEEPING their trophies bright and shining requires frequent attention from the Phi Delt's... a perfect job for pledge duties.

Phi Delt's win first with display at Homecoming . . . place second in intramurals

The Phi Delt's Homecoming display, "We Won't Muff It," showing Little Miss Muffet perched atop a giant toadstool, captured first place among fraternities. Right after the game, letters were removed to make the slogan "We Won." Phi Delta Theta also received many other awards during the year. Last spring their Veishea float, "Island in the Sun," was awarded the Chi Omega Purple Shaft, and their pledge class won the sweepstakes trophy in the annual Greek Week Olympics fall quarter. By taking first place in track competition, the Phi Delt's captured second place in over-all intramural standings. Honors also came to individual members of Phi Delta Theta. Ray Steben was hooded for Gamma Gamma, Gregg Hiatt was elected president of the senior class and Don Brown was named Battalion Commander of the Signal Corps. Phi Delt's cleaned and painted the Lutheran Children's Home in Ames spring quarter as their project for the Phi Delt Community Service Day. The chapter received a special recognition award for its service. Other house events spring quarter included the spring formal, held at Hotel Fort Des Moines, and Founders' Day, for which alums gathered in Des Moines March 27 to help the chapter celebrate. The Phi Delt's fall social season began when the fraternity joined with Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Chi fraternities to give the "Miami Triad." This dance celebrates the founding of the three fraternities at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. Winter quarter brought about the annual costume party, "Bowery," sponsored by the pledges, who completely decorated the house. Numerous firesides and exchanges rounded out the year's social events.

FRIDAY DINNER at the Phi Delt house is a casual meal as men enjoy relaxing after a busy week of classes and studying.

PHI GAMS make a frequent after-dinner stop at the organ to listen to their housemother, Mrs. Greta Bellamy, play for them.

AT THE END of the day, Phi Gam's gather in the president's room to enjoy the college at the organ to listen to their housemother,

Phi Gam's construct second-place Homecoming lawn display, "Orange Bowl Or . . ."

Capitalizing on the popularity of contemporary designs, Phi Gamma Delta captured second place in the fraternity division with its Homecoming display. Entitled "Orange Bowl Or . . .," it showed a little man in a K-State sweatshirt shooting himself in the head. The Fiji's planned their 1959 Veishea float around their nickname, entitling the entry "Fiji Islanders." The float depicted a huge bone alongside a boiling pot. Earlier spring quarter, Phi Gam's entertained their alumni with the annual "Pig Dinner" at which a roast pig is always served. The Fiji theme was also carried out in their annual spring party, "Fiji Grass Skirt Dance," held the weekend after Veishea. A waterfall welcomed Phi Gam's and their dates as they entered the chapter house. Partygoers wore colorful Hawaiian costumes, and orchid leis were given to dates as favors. Returning to school after summer vacation, the men of Phi Gamma Delta found completely new study rooms. The two upper floors of the chapter house were remodeled and redecorated during the summer. The Phi Gam's began their social season with a "Purple Garter Party," held at the Skyliner in Des Moines in October. The party's theme portrayed the fraternity color, royal purple. Pictures were taken as Phi Gam's placed the favors — purple garters — on their dates' legs. The party began with a huge buffet dinner, followed by dancing. Intermission found a combo of Phi Gam's providing accompaniment as others sang. Winter quarter the Fiji's held a Valentines Day formal at Waveland Country Club in Des Moines. Exchanges and casual evenings at the house rounded out the Phi Gam social calendar. Outside the social whirl, Phi Gam's were active in intramurals and had members in six honoraries.

New dorm, trophy room, furniture displayed to alums, parents at Phi Psi open houses

Phi Kappa Psi held open house winter quarter to show off its completely remodeled house, a job which was accomplished during the summer and fall quarter. A new dormitory was added and individual rooms were redecorated.

Changes on first floor include a new trophy room and new furniture, draperies and carpeting. The chapter room was remodeled and a large parking lot was added directly behind the house. To see the new improvements, alumni and parents were invited to visit during Homecoming and Parents' Weekend.

Winter quarter the Iowa State and State University of Iowa chapters held the combined annual celebration of Founders' Day in Des Moines.

Phi Psi's also participated in all-school activities.

Ten Phi Psi's belonged to Varsity I Club, and

ALTHOUGH the Phi Psi house has been completely remodeled, it seems as though there will always be a shortage of telephones.

members were active in honoraries such as Phi Mu Alpha, Pi Tau Sigma and Scabbard and Blade.

The Phi Psi social calendar featured three major parties which are given annually. Spring quarter the "Moulin Rouge" dance was held at the chapter house. The house was decorated like a French night club. Men wore French costumes, and their dates were allowed to use one-and-one-half yards of material to make their costumes.

Crested steins were given as favors. The "Sportsman" dance this year featured a western theme carried out by western costumes worn by the couples. Favors for dates were shorty nightgowns. Winter quarter the Phi Psi's held their yearly "Jeff Hop" celebrating the founding of the fraternity at Jefferson College. The formal dance was held in Des Moines.

For their 1959 Veishea float, the Phi Psi's used a scene from "Peter Pan." The float, entitled "Island In The Sky," featured a large castle and a replica of Captain Hook's ship.

"WHAT'S GOING on here?" these Phi Psi's seem to wonder as they run into a traffic jam on their way downstairs to dinner.

*Phi Tau's plant trees at YWCA
camp . . . pledges treat actives to spring fireside*

Highlighting the Phi Kappa Tau social season last spring was the formal, "Phi Tau Fantasy," held at the Waveland Country Club in Des Moines.

Mary Fleenor was crowned Phi Tau Dream Girl at the dance. Decorations added to the fantasy mood, and dates were given compacts with the Phi Kappa Tau crest on top as favors.

Another social event spring quarter was a fireside, given by the pledges. The pledge class entertained Phi Tau's and dates by presenting a skit for intermission. Other firesides were given throughout the year. Dinner and dance exchanges for actives and for pledges filled out the Phi Kappa Tau social calendar. Along with social events, Phi Tau's consider service to others another important phase of fraternity life.

Last spring, tree planting was their special service project at the YWCA camp near Boone. In addition to social and service activities, Phi Tau's are also active in campus events. The Phi Kappa Tau Homecoming display pictured one of Iowa State's "Dirty Thirty" trouncing on the Kansas State Wildcats. The display was captioned "Here Comes Cy Again." Phi Tau's built their Veishea float around a "Desert Island" theme. The float was complete with palm trees and two persons stranded on the island. In intramurals, Phi Kappa Tau's participated in every event. They placed in class B bowling division for fraternities. Besides all-house activities, members of the fraternity participated in campus activities on an individual basis. Two members of Phi Kappa Tau were presidents of campus organizations. Frank Cervetti was president of the American Institute of Architects, and Bob Brainard was president of the Iowa Chemistry Society.

SEATED BENEATH their house crest, these Phi Tau's recall many events from the past year as they look through their scrapbook.

HOMECOMING'S bleak weather couldn't deter Herm Juffer from taking time out to work on the Phi Kappa Tau lawn decoration.

*Phi Kap's join Theta Kappa Phi . . . honored during Greek Week
for scholarship*

Expansion seems to be the keynote of the Phi Kap house. The most significant event for the house during the past year was the merger of Phi Kappa and Theta Kappa Phi fraternities, resulting in a new name, Phi Kappa Theta. Phi Kappa Theta fraternity has 58 chapters throughout the nation, 23 more than Phi Kappa had. The Phi Kappa chapter at Iowa State was established in 1924. Expansion of another kind occurred when the fraternity purchased an annex adjoining the property of the chapter house. The annex will be able to house approximately 15 men. Changes also occurred within the chapter house.

Since the last school year, the living room has been completely refurnished. A stereo hi-fi set was also installed. Phi Kappa Theta fraternity was honored at the Greek Week Convocation fall quarter by being given a trophy for the most improved scholarship in the past three years.

A major event on the Phi Kap social calendar was the spring formal, "Amethysts in April," which was given at the Hotel Holst in Boone. Also in April the Phi Kap's celebrated their Founders' Day. Their first party of the new school year was the annual "Fisheaters' Brawl," given in October. The party was planned around a Roaring Twenties theme. Homecoming found many alums returning to Iowa State to visit the chapter house and renew friendships. Another major party given by the Phi Kap's was their "Pirates Ball," a costume party for which the entire chapter house was decorated as a pirate ship. Windows were changed to portholes, and walls became bulkheads. The merry pirates danced to the music of a combo. Phi Kap's also participated in many activities and in intramurals. Individual members belonged to several honoraries.

PAUSING BEFORE their glassed-in trophy case, these Phi Kap's admire the scholarship trophy they received during Greek Week.

THE PHI KAPPA Theta housemother seems to have plenty of extra man-power on her side as she tries her luck at a hand of bridge.

Orchid leis, palm trees, murals provide mood for Pi K A Hawaiian party

Pi K A's and their dates threw conformity out the window at "Coffee and Confusion," the annual Pi Kappa Alpha fall party. Its counterpart of winter quarter, the Pi K A's annual Hawaiian party, was a summer oasis in the dead of winter. For favors, Pi K A's gave their dates orchid leis flown from Hawaii. Palm trees, bamboo decorations and murals depicting Hawaiian scenes turned the chapter house into an island paradise. In the spring, the Pi Kappa Alpha Dream Girl was crowned at a formal dance in her honor. In addition to parties, the Pi Kappa Alpha social calendar included two teas. Early fall quarter, the Pi K A's "took a gander" at incoming freshman women when they held their annual tea for sorority pledges. They also gave a tea to honor their housemother, Mrs.

A SATURDAY AFTERNOON football game usually rates the undivided attention of Pi K A's.

IT LOOKS LIKE this Pi K A is getting all of the necessary attention to line up a perfect shot in an after-dinner game of pool.

Mary McCrary, marking her second year with the chapter. Pi K A's found time to participate in many campus activities, and several members belonged to honoraries. Cy Germann was the third consecutive Pi K A to be co-chairman of Veishea. Two other Pi K A's, Jim Melsa and Dave McGehe, also served on Veishea Central Committee. Turning from individual to group activities, the whole house cooperated to construct the Veishea float, "Islands in Space," which displayed an earth satellite and rockets. Another product of combined effort was the Pi K A Homecoming display. The traditional hearty appetite of college men was evident as they captioned their display "Victory Stew." The display showed a chef stirring a pot with the recipe of victory behind him. Late fall quarter a cast of Pi K A's with scripts in hand took their Varieties skit into competition. The skit, a satire on life at ISU, was written by former Veishea co-chairman Bruce Thatcher.

AT LEAST two Pi Kapp's seem to think that the floor is a perfect spot for watching TV, others prefer the conventional position.

"COOKIES, potato chips... let's see what else we can find," these Pi Kapp's think as they make a late-evening raid on the pantry.

Pi Kappa Phi's crown sweetheart... celebrate 30th anniversary of chapter founding

The Rose of Pi Kappa Phi, Diane Robinson, was crowned at the Pi Kapp's annual "Rose Ball" in the Cloud Room of the Des Moines airport spring quarter. Pi Kapp's and their dates danced to the music of Don Hoy's combo. Dinner was served before the dance. The evening before the "Rose Ball," the pledges gave the traditional steak fry for those going to the dance. They also entertained with a skit. A highlight of the fall quarter social season was a hayride. Exchanges for actives and pledges throughout the year kept the Pi Kappa Phi social calendar well filled. Early winter quarter, December 6, the men of Pi Kappa Phi fraternity celebrated Founders' Day. This marked the 30th anniversary of the founding of the Pi Kapp chapter on the Iowa State University campus and the 54th anniversary of the founding of the original chapter in Charleston, S. C. For their Homecoming display the Pi Kappa Phi's erected an enormous uptilted green champagne bottle with "champagne" flowing from the bottle to an oversized champagne glass. On the bottle was the caption, "ISU Champagne — 100% Spirits." Smaller champagne bottles were scattered over the lawn. For Veishea, the Pi Kapp's took a novel approach to the parade theme, islands. Their float portrayed the coming space age with a large molecule encircled by numerous electron orbits. The slogan read "New Molecules Today, Islands In Space Tomorrow." In intramurals, the Pi Kappa Phi's participated in various sports and took first in the horseshoe events. Scholastically, Pi Kappa Phi fraternity also did well, ranking seventh out of all men's residences spring quarter. Honoraries in the house include Scabbard and Blade, Alpha Zeta and Phi Mu Alpha.

THESE SIG ALPH'S find that the problems of final week can be made much lighter by taking time out to relax with hi-fi music.

ALTHOUGH THEIR studying is laid aside, Sig Alph's are still surrounded by books as they meet in the house library for bridge.

Sig Alph's have "winning year" . . . place in Veishea parade, Sinfonia, Homecoming

More trophies were added to the Sig Alph trophy case throughout the year as the house excelled in numerous events. Their Veishea float "Treasure Island," captured first place in fraternities, and their prize-winning Varieties skit was performed in Vodvil. The Sig Alph's received first place in Sinfonia spring quarter and won third place for fraternities with their Homecoming display, "Salt 'Em Peanuts." Also they were awarded the overall enthusiasm trophy by the Greek housemothers. In intramurals, a second place rating in volleyball and first place in the sports quadathlon helped the house to finish fifth in overall competition. For a service project, the Sig Alph's cleared land north of Des Moines where the new crippled children's home will be located. Sisters and pinmates of actives belong to the Sisters of Minerva, a group which does such things as planning Halloween surprises and serving coffee while Sig Alph's are building floats. A change-of-pace party given by Sigma Alpha Epsilon late spring quarter provided a final fling for members before settling down to final week. After floating down the Des Moines River, Sig Alph's and their dates enjoyed the casual atmosphere created by a sandbar and a combo for a barbecue and dancing. Starting off the fall social season, Sig Alph's and their dates dressed in costumes typical of the roaring twenties for a "Paddy Murphy" party. To carry out the theme, couples marched around the streets following a horse-drawn wagon which carried the casket of "Paddy Murphy" to its last resting place. Banjos were given as favors. Other social events also kept Sig Alph's busy fall quarter. Sig Alph's gave a tea for sorority pledges and were hosts at a barbecue given for their new pledge class. One October weekend many alums were welcomed back to meet the new pledges.

Sigma Chi's begin fall quarter with annual Watermelon Bust for sorority pledges

The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi, Jan Clark, reigned over the "Sweetheart Ball," held April 23 at the Wakonda Country Club in Des Moines. During intermission Russ Olson and Felix Tarn entertained the group with their imitation of the Kingston Trio. Pictures were taken in front of a huge heart, and each date returned home with a stuffed dog, favor of the evening. Winter quarter the Sigma Chi's gave their annual "Undertakers' Ball." Two Sig's picked up all the dates in a hearse. The women entered the house through a coal chute and had to go through a maze before getting to the morgue, where they identified their dates on slabs. Sigma Chi's planned their exchanges around varied themes. One was a kite-flying exchange, at which the team flying its kite the highest won a prize. Another was a Chinese exchange at which Chinese food was eaten with chopsticks. The Sigma Chi's honored one of their alumni, Glen Anderson, the new basketball coach, at a tea November 8. For Homecoming, Nikita Khrushchev's visit offered a theme for the Sig's display. They built a huge bust of Khrushchev and captioned it "Go Big Red Team Go." An annual event for the Sigma Chi's is the Watermelon Bust, which they sponsor for sorority pledges. Contests at the Watermelon Bust, such as a potato sack relay race and a seed-spitting contest for housemothers, provide laughs for both participants and spectators. Sigma Chi's participated actively in intramurals, ranking third in points per man at the end of the year. They won first place in class C basketball and handball and second place in dual swimming and ping-pong. During the summer the Sig's recreation room was redecorated, and plans were being made for the eventual addition a new kitchen and study rooms.

BOB JOHNSON has the pleasant assignment of being hugged by a representative from each pledge class at the Watermelon Bust.

*Sigma Nu's crown White Star Girl at annual spring formal . . .
redecorate house*

The Sigma Nu's returned to school fall quarter to find the interior of their house completely redecorated. Major improvements included new furniture in all the rooms and new kitchen facilities. Spring quarter the Sigma Nu lawn was the site of the annual Sigma Nu Relays. Teams representing all sororities on campus participated in such events as whipped cream races and burlap bounces. Attending the event was Governor Herschel Loveless, President James Hilton and other campus administrators, along with students. In intramurals, the Sigma Nu's captured six trophies during the year. They won the class C football championship and placed second in the bowling competition. The "White Rose Formal," held at the Sheldon-Munn Hotel in Ames, highlighted the spring social season for the Sigma Nu's. Couples enjoyed an evening of dancing, and Sharon Cose was crowned White Star Girl during intermission.

For their annual "Sod-Buster's Ball," Sigma Nu's and dates came dressed as hillbillies. Dates received corncob pipes as favors. The chapter house was the site of their winter quarter party planned around an Arabian Nights theme. One unusual social function of the Sigma Nu's was an exchange with their sister sorority, Alpha Xi Delta, at Drake University. Sigma Nu's had a party for the girls on Saturday; then the girls took over the house for the night, and their hosts returned in time to take them to church the next morning. During Homecoming the Sigma Nu's held an open house for parents and friends in addition to building a display captioned "Go Dirty Thirty." For Veishea the Sigma Nu's entitled their parade entry "Paradise Island." Also during Veishea Bob Jodan was tapped for Cardinal Key.

THE SIGMA NU house is an especially busy site on the afternoon of the Sigma Nu relays.

SOMETIMES GIVEN the task of house cleaning, these Sigma Nu's seem to be going at their pledge duties with unusual enthusiasm.

Sig Ep's win trophies in Veishea, intramurals . . . cited as best of 149 Sig Ep chapters

The Iowa State chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon was rated the top Sig Ep chapter in the nation on the basis of a survey taken of all 149 chapters. The additions to the Sig Ep trophy case throughout the year may partly explain this award. Their Veishea float, "Escape from Pleasure Island," won them the third place trophy in the fraternity division. It showed Pinnochio rowing away from the island, chased by a whale. Two Sig Ep's, Bob Bartley and Mike Steffenson, were tapped for Cardinal Key during Veishea. The Sig Ep's also won the first-place intramural trophy, placing first in class A basketball, dual track, dual swimming, combined swimming meet, class B volleyball, winter volleyball, wrestling and table tennis. Additions to the chapter house during the year included pine-paneling the chapter room and building a concrete terrace with ornamental brick work for dances. On Mother's Day alums combined with the active chapter to give the housemother, Mrs. C. I. McKone, a new car as a mark of appreciation on her 10th year with the house. The chapter house was decorated with guns, saddles and other western paraphernalia for the Sig Ep's annual fall "Saddle and Gun Party." "Queen of Hearts Ball," the winter formal, was held in Des Moines. Small pillows decorated with "Sigma Phi Epsilon, Queen of Hearts Dance" were given as favors. The "Sig Ep Overnight," when dates took over the house, was also held winter quarter. The evening began with a fireside and tree decorating. Sig Ep's serenaded their dates before leaving at 12:30 and returned in the morning to have breakfast with them. Last spring the Sig Ep's were surprised when they went on an April Fools Day exchange to find the girls dressed for dinner in pajamas.

MRS. McKONE, Sigma Phi Epsilon housemother, joins the Sig Ep's at a Sunday afternoon party just before Christmas vacation.

*Sigma Pi's receive IFPC award for pledge scholarship . . .
give "Orchid Ball"*

The Sigma Pi pledges earned the pledge scholarship improvement award for their scholastic record spring quarter. The award, made by Interfraternity Pledge Council, was given to the chapter last fall. In addition to studying spring quarter, Sig Pi pledges participated in the semi-formal house dance, "Orchid Ball." The Sigma Pi Orchid Queen, Marilyn Dralle, was presented during intermission. Dates received orchids and, as favors, miniature pledge paddles.

On the fall social calendar was a hayride.

After the hayride, the couples returned to the house for cider and doughnuts. The Sigma Pi's entitled their Homecoming display "We'll Run The Wildcats Into The Ground."

In the background was a stadium full of people and in the foreground Cy was chasing the Kansas State Wildcat into a ditch. They held an open house during Homecoming, and parents and alums were guests at a buffet dinner. The weekend before Christmas vacation Sigma Pi's and their dates helped trim the Christmas tree at a fireside. Dancing and refreshments rounded out the evening. On another evening during winter quarter the men and their dates attended an informal party at the home of an alum. The Sigma Pi's invited alumni to a dinner at the chapter house at the end of February to celebrate Founders' Day. Also during the Valentine season, the Sig Pi's gave their annual valentine party at the chapter house. The party was an overnight so, as it ended, the men turned the house over to their dates. They returned for breakfast. A quarterly event for the Sigma Pi's is a "Hobo Dinner." The men appear in appropriate dress and the "Hobo of the Day" is named. In campus activities, Scott Hyatt was president of Pi Tau Pi Sigma. Sigma Pi's are also active in intramurals, participating in such events as basketball, ping pong and volleyball.

AS FINAL WEEK draws near, this Teke begins to put some concentrated effort on studying.

Teke's honor grand president . . . place in Sinfonia Sing for third year

The Teke's won the second-place trophy in Sinfonia spring quarter, marking the third consecutive year they have taken either first or second place in this competition. Along with the trophy, the Teke's obtained another "prize." A soft, furry Saint Bernard puppy named Bernadine VonTeke III became the new mascot of the fraternity. Working on floats, displays and open houses were activities for the men of Tau Kappa Epsilon. Their Veishea float theme was "Gulliver's Travels." It showed Gulliver, securely bound, lying on his back with Lilliputians trying to stand him up. Their Homecoming display was entitled "The I.S.U. Roadrunner" and featured a packed stadium with a moving card section. The Teke's had open houses for Veishea, Homecoming and Parents' Weekend. J'ne Flint was crowned Teke Sweetheart at the spring formal at the Des Moines Golf and Country Club. After a dinner at the club, couples danced to the music of Don Hoy. "Snipe Hunt," held fall quarter, began with a treasure hunt and was followed by prizes and refreshments at the house. The Teke's gave two annual parties winter quarter. A visit by Santa Claus and an exchange of gifts climaxed the Christmas dinner-dance at the house. At an informal get-together the night before the dance, couples trimmed the Teke's Christmas tree. Couples arrived in costume for "Barroom Brawl," also given at the house. The Teke's also held a tea winter quarter honoring the Grand Prytanis President of Tau Kappa Epsilon, Don Kaser. In intramurals, the Teke's won the class A bowling championship, class B bowling championship and class C volleyball championship. Teke's participated in other campus activities, and such honoraries as Tau Beta Pi, Gamma Gamma, and Knights of St. Patrick were represented in the house.

MRS. WHALEN, housemother, becomes acquainted with Benny, the Teke mascot.

THE FIRST SIGNS of Theta Chi's Homecoming display, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," begin to appear in the front yard of their house.

THETA CHI'S find that a mid-evening coffee break helps to ward off the unwelcome drowsiness that interferes with studies.

Theta Chi's, dates turn beatnik for fall party . . . Dream Girl crowned at spring formal Theta Chi's combined the spirit of Veishea with the spirit of college as they entitled their Veishea float "Isle of Learning." They turned to Tennessee Williams for their Homecoming display, captioned "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof." The K-State Wildcat danced up and down on a tin roof as an ISU player shoveled coal into a fire under the roof. The Theta Chi's held open house during both Homecoming and Veishea. During Greek Week, the Theta Chi alum adviser, Professor Tolbert MacRae, was tapped for Gamma Gamma. Theta Chi's participated in Sinfonia spring quarter, and also joined with the Theta Delt's to give "Carnation Cotillion" at the Boone Country Club. Couples danced to the music of Denny Matice. Sally Riepma was named Dream Girl of Theta Chi at the formal. Dates received compacts as favors. The Beatnik fad offered the Theta Chi's a theme for their fall party, and Theta Chi's and their dates dressed to fit the part. Brandy snifters with "Theta Chi" etched on them were given to dates as favors. The pledges presented a skit for entertainment. The Theta Chi's also planned a hayride for fall quarter, but a sudden rain caused a change in plans. An impromptu party was held at the house instead. "Hotel Theta Chi" highlighted their social calendar winter quarter. The chapter house, decorated like a hotel, was the site of this annual semi-formal party. A skit given by Theta Chi's and a mock wedding entertained partygoers. Dancing downstairs and gambling games upstairs provided an evening of fun. In intramurals, Theta football, and softball. They won first place in class A bowling winter quarter.

*Theta Delt's redecorate house . . .
help in March of Dimes
for service project*

When the Theta Delt's returned for fall quarter, the first floor of their house had been completely redecorated. Earlier they had landscaped the lawn in front of the house and had made improvements on the individual rooms. During the year the Theta Delt's participated in several service projects. They distributed and collected March of Dimes banks during the charity campaign. Theta Delt's also painted, scrubbed and did general clean-up work at the YMCA camp at Boone. Spring quarter the Theta Delt's treated their parents to a special dinner on Parents Day. Over 200 fraternity men and parents were present. The Theta Delt's depicted the island of England for their Veishea float, "Isle of Blood, Sweat and Tears." The first section showed the House of Parliament, Big Ben and the Thames River with London

THETA DELT's discuss plans for helping with the March of Dimes campaign, one of their service projects for the year.

Bridge over it. A head of Winston Churchill was on the second section.

Also spring quarter the Theta Delt's joined with Theta Chi fraternity for "Carnation Cotillion." The formal dance was held at the Boone Country Club. At intermission Carol Lunsman was presented as the Sweetheart of Theta Delta Chi. Brandy snifters with green nebbishes inside were given as favors. Denny Matice provided music for the dance. Theta Delt's fall social season began with a fireside-overnight called "Swamp Party." Dates were picked up in a 1930 Model A truck and entered the house by crawling through a tunnel made of chicken wire and crepe paper. A thick carpet of autumn leaves on the basement floor and a genuine cider still created the proper atmosphere. Theta Delt's left the girls at the house for the night and returned in time to have breakfast with them. Favors were white beach bags with the Greek letters Theta Delta Chi on them.

SEVERAL THETA Delt's have success in interesting even their housemother in a particular article in Sports Illustrated.

Theta Xi pledges win first place in fraternity division of Greek Olympics

National officers and alumni of Theta Xi gathered in Ames when the Iowa State chapter celebrated its golden anniversary in April. Four of the original ten founders and two of the first pledges of the chapter were among the one hundred persons attending. The three-day celebration was climaxed with a banquet in the Oak Room of the Memorial Union. Honors came to the Theta Xi's when their pledges captured first place in the fraternity division of the Greek Week Olympics. During Veishea Norm Buck was tapped for Cardinal Key. Theta Xi's contributed the proceeds from their third annual "Pancake Supper" to charity. Pancakes by the hundreds came hot off the griddle in this popular project which only women were allowed to attend. The supper took place during Campus Chest week in January. Social events throughout the year broke the routine of classes and studying. "Amour d'Avril" was the Theta Xi spring formal given at the Waveland Country Club in Des Moines. The Sweetheart of Theta Xi, Roberta Olson, was named during intermission. Fleecy clouds and a statue of an angel in a pool lent an Italian atmosphere to the fall formal, "Blue Heaven," held at the chapter house. A more casual event for Theta Xi's and their dates was a fall hayride. Hot chocolate, popcorn and dancing at the house completed the evening. Couples wore styles from the roaring twenties for the 25th annual "Bowery Brawl" during winter quarter. The theme was further carried out with gay decorations. One morning near Valentine's Day found the Theta Xi's enjoying their annual breakfast exchange with the Kappa Delta pledges. Also during winter quarter the new Theta Xi housemother, Mrs. Ruth Dickman, was honored at a tea.

Women's Residence Association

WRA PRESIDENT Karen Kruwell was responsible for coordinating all the different areas of activity of the women of the WRA.

Governing body of the Women's Residence Association is the Executive Board, led this year by President Karen Kruwell. Its purposes are to unite women in the residence halls, to serve the interests of the women and to strive for high standards of conduct and government. The president and vice-president are elected by WRA members, and other positions are filled by application and interview by a WRA Executive Board committee. To keep in touch with activities in individual dorms, the board has chairmen in the areas of scholarship, activities, social events, publicity and public relations. These chairmen meet regularly with their dormitory counterparts to discuss problems and conditions in their areas. The dormitory presidents and two WRA representatives to Cardinal Guild also serve on the board.

SWIRLING SKIRTS and dance music lent a gala atmosphere to "Sea Symphony," the WRA formal sponsored by executive board.

WRA COMMITTEE members find that the Linden library makes a quiet place to meet. The library is often used for studying.

ENTERTAINING partygoers at intermission of "Sea Symphony" are Petri Hausmann and Carol Linkfield, pantomiming the record "Ambrose."

BIRCH WOMEN rehearse their Varieties skit, "Penelope Pistol and the Culture Vultures," a take-off on "Peter Gunn."

Birch Hall

"We'll Knock 'Em Coo-coo" was Birch Hall's Homecoming slogan fall quarter. It was portrayed by a cuckoo clock with Cy coming out and hitting the Kansas State wildcat with a hammer. Along with Homecoming, Birch Hall participated in Veishea with its float, "Oriental Isle." Another Veishea activity for dorm members was their winning Vodvil in-between act, which had been a Varieties prize-winner. Birch Hall also was the proud owner of the "Blast" sweepstakes trophy. In intramurals, Birch Hall women placed second in over-all competition, winning in both basketball and bowling. Social highlights for the year included a combination tea and open house in March. The women in each corridor decorated their bulletin boards, and the parlors were decked with table decorations and elaborate flower arrangements. Parents, dates and friends were invited.

Elm Hall

A covered bridge in the country was the site of an unusual dance exchange for the women of Elm Hall spring quarter. They again took advantage of the spring weather when they had their annual picnic at the Ledges State Park. During the quarter the women were busy rehearsing for Sor-Dor and constructing their Veishea float, "Isle of Your Dreams. October found the women hard at work on their Homecoming display. It depicted a dachshund and was entitled "We Long For That Victory." A fall quarter social event for Elm women was a tea for mothers and fathers during Parents Weekend, giving them a chance to meet the new Elm Hall housemother, Mrs. Eda Boshart. Soon after winter quarter got underway, Elm Hall women had their Christmas fireside. After trimming the tree, the women and their dates went caroling. Also during the Christmas season the women enjoyed informal corridor parties.

THE WOMEN of Elm Hall find the annual White breakfast quite a festive treat during the Christmas holiday season.

Freeman Hall

OPENING EACH of the four performances of Varieties were the Freeman Hall "Varieties Girls," doing a dance routine to mood music.

"Captain Kidd's Island" earned the first-place Veishea parade trophy in the WRA division for Freeman Hall. Other activities in which dorm members participated during the year include women's intramurals and Sor-Dor. Traditional events also kept Freeman women busy. In the spring the women and their dates enjoyed a picnic at Brookside Park. Plenty of food and an afternoon of sports provided a pleasant change from the routine of school. Fall quarter the women honored their housemother, Mrs. Ruth Cowles, at an annual tea. During Homecoming they held an open house in addition to building their lawn display. The display showed Little Black Sambo holding a pail and was captioned "Melt Them Cats." Another traditional event for Freeman women is their Christmas party. This year, the women and their dates enjoyed such activities as decorating the tree, popping corn, dancing and Christmas caroling.

East Linden Hall

East Linden Hall women sang their way to the top spot in Sor-Dor competition spring quarter. They received the sweepstakes trophy for their version of "Happy Talk," "Bells of Iowa State" and "Goodnight My Someone." The dorm also captured the first-place trophy for women's intramurals and won the WRA scholarship trophy for having the highest three-quarter grade average. These trophies were placed along with the Varieties sweepstakes trophy, which the women won for "Lost in New York," a story acted out and portrayed through music. Individuals who brought honors to the dorm include Karen Kruwell, WRA president, Pat DonMoyer and Sue Dobson, both tapped for Mortar board, and Kay Anderson, president of Iowa State Players. The social season for East Linden women included a spring formal and a Christmas fireside, in addition to exchanges. The spring dance, "Tara," was given jointly with West Linden Hall.

West Linden

Southern Colonial decorations took partygoers back to the days of the Old South for West Linden's spring formal, "Tara." A fish pond and decorated columns transformed the Linden Hall recreation room into a realistic southern setting. The dance was given jointly with East Linden Hall. Musical selections by the East Linden sextet and native African dances performed by Clara Inkumah provided the evening's entertainment. West Linden women also enjoyed dance, dinner, picnic and ping-pong exchanges. For Veishea they constructed a float with the intriguing theme, "Only Man on an Island." Honor came to the dorm when Jan Grau was selected as the top home economics student of the year. As school got underway fall quarter, West Linden women were hostesses for the Beacons tea and the tea for transfer women. Homecoming found them cheering the team on to victory with their display, "Defeat Descends upon de Puss."

OAK HALL women gather around the piano as Emma Lou Hollingsworth and Arlene Timmons entertain them with a duet.

Oak Hall

Oak Hall women captured second place in the WRA division of the Veishea parade with their float, "Introducing Candy's Island." Also spring quarter the women gave "Majesty and Roses," a dinner-dance held at the Hotel Holst in Boone. Decorations included yellow roses and a gold crown on a black backdrop. Highlight of the evening was the crowning of Mr. Majesty. Oak Hall's fall calendar included a tea and informal parties. The tea was given to honor Mrs. Madge Stark, the new housemother. Mrs. Stark was also the guest of honor at a surprise birthday party given by the women and Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity. Oak Hall women and dates enjoyed a hayride, followed by refreshments and dancing in the Oak Hall recreation room. Another fall project for the women was their Homecoming display. It depicted a Yogi Bear comic strip with the caption "Yogi Says, 'Yes In Didi Do, A Victory for ISU.'"

Roberts Hall

GETTING INTO the festive Christmas spirit, a Roberts Hall resident and her date wrap a Christmas gift for safekeeping under the tree.

Social events have kept the women of Roberts Hall busy during the year. In the fall they had a beatnik party to get acquainted with the freshmen women. The identity of BMOC, housemother Mrs. Harry Ryan, was revealed at the end. They had a coffee hour at Homecoming and an open house for Parents Weekend. Throughout the year the women enjoyed a wide variety of exchanges, such as golf, watermelon busts, dancing, football and basketball games and working on the Veishea float. Other social occasions included a fireside in the recreation room, with dancing, cards and refreshments. The women also held a spring tea. This social whirl for Roberts Hall women is reflected in their winning the Dames Daze trophy, based on dates per woman. But despite a busy social schedule, Roberts Hall women won the scholarship trophy for freshmen dorms.

1st row: Huso, Trachta, Breder, Greene, Comfort, Andrews, Maxwell, Dustin, Kearns, Ellis. 2nd row: Yuska, Fletcher, Naffziger, Woods, C. SEVERAL GIRLS who live in Welch Hall are served hot tea and fancy cookies at a Christmas season party in the dorm.

Welch Hall

The women of Welch Hall and their dates enjoyed dancing, decorating the Christmas tree, singing Christmas songs in Dorm Court and playing games at their annual Christmas party. Other social events included an Alum Tea, held in the fall for former residents of Welch Hall now living in other dorms or sororities. Mothers' Weekend was also held fall quarter. Mothers stayed in the dorm with their daughters and enjoyed an after-hours party and serenade. The Welch Hall housemother, Mrs. Byrde McCanon (Mother Mac), had a tea every Thursday afternoon during fall quarter so she could become better acquainted with the women. Spring quarter they held their annual Valentine Tea and open house. Rooms were decorated with a Valentine theme. Welch Hall women mixed fun with study as they enjoyed many exchanges throughout the year, and in the spring were named second in scholarship in freshman dorms.

MRA OFFICERS Ron Bern, Merlin Spencer and Dick Aldrich get together to plan the business for the next Executive Council meeting.

Men's Residence Association

The Men's Residence Association serves as the unifying force for the 2,200 men living in university housing. Its government can be divided into MRA Executive Council, the administrative branch, and Main Cabinet, the legislative branch. Executive Council has ten members, elected winter quarter by the men in the MRA. Each man works in a specific area, and the council meets weekly to coordinate the individual activities. The president of the MRA presides over Executive Council. The internal vice-president is chairman of MRA Main Cabinet, and the external vice-president serves as representative to Cardinal Guild Senate and handles other administrative functions such as the MRA Veishea program. Three members, the social, intramural and activities chairmen, work with councils of the chairmen from the individual houses. Also on Executive Council are the secretary, treasurer, public relations chairman and a second Guild representative.

MRA Cabinet

The legislative work of the MRA is handled by Main Cabinet. The 40 houses of the MRA, located in Friley-Hughes, Helser and Westgate Halls, are represented in Main Cabinet by their vice-presidents. Presiding over the cabinet is the MRA internal vice-president. In its weekly meetings the men set policies and consider such matters as traffic problems and suggestions to give the Department of Residence. Main Cabinet also determines the MRA budget and appropriates money. The MRA spends nearly $17,000 annually. In addition to having its own government, the MRA has an honorary, the Order of Chessmen. Its function is to recognize outstanding men in the MRA. Membership of this service group includes not more than one per cent of the men living in residence halls. The MRA also sponsors three dances a year besides co-sponsoring the "Sweethearts Ball" with the WRA and the Ward System.

IN THE WEEKLY meetings of the MRA Cabinet, suggestions are often made which are later related to the Department of Residence.

POINTING TO their pictures on the bulletin board, head residents kid about how they've changed since high school graduation.

Head Residents

MRA head residents perform a wide array of duties. The head residents, one for each of the 40 houses, are chosen on the basis of reference letters, formal interviews and psychological tests. Their duties include serving as counselors, as information sources and as disciplinarians. They are the administrative links between the Department of Residence and the houses. The program in its present form began about seven years ago.

IN THE FRILEY office, several head residents search the files for a misplaced paper.

Radio Station KMRI broadcasts from studios in Friley Hall. The station, which can be received in all the halls, offers music and a daily news broadcast. It also covers such special events as the MRA and all-college nominating conventions. The hours of broadcasting vary from quarter to quarter. It gears its music selections to the time of presentation. During the best study hours of the evening, quite, mood music, called "study hall" by staff members, is played. Records to be played are chosen from the KMRI record library, composed of about 700 albums and 3,500 45 r.p.m. records. The station is managed by an eight-member board of control, which includes the chief engineer, managers and program and music directors.

TWO KMRI WORKERS take care of the technical problems while announcer Al Buch looks over his script for the broadcast.

STAFF MEMBERS at KMRI sit back and take it easy for a few minutes while a record takes over and does the work for them.

THE NEW MRA president, Leroy Greenley, takes a hand at conducting one of the discussion forums of house presidents.

President's Forum

A new facet of the MRA governing program is the presidents' forum. It began regular meetings fall quarter. At these weekly meetings, the 40 house presidents discuss house problems and programs. The forum often includes a talk by a member of Executive Council or someone familiar with a particular project.

DISCUSSING THE IDEAS brought up at one of their meetings are these presidents of several different houses in the MRA.

MERLIN SPENCER, 1959 MRA president, directs discussion at a house president's meeting .

Reflector

Men in the residence halls learn what is happening throughout the MRA by reading the Reflector, a weekly newspaper published by the MRA. It is designed to keep them informed and entertained and to present editorial opinion. Complete responsibility for the publication rests upon the editor, selected by application and interview. Approximately 1,300 copies of the paper are printed. One is distributed to each room, and other residences and administrative officials also receive copies. It is printed by the MRA Printing Service on a multigraph. A recent typographic change is the appearance of the flag of the newspaper. On a dark background at the top of the page is the heading "MRA Reflector." The Reflector's budget of about $1,800 is met by dues.

THE REFLECTOR goes into the last stage of production before it's ready for distribution.

MRA Library

Receiving the personal library of Dr. Charles Friley during the summer raised the size of the MRA Library to about 2,500 volumes. Dr. Friley's collection contained about 1,550 volumes, some dating back to the 1790's. The books in the library are valued at between $7,000 and $10,000, and they range from light fiction to technical volumes. Most often checked out are the more serious-minded novels. The library was started about 1950 with books donated by faculty and students. It was moved into its present quarters in Stange House in 1957. A recent change in the library has been its cataloguing system. During the past year the Dewey decimal system has been installed. In addition to 2,500 books, the library also subscribes to 23 magazines.

MEMBERS OF the MRA Library Board are responsible for keeping the library in good working order for all the men of the MRA.

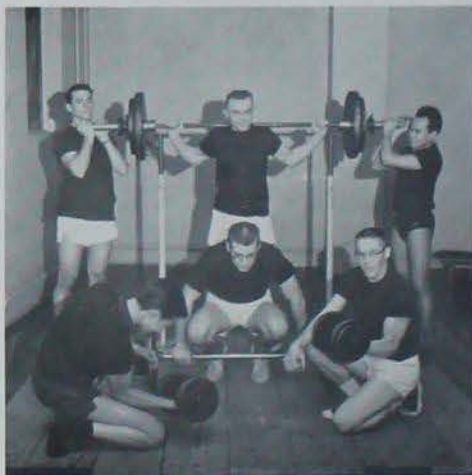

OFFICERS OF the MRA Weightlifting Club are Fred Hitzhusen, president, Max Norton, Terry Nelson and Rex Lin.

Weightlifters

The men in MRA Weightlifters Club took five first places and several second places in meet competition at Sioux City during the year. About 250 men belong to the club, which has as its purposes body building and weight lifting. Weight lifting consists of putting as much weight as possible above the head, whereas body building involves a repetition with light weights. The club has a room in the basement of Friley Hall with over $1,000 worth of equipment, including a new set of Olympic weights. Purchase of more equipment is planned.

MRA WEIGHTLIFTERS display some of the action that they show in competitive meets.

Camera Club

MRA Camera Club teaches members more about photography and provides the facilities for them to practice their hobby. Members learn more about both the technical and creative aspects of photography through movies and speakers at club meetings. A fully equipped darkroom is located in the basement of Friley Hall for members' use. Members may also check out lights and backdrops. At least once a year the club sponsors a "model shot" in the Friley Hall television room. Members thus have an opportunity to work with live models.

Toastmasters Club

Improvement of their ability in the art of public speaking is the aim of the members of Toastmasters Club. An important feature of their programs is the speeches presented by members at the club's weekly meetings. Toastmasters Club is joined with the MRA government through the activities chairman.

Resident Advisers

Four resident advisers work with the 2,200 men in the residence halls. The resident advisers are responsible for the supervision and operation of the unit desks in each of the halls. They also serve as advisers to various MRA organizations such as the Social Council, Scholarship Council, and the Library Board, give advice on social etiquette and do personal counseling.

THE MEN of Bennett House, dressed appropriately, seem to be on a cleaning spree.

Bennett House

A watermelon-bust with Roberts Hall was a Freshman Days activity for the new fellows at Bennett House. The freshmen had an opportunity to get acquainted with the upperclassmen at a combination softball game and watermelon-bust on September 12. The men also had an exchange with Welch Hall for the football game with Missouri. On Halloween, Bennett House men had a hayride. Following the hayride the men and their dates enjoyed a dance in the Friley television room, which was decorated like a harvest scene. The Bennett House party was given in April at the Nevada Country Club. It was entitled "Harold's Club," and decorations carried out the gambling-casino theme. Music was provided by Don Campbell's Band. Two weeks later the men had their annual spring picnic, held at Sopher's Mill. Besides social events, Bennett House men participated in intramurals. Their team got as far as the first game of the semifinals in class C softball competition.

Beyer House

The beatnik fad was reflected in the Beyer House Homecoming display, captioned "Cy Says You're Beat." The display pictured a beatnik Kansas University cat. The men also worked together building their Veishea float, "Island in the Heavens," which turned out to be the largest float entered in the parade. Beyer House men enjoyed two picnic exchanges spring quarter. During Dames Daze they had an exchange with East Linden Hall. Fall quarter the men donned unusual costumes for a Halloween party with student nurses at Lutheran Hospital in Des Moines. A stag event on the Beyer House social calendar was a pheasant hunt. After bagging 12 birds, the men prepared and ate a pheasant dinner at the 4-H Lodge near Boone. Also fall quarter the men heard Dr. Robert Jones, assistant director of student affairs, speak at their house dinner. In intramurals, Beyer House placed first in track spring quarter.

A FRIENDLY DINNERTABLE CHAT with the housmother is a pleasant relief from the pressures of studying for the men of Beyer House.

Caine House

Caine House men won the MRA traveling scholarship trophy for having the highest scholarship in the MRA spring quarter. They also had the highest scholarship the preceding winter quarter. Another first for Caine House was its acquisition of a shuffle pool and a juke box, making it the first house in the MRA to have such equipment. It was used in the Caine House booth in the "Blast" winter quarter. Also keeping the men of Caine House busy were various social events. Pine Lake was the site of their spring picnic. After a steak fry and boating, dancing in the lodge completed the occasion. During fall quarter, Caine House men and their dates enjoyed a hayride. Before the hayride they had a campfire dinner at the Circle S Ranch. Exchanges and a house dinner during Religion-in-Life Week filled out the social calendar. In spring quarter intramurals, the Caine House team was runner-up in volleyball.

BANJOS, an accordion and a harmonica are put to frequent spare time use by these musical members of Caine House.

Cessna House

"The Cat's in the Bag" was the caption of the Cessna House Homecoming display. It showed Cy as a large Iowa State football player and the Kansas State wildcat with his head in a bag.

Earlier during Freshman Days, Cessna House members helped their freshmen to become oriented to Iowa State. One such event was a hot dog roast at Brookside Park. After eating, the men played basketball, volleyball and football. On another day the men participated in an intra-house softball game. Freshmen were introduced to Iowa State pizza at a gathering in the house lounge. In addition to these freshman events, the entire house enjoyed various social functions. Early in spring quarter Cessna House men sponsored "Hernando's Hideaway," a semi-formal dance. Candles in tallow-covered bottles and an unusual entrance turned the Roberts Hall recreation room into a cave. Cessna men and their dates danced to the music of Rich Remer's band.

FOR MEMBERS of Cessna House, as with most other students, the game of bridge never loses its fascinating challenge.

Chamberlain House

"Reno Night in Iowa" was the theme for "Reno Rango," a dance sponsored spring quarter by the men of Chamberlain House. Cards, dice and checkered tablecloths gave the atmosphere of a night club in Reno. Entertainment for the dance, which was held at the Ames American Legion Hall, was provided by The Esquires. Partygoers danced to the music of a combo.

Additional social events during the year included miniature golf, dinner and picnic exchanges. The men of Chamberlain House were quite active in intramural competition. They entered teams in bowling, softball, volleyball, football, basketball and track. Individuals represented the house in other sports.

Chamberlain House members were also active during Veishea. Several of the men participated in the Veishea canoe races, and other house members erected a sign welcoming guests to Veishea.

PUTTING THEIR KNOWLEDGE to practical use, these Chamberlain men are attempting to construct their own hi-fi set.

WHEN THE PROBLEM is too hard to solve alone, this Converse House member finds two willing tutors close at hand.

Converse House

An annual steak fry is one of the many activities of Converse House members. This year the steak fry was held at the Ledges State Park. Later in the year, Converse House members and their dates turned "beatnik" for an evening at the winter quarter party held in the Helser conference room. Jack Hoffman, drummer, and Ed Meehan, guitar player, provided entertainment during intermission. The importance of high scholarship was emphasized to Converse House members this year. The house ranked ninth in scholarship in the MRA and fifth according to the MRA activities point system. The men of Converse House were active in intramurals this year, especially softball, where their team advanced to the quarterfinals in the class A bracket. The house ranked 12th in total points in the MRA intramurals ratings.

Dodds House

THESE MEMBERS of Dodds House seem to find fun even in their house meetings which are held every Monday night.

Veishea's rainy weather was in marked contrast to the Dodds House float, entitled "Isle of the Desert." It depicted a scene from Arabia, complete with a striped tent, two gray camels and palm trees. On it rode a Dodds House resident, garbed like a sheik and surrounded by a bathing-beauty harem. Later in the spring, members of Dodds House gathered at the Ledges for a steak fry. At the annual stag event the men enjoyed softball and football. After picnic weather had past, the men held an impromptu sledding party at the Ames Country Club. Dodds House men also participated in competitive sports. House spirit was heightened when the Dodds House team walked away with first place in the class A bowling tournament in the fall. By the close of the quarter the house ranked third in activity points. An unusual winter quarter project for the men was a house auction. Unclaimed items from the storage closet were sold to raise money for the house party.

 steb, Prince, Fiedler, Hewitt, C. Anderson, Carstensen (treas.), Linder, G. Anderson. 3rd row: Ubben, Morgan, Ahlbrecht, Johnson, Gard, Balwio, Watson, Clement (v.p.), Fredericks, Hanselmann. 4th row:
 Guenther, Cline, Paparek, Goering, Harsha, Sindi, Schwartz, Molden, Taube. 5th row: Angove, Green, Eckley, Wear (pres.), Popa (head-resident), Taylor, Allen, McCoy, McDonough, McGrew.

Fairchild House

Fairchild House men won the MRA intramural trophy for the most points per man by finishing strong in all events during spring quarter.

They placed second in table tennis and third in softball and tennis. They continued their success in the fall by capturing the class B bowling championship, placing first in table tennis doubles and rating second in class E bowling.

Turning from intramurals to social events, Fairchild House men enjoyed a variety of exchanges besides their annual winter party.

Exchanges included such activities as football games, dancing, bowling, a hayride and miniature golf. At their fall house dinner, the men heard Dr. Gail McClure from the college hospital discuss college students and their general health.

During spring quarter the men built a Veishea float called "Isle of Capri." An Italian-style balcony with tables and chairs, a fountain spurting water and a live tree set the scene.

INSTRUCTION BOOK in hand, these men of Fairchild House find relaxation in a few minutes of musical improvising.

Franklin House

WITH FINAL WEEK approaching, these men of Franklin House make a combined effort at some last-minute studying.

During spring quarter, Franklin House men enjoyed a steak fry at the Ledges State Park. The event proved to be so enjoyable that a repeat performance was called for after school started fall quarter. At the beginning of fall quarter new members were welcomed to the house with a picnic held in Friley Court. The event was sponsored jointly with Caine House members. Franklin House men enjoyed several exchanges during the year, including dancing, bowling, playing pool and table tennis and two picnics held at the Ledges. The men were also active in intramurals; they entered many events and won both the singles and doubles tournaments in table tennis. In addition to emphasis upon intramurals and social activities, Franklin House men stressed scholarship. Six of its members qualified for Phi Eta Sigma, freshman men's scholarship honorary.

Godfrey House

Heading Godfrey House's social calendar was a semi-formal dance with the theme "Showboat."

The dance was held during winter quarter.

The men also enjoyed a variety of exchanges including dinner, miniature golf and dancing.

In the spring, the house held its annual picnic for graduating seniors. A watermelon bust was held fall quarter to welcome new members of Godfrey House. Phil Delaven, Iowa State track coach and former resident of Godfrey House, spoke at the house dinner fall quarter. It was held in a party room of Friley dining hall.

In intramurals, Godfrey House ranked second in total points in the MRA program. The house captured the class B volleyball championship, won fourth place in the outdoor track meet and third place in softball. Godfrey members also include the MRA representative to Cardinal Guild, the MRA president and the national Tomahawk president.

THE MEN of Godfrey House find that a dinner party is the perfect time to catch up on news and activities of fellow members.

HENRY BONNES, whose spare-time hobby is caring for this assortment of plants, explains the project to Larry Sweeney.

Harriman House

Incoming freshmen were welcomed to Harriman House with a hot dog roast at Brookside Park during Freshman Days. Besides enjoying the usual picnic fare, the men played softball and football. Always a favorite item on the Harriman House social calendar is exchanges. This year the men had a dinner exchange with Linden Hall and a dance exchange with Drake town girls. The arrival of snowy weather at the beginning of spring quarter set the scene for a toboggan exchange with Oak Hall at the Ames Country Club. In intramurals, Harriman men enthusiastically supported teams in many events. Their softball team qualified for class A competition, and the house was also represented in basketball, table tennis, pool, bowling and volleyball. In addition to participating in these activities, Harriman House men concentrated on studies. Fall quarter scholastic rankings showed Harriman to be the sixth highest house in the MRA.

Kimball House

Hollywood-and-Vine street signs and gold and silver stars set the scene for the Kimball House spring party, entitled "Hollywood Premiere." Mrs.

Mary Baker, residence director, was chosen

Kimball House Sweetheart and received a trophy from the men. During intermission partygoers were entertained by Phil Swender, who played several piano selections. To raise money for the party, which was held at the Ames Country Club, the men held a car wash in downtown Ames. On their fall social calendar was an informal dance in the Helser conference room. During winter quarter, they enjoyed a semi-formal dance called "Casino." The Friley television room was decorated like gambling tables and a bar. Kimball House men were also active in intramurals, capturing the class B bowling championship spring quarter.

THE FACIAL EXPRESSIONS of these Kimball House men make us suspicious of what's on the other side of that telescope.

Knapp House

"ISU Won't Be Knapping" was the theme for the Knapp House Homecoming display fall quarter.

Men in the house also worked together spring quarter to construct their entry in the Veishea parade. Entitled "Kon-Tiki," the float was one of the few not harmed by the continuous rain. Instead, the weather helped by providing an appropriate setting. Knapp House men participated in exchanges and firesides during the year. An exchange with East Linden Hall women featured miniature golf for entertainment. The men also enjoyed a fireside with the Des Moinettes. Another evening was spent bowling and playing pool with women from Roberts Hall. In addition to these activities, the men of Knapp House were also enthusiastic participants in the intramural program. They had teams in volleyball, softball, football, bowling and other sports. Honoraries represented in the house included Pi Tau Sigma and Order of the Chessmen.

TOM KUNEY AND KEITH THOMAS, Lange House residents, leave their books to try out their musical abilities as a duet.

Lange House

Lange House men were active in intramurals this year, winning first place in MRA bowling, second place in baseball in their class and the championship in class C football. A new trophy case in the den houses these awards. The case was presented to the house by the 1959 seniors. Also added to the house den recently are a plaque and a picture of Paulus Lange, for whom the house was named. Mrs. Lange, his widow, was honored at a house dinner fall quarter. She presented a program on etiquette. Another activity for Lange men was the construction of the house entry in the Veishea parade. The float was entitled "Japan — Exotic Island." During Freshman Days the men enjoyed a "watermelon bust" exchange with Roberts and Welch Halls at the Ledges. Softball and volleyball games provided for a busy afternoon. Just before Christmas, Lang House men and their dates attended an informal party in the Hughes recreation room.

1st row: Klesey, Hupton, Borer, E. Wheeler, Mulbarger, Gift (sec-treas.), Jones (pres.), Murphy, Sykes.

Lincoln House

"Showboat" was the theme of the Lincoln House winter party, given at the Moose Lodge in Ames.

Partygoers enjoyed dancing to the music of the Lincoln House combo. The semi-formal dance was given jointly with Godfrey House.

Also among the Lincoln House events were picnic, dance and pool exchanges with women's dorms. Lincoln House was also active in intramurals. It competed in football, volleyball, basketball and bowling, capturing first place in its class in volleyball. Veishea found the men occupied with plans for their open house, for which they received the first-place display award. Another accomplishment of the year was the completion of a much-needed trophy case to display awards. An individual honor came to the house when LeRoy

Smith received the Max Cornish Award for the outstanding house president in the MRA.

PROUD OF THE HONORS their members have won, the men of Lincoln House are always willing to display their trophies.

Lindstrom House

THOSE ROTC shoes must shine, and these Lindstrom House men seem to be well versed on how to meet the requirement.

Lindstrom House is the smallest house in Friley Hall and the second smallest house in the MRA. Since the house was composed mainly of freshmen and transfer students, an orientation was held by the house for its new members in the fall. Soon after the beginning of school, the men participated in Homecoming activities. They constructed a house display entitled "Pogo Going To Veishea." An open house was held for parents, friends and past residents of Lindstrom House. Just before Homecoming the men enjoyed a work exchange with Freeman Hall at which they helped the women with their Homecoming display. Another exchange was held with student nurses at Broadlawns Hospital in Des Moines. Approximately 40 men attended the exchange, which was held in the Broadlawns recreation room. The men of Lindstrom House participated in most intramural events and captured two league bowling championships.

SEVERAL men of Meeker House find that an old-fashioned jam session can be the perfect study break entertainment.

Meeker House

In honor of a past president of Meeker House, Max Cornish, the MRA set up a $100 award to be presented annually to the outstanding house president. Cornish was president of Meeker House when he died in the summer of 1958. Winning the intramural trophy for the most points of any MRA house was an honor earned by the men last spring. The bowling team, which finished second in A league, and the softball team, which won second place in A league, acquired most of the points. This trophy was placed along with their others in a new trophy case, given in honor of Max Cornish, which was recently installed in the house den. An informal dance given spring quarter was a social highlight for Meeker House men. Pine Lake in Eldora was the site of the dance, which was held in May. Couples spent the afternoon golfing, boating and swimming. A steak fry was then held in the lodge, and dancing completed the perfect day.

Niles House

Life-sized cardboard figures of dealers and change girls decorated the Indian Creek Country Club for the Niles House spring party. The theme of the dance, held in Nevada, was "Harold's Club," based on a club of that name in Reno, Nevada. Dice, crap tables and comical signs added to the night club atmosphere. Bill Campbell and his orchestra provided music for the dance, which was given with Bennett House. In intramural competition, Niles House placed fifth during spring quarter. The men took both the volleyball and golf championships and placed high in class A bowling. Niles House was the scene of much activity at Homecoming as the men were hard at work on their display. It showed a billiard table with balls in the rack and Cy's head on the cue ball. The display was captioned "Let's Rack 'Em Up." Also fall quarter, Niles men had a watermelon bust for the freshmen in the house.

AT LEAST one member of Niles House seems to have reason to get revenge on the piano, but his dormmates evidently aren't worried.

RUDOLPH keeps a watchful eye on these two Noble House men... a pleasant reminder that Christmas vacation will soon arrive.

Noble House

"Teahouse of the August Moon" was the theme of last year's Veishea float that won for Noble House the first-place trophy in the men's residence division. A gold buddha sat in front of the teahouse, facing a lake with a bridge. A flower garden surrounded the lake. Another highlight of last spring was a party held in the Westgate recreation room. The party depicted a vacation in Reno and was entitled "Harold's Club." The recreation room was transformed into a gambling casino for the evening and featured slot machines, card games and dancing. Dates received decks of cards and dice as favors. For more informal fun, early last spring the men of Noble House enjoyed an afternoon of tobogganing on an exchange with Elm Hall. Social events fall quarter included a dinner exchange with Freeman Hall and a dance and party exchange with Elm Hall.

Pearson House

The men of Pearson House are the proud possessors of several new trophies. Their beatnik display, entitled "Man, Like Cool These Cats," won them second place in the MRA division at Homecoming. They captured the third-place trophy in the MRA division of last year's Veishea parade. Figures representing the different colleges of the university were featured on their float, "Island of Knowledge." The sweepstakes trophy was awarded to Pearson House for its booth at last year's Campus Chest "Blast." Pearson House received the MRA spring activity-points trophy and the MRA yearly activity-points trophy. These two trophies are awarded on the basis of the number of men in a house who participate in campus activities. Tom Phelps, a member of Pearson House, was president of the student body during 1958-59. Other Pearson House men included the MRA public relations chairman, MRA treasurer and members of Chessmen.

MEMBERS of Pearson House are especially proud of the trophy they won for their Homecoming display, "Man, Like Cool These Cats."

Spinney House

Activities were second only to scholarship in Spinney House. Spinney House men included members of Order of Chessmen and Phi Eta Sigma, chief engineer of KMRI, editor of the Reflector, chairman of Library Board, chief justice of the Honor Council, chairman of the MRA Alumni Committee and assistant to the president of the MRA. The men also participated in the MRA intramural program. Spinney

House had teams active in basketball, swimming, volleyball, football and table tennis.

Last year they captured the bowling championship. The men had entries in both Homecoming and Veishea. Following the island theme at last year's Veishea parade, they constructed a float entitled "Eniwetok — Island That Disappeared." A mushroom-shaped cloud, surrounded by silver electron orbits, rose from the island. Their animated Homecoming display had the caption "Keep The Wildcats Down." An open house was held for parents and friends of the men during both events.

"CY" BEGINS to take shape as Spinney House members work on their Homecoming display entitled "Keep the Wildcats Down."

5th row: Richardson, Spoo, McCandless, Danielson, Wehrspann, Moen, Abel, Sing, Banks.

THIS STANGE House member doesn't even have to venture outside for entertainment, living with such musical dormmates.

Stange House

Picnics were a favorite recreational activity for the men of Stange House last year. They enjoyed hot dogs, potato chips and root beer at their annual stag picnic spring quarter at the Ledges. Softball and football filled the afternoon. During Freshman Days, Stange men joined with Welch Hall women for a picnic exchange at Brookside Park. Watermelon and hot dogs were served. In intramurals the men won the MRA class B softball championship. The house ranked 11th in the MRA for total points. Stange House men paddled their way to the best time in the men's division of the Veishea canoe race. October found the men busily constructing their Homecoming display. It featured Cy sitting on a football, and a sign read "Quiet — Cy's Hatching Up A Victory." You could usually depend on finding Stange House men in their house den Sunday nights where they watched their favorite television westerns. The set is a recent acquisition, purchased instead of giving the usual yearly party.

Stanton House

STANTON HOUSE men proudly display the trophy won by one of their members, Willis Hoffmeier, in the MRA free-throw contest.

The "Hula Cruisers" from Stanton House showed their talents by entering the Veishea canoe races. Stanton men wholeheartedly entered into intramural competition with football, volleyball, bowling, track, table tennis, basketball and wrestling teams. Willis Hoffmeier brought honors to the house by winning first place in the MRA free-throw contest. Social events in the house were popular. A get-acquainted picnic sponsored by the upperclassmen for the freshmen was held at Brookside Park during Freshman Days. Watermelons for refreshment and baseball for entertainment kept the men busy. The main social event of the year for the men and their dates was the Christmas Party held in the Helser conference room. Another social function of Stanton House was a picnic exchange with Welch Hall. Even with their many activities and social events Stanton men maintained a high scholastic standing, ranking in the upper one-fourth of the MRA.

Stevenson House

A large orchid made of hundreds of live flowers and two charming Hawaiian children carried out the theme of "Aloha" on the Veishea float built by Stevenson House. "Pride of the Isles" was the title of the float, which required hours of hard work and concentration by Stevenson House men. "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" was the theme for their Homecoming display showing Iowa State's Cy giving the Wildcat a "warm" time on a metal roof. Last spring they held a special house dinner honoring their graduating seniors with Mrs. William Stevenson as honored guest. They also sponsored an all-college Harvest Ball queen presentation tea. This was the first tea sponsored by any campus residence group which was held for the entire student body. Stevenson House members included the student body vice-president, senior class president and Guild members.

STEVENSON HOUSE members join forces with a Des Moines YWCA group to entertain retarded children at a Christmas party.

BUILDING the frame for their Homecoming display are members of Carpenter House, Tor Anderson, Bob Liljegren and Ben Hastie.

Carpenter House

Freshman Days were busy days this year for the members of Carpenter House, with 27 freshmen and several transfer students in the house. Exchanges during the year provided a welcome break from studying. The men enjoyed an exchange with Birch Hall, a "Mark Twain" exchange with the ward women and a Freshman Days exchange. A project for the year was building a glass corner cabinet to hold a set of encyclopedias. The set was given to the house in memory of its namesake, Halstead M. Carpenter, by his wife. A house dance which has become an annual affair at Carpenter House is the winter "Carlouwood Capers". Its name comes from the names of the three houses which give the party — Carpenter, Louden and Woodrow. This was the third year the semi-formal dance was given.

Foster House

The men of Foster House placed a high value on scholarship, ranking third scholastically in the MRA last spring. However, they varied their schedule of studying by participating in social events, intramurals and campus activities. The men enjoyed an exchange each weekend during last spring quarter and many this year. Fifteen couples and Mrs. Cecil Martin, residence director, attended My Fair Lady in Des Moines in October. Other activities on exchanges included dancing, miniature golf, dinners and picnics. Open houses were held during Homecoming, Veishea, Parents' Weekend and after each home football game. Foster House men added a first-place bowling trophy to the newly-built trophy case last year. The men participated in many intramural events throughout the year. Members of Foster House were also active in many campus honoraries.

FOSTER HOUSE members display a small replica of a huge banner they made to welcome guests during Homecoming and Veishea.

Fulmer House

October 30 provided the perfect occasion for the Fulmer House fall party, "Halloween Hayride."

Following the hayride, the men and their dates returned to the Friley Hall television room for doughnuts, cider and dancing. Jack-o'-lanterns and cornstalks decorated the room. Winter quarter the men enjoyed impromptu Christmas-carol sings with Elm and Oak Halls, when the women came caroling to the men's dorm.

The men invited the women in for refreshments and singing in the Helser conference room. On the more serious side, the men placed seventh in scholarship in the MRA spring quarter. They also participated in intramural events throughout the year. A traveling trophy was presented to the athlete of the week in the house. Fulmer House became the first MRA house to have a house pin last spring. A stag head, part of the house crest, is set on a diamond-shaped background.

ONE FULMER House member has plenty of company and entertainment to lessen the drudge of getting the weekly ironing done.

Halstead House

Halstead House men turned journalists when they constructed their Homecoming display featuring an oversized newspaper, the "Halstead Herald." The headline read "Latest Disarmament Plans: Cy Disarms the Wildcat." The accompanying pictures showed Cy holding the leg of a badly beaten wildcat. The men of Halstead House had a number of exchanges during the year with residence halls and sororities. The usual schedule of dance exchanges was varied with a fall "watermelon bust." Last spring Halstead men entertained dates and partyhoppers at a spring house party, "South Sea Island." Carnations were presented to their dates. Fish nets and green foliage set an exotic atmosphere for the dance. Fresh pineapples, served for refreshments, also added to the theme.

Jones House men heard Dr. Robert Jones, assistant director of student affairs, speak on the college student's role, at a dinner fall quarter. The dinner, given in the Friley Hall party room, was sponsored by house members. Another fall quarter social event for the men was an informal reception in the Jones House den following the Homecoming game. Alumni, dates, parents and friends were invited. Last spring the men had a stag picnic, an annual event for Jones House men. Throughout the year the men enjoyed such exchanges as dancing, attending a football game, playing pool and playing cards. During Freshman Days, Jones House men helped their freshmen members to become acquainted with social life at Iowa State by arranging an exchange for them. In intramurals, the men won the class D softball championship. Jones House is the smallest house in the MRA, having only 31 members when full.

KEN JOHNSON and Ed Lowenberg seem too engrossed in television to look at the camera. The set was a gift to the men of Jones House.

Livingston House

"First and ten, do it again! First and ten, do it again," the cheering section yelled. The men of Livingston House could be heard among the many spectators at Iowa State's football games this year. Besides the team as a whole, they were cheering on to victory a house member, Tom Watkins, star player of the Cyclone football team. They also took an active part in intramurals by participating in volleyball, football, table tennis and bowling (with an eye on a trophy to match the one they received last year in bowling). Tobogganing and dinner exchanges with Birch and Roberts Halls were among the special events on their social calendar. A house formal was held winter quarter. Many of the men took their minds off studying occasionally and went down to the den for informal singing. Last spring quarter, Livingston House placed 11th in scholarship in the MRA.

THESE THREE Livingston men seem to have no trouble finding excuses to put off studying for just a little longer.

THE MEN of Loudon House are especially proud of the trophy they were awarded for winning the class B football championship.

Loudon House

College meant a combination of studies, activities, and social events to Loudon House men. They have raised their house grade point each year since the house was established. They also had three members of Phi Eta Sigma and one Tomahawk member in their group. An activity which kept the house especially busy is intramurals. Loudon House men participated in football, bowling, volleyball, basketball, softball, track, swimming, ping-pong and pool. One of the most important games the men play each quarter is the game against Theta Chi fraternity. The winner keeps or receives a traveling trophy. Social activities of Loudon House men included a hayride, dinner exchanges and the yearly house party, "Carlowood Capers," given with Carpenter and Woodrow Houses. Another activity for the men was a Christmas service project. Indicating their group spirit, Loudon House men purchased guard pins and T shirts with the house colors.

3rd row: Truhn, Edwards, Montag, Verwers, Downey, Carpenito, Vlieger, Rittgers, Doak, McMinnree;
4th row: Spence, O'Connor, V. Burke, Welty, Cotsonon, Wittman, Rietz, Garrison, Tokheim;

Merrill House

Things are done in a big way by the men of Merrill House. They displayed a sign saying "Welcome" for their Homecoming and Veishea decorations.

The sign stretched the length of the north wing of Helser Hall, over 100 feet. Their energetic work was also carried on in intramurals.

Merrill House was represented with teams in softball, bowling, track, basketball and swimming and individuals in swimming, table tennis and pool. The house won the medley with a time of 3:59.5, defeating all challengers.

The main social event of the year was their "Playboy Party," held April 25 at Black's Cabin.

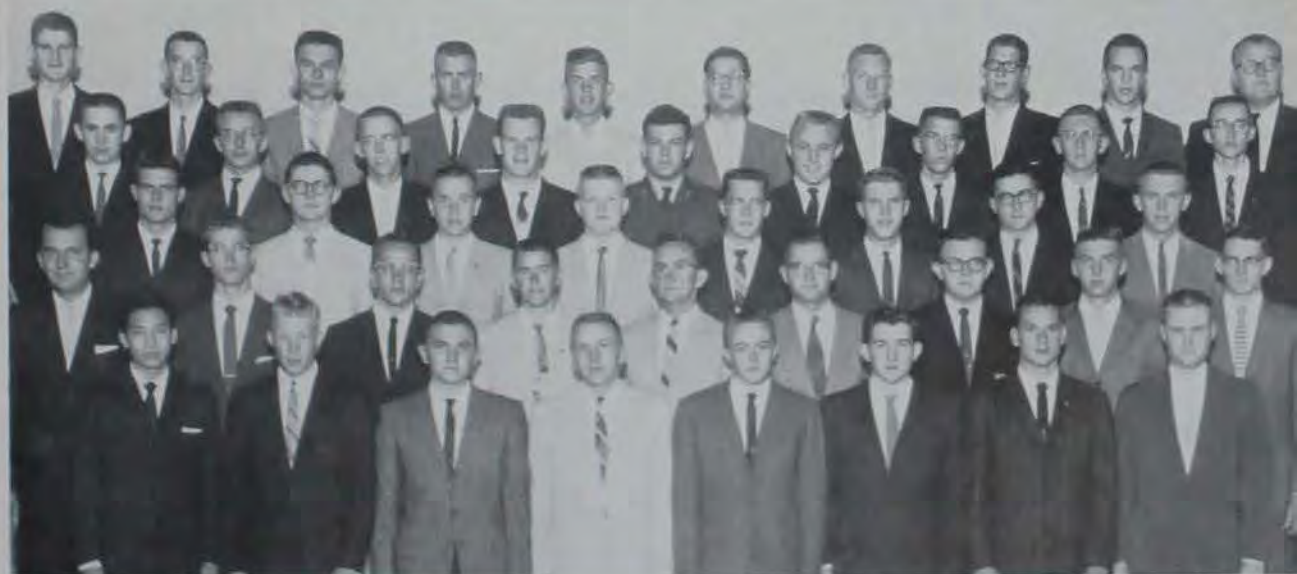

Dancing and games resulted in a pleasant evening for Merrill House men and their dates.

Several exchanges were also on the calendar for the men of Merrill House. They enjoyed dance exchanges with the Methodist nurses in Des Moines, the Sigma Kappa pledge class and Elm, Welch and Birch Halls, in addition to several dinner exchanges.

IT LOOKS like the Merrill House president has put himself to sleep with his own music.

DRESSED IN THEIR Sunday best, Norman House men leave Helser Hall to attend church together, a tradition they follow once a month.

Norman House

Yogi Bear appeared on campus this year for the 1959 Homecoming festivities. Yogi was featured in the lawn display made by the men from Norman House in Helser Hall. The display, captioned "The Wildcats Will See Stars," showed a television set. On the screen, Yogi Bear was on a motor scooter dragging the K-State Wildcat across a football field with a stadium full of people in the background. A tape recording of the voice of Yogi Bear completed the display. Good displays seem to be a habit with Norman House men. Their Veishea float, entitled "An Island to Remember," used Iwo Jima as its theme. The float, a reproduction of a famous news picture, showed the erection of the flag on the hill. Norman House men also participate in other activities. They enjoyed a hayride and several exchanges in the fall, and participated in intramurals. Individuals in the house are also active in campus activities, and three men in the house were members of the Order of Chessmen.

1st row: Glenn (v.p.), Hitch, Canning, (pres.), Yeager, Straka, Thomas, Gunson, R. Michael, Askev, Zalgier.

Richey House

Richey House men won a trophy for the greatest scholarship improvement of any campus residence. The trophy, awarded by Phi Eta Sigma, was given on the basis of grades from spring and fall quarters. In addition to their studies, the men had a busy social life. In the spring they treated dates to a steak fry at the Ledges. Softball, volleyball and badminton filled the afternoon. In the fall they had a hayride through the Ledges. The men and dates then went to the nearby home of one of the men for refreshments. Their annual semiformal Christmas party provided a change of pace for the men. This year's theme was "Pillow Talk."

The favors, appropriately enough, were pillows with nebbish cartoons printed on them.

The decorations for the dance, held at the Ames Country Club, reminded partygoers of the Christmas season. The ceiling was lowered with evergreens, and Christmas candles were on the tables.

TWO RICHEY HOUSE members puzzle over the possibilities of how to work a math problem.

1st row: Sorensen, Gray, Giouanuzzi, Thompson (v.p.), Philipp (head resident), Farris, Hopp, Reed, Kennedy, Wolverton. 2nd row: Baghdasarian, Bowden, Reece, Chamblow, Moore, Lee, Lines, Johansen, Prierson. 3rd row: Brenner (treas.), Booth, Reinking, Andrews, Taylor, Kerfoot, Rosene, Gillette (sec.), Yates
Sweter, Osheim, Houston, Beckman, Brower, Rector, Donaldson, Deutsche, Dykstra.

Stalker House

Stalker House won the second-place trophy in the MRA division of the Veishea parade with its float entitled "World Traveling T-Land."

Judy Vokt rode on the float, holding a young girl from Guatemala. Behind them was a map of the United States. Following Veishea, Stalker House men gave a dinner honoring the youngster, her parents and the float co-chairmen.

Other social events included a spring picnic at the Ledges and a hayride exchange with Birch Hall on a cold autumn evening. The main social event sponsored by the house was a party at the Sheldon-Munn Hotel in Ames last February. Couples enjoyed dancing to hi-fi, and balloons and soft lighting contributed to the informal atmosphere. In addition to social events, the men participated in intramurals. One Stalker House man was the MRA wrestling champ in the 130-pound class. Stalker House also claimed the MRA president and internal vice-president, as well as members of Cardinal Key, Lampos, Tomahawk, Tau Beta Pi and Eta Kappa Nu.

STALKER HOUSE men choose a Saturday afternoon for group singing around the piano.

GAVEL IN hand, the president presides over a house meeting while Woodrow House men listen to a report from one of their officers.

Woodrow House

Woodrow House men played Santa Claus by sponsoring a Christmas party for retarded children as a special service project. The party, given with the Des Moinettes, was held at the Des Moines YWCA. As Veishea approached, the men chose a float theme which proved appropriate on the rainy morning of the parade. The float, entitled "Isle of Frustration," was in two sections, representing two islands. On one island a sailor sat marooned, and on the other island a fair maid was stranded. A shark between the two islands provided the frustrating circumstance. Chief event in the Woodrow House social season was "Carlowood Capers," an annual winter party held with two other houses in Helser Hall. The theme this year was "Northern Lights." The microphone was wired so that the lights shone brighter as the band played louder. Woodrow House men also participated in intramurals, winning first place in class C bowling.

Baker House

"Beatnik Ball" was the title of the Baker House spring party. The men and their dates, appropriately costumed, spent the evening dancing to hi-fi records and playing cards. In the fall the men entertained dates at a fireside at Lynn Furher Lodge. Corn stalks and pumpkins carried out the gold and brown autumn decor. A fire in the fireplace added to the atmosphere. Also in the fall, Baker men participated in Homecoming by constructing a display on top of Westgate Hall. The theme, "The Wildcats Smeets De-feet," was carried out by depicting a K-State Wildcat smelling two huge feet hanging from the roof. In fall intramurals, Baker men captured the first place in class D bowling. On the Baker House social calendar for winter quarter was a tobogganing party at the Ames Country Club. After working up their appetites, the tobogganers returned to the Baker House den for hot cocoa and dancing.

ONE PHONE call seems to be getting a lot of extra attention as members of Baker House crowd around their telephone booth.

Boyd House

Highlighting the Boyd House social calendar was the "Spring Swing" party, given April 25 at the Boone Country Club. The men and their dates enjoyed the music of Jerry Vajgrt's combo.

The color scheme was red and white, setting off a black backdrop lettered with "Spring Swing" in silver foil. Also in the spring the men held a Veishea open house. Parents, former house members and friends were welcome. In spring intramurals Boyd House won the class A softball championship. The men also participated in other intramural events during the year such as basketball, football, and volleyball. Their fall social calendar included a get-acquainted exchange with Roberts Hall, held in the Westgate lounge. At Homecoming they drew from television commercials for their display, captioned "Stop that K-State Offensive with the Team that Rolls On."

MEMBERS OF Boyd House gather in the den for a variety of pastimes, ranging from relaxing with the newspaper to studying.

Griffith House

Griffith House rose from thirty-ninth place to fifth place in the MRA fall quarter scholarship rankings. Another honor came to the house when one of the men was made a cadet colonel in the Air Force ROTC. In intramurals Griffith House men entered in volleyball, bowling, pool and basketball, doing best in volleyball. In the spring they took advantage of the weather to have their annual house picnic. The stag affair included baseball and swimming, besides plenty of good food. In May, each of the seniors in Griffith House received a traditional graduation present from the rest of the men — a dunking in the Memorial Union fountain. As fall quarter began, freshmen were introduced to house social events with a watermelon bust at Brookside Park. Sports and food provided an informal atmosphere. Other social events for the men included a tea honoring the Westgate housemother, Mrs. Marie Gesler, and quarterly house dinners.

WITH FINAL week approaching, Al Buch settles down to an evening's study in his room.

Sage House

Spanish scenery, Spanish costumes and Spanish music set the atmosphere for the Westgate dance, "Down in Spanish Town," sponsored by Sage House. Beer mugs, cards, candlelight and dancing made Westgate Hall resemble an old Spanish town. The dance was given in October. Besides social activities, Sage men enjoyed athletic events. The house was well represented at football and basketball games, and school spirit was made evident in its Homecoming display. Sage House men were also active in intramurals. Teams were entered in volleyball, bowling, basketball and football, and individuals participated in other events. The interest in athletics was also shown by their miniature golf exchanges. Sage House men enjoyed several other exchanges during the year. The men also participated in all-college activities. The president of Sage House, Leon Wernimont, was president of Block and Bridle.

PREPARING FOR their annual Christmas season serenades, Alumni Hall men hold song practice to recall lyrics of traditional carols.

"Cream'em" was the theme of the Alumni Hall Homecoming decoration. It showed cream being poured on Kansas State players in a big grid iron. Another construction project for the men was their Veishea float, "The Inside Track." It was designed to show a submarine traveling from England to Hawaii by way of the North Pole. Spring quarter they also competed in Sinfonia. Alumni Hall participants in intramurals were second-place winners in both spring track and the all-college football playoff. Other honors came to Alumni Hall as two men were elected to Phi Kappa Phi. Two men were also members of Tomahawk, and one was president of Farm Operation Club. Social events for Alumni Hall men included a fireside with a carnival theme and a hayride ending with dancing, games and refreshments around a fire. Winter quarter they gave their formal dance, "Moon Song," at the Boone Country Club. Half moon decorations and centerpieces carried out the theme.

THIS DOOR IN the Union is a familiar sight to many members of the Ward System who make the office their campus headquarters.

Ward System

Independent students living in off-campus housing areas near the college have a unique central residence organization in the form of the Ward System. The Ward System, one of the many college groups belonging to the National Independent Student Associations, has established a threefold purpose to help strengthen the unity of its widely scattered members. In accomplishing these purposes, the Ward System provides a means of participation in extra-curricular activities for men and women not housed in organized living groups, develops fellowship among and promotes unification of these men and women, and aids members in social and personal development. Early in fall quarter the Ward System had its annual WRA-Ward Roundup, a series of informal dances. In April the Ward System was host for the National Independent Student Associations convention, which was held at the 4-H Camp near Boone. This year the Ward System published the monthly NISA Newsletter.

WARD COUNCIL.—Neiswanger, Taylor, Gemmill, Hendrickson, Kriz, Barber, Potter, Miller.

Tau Gamma Ward

Tau Gamma Ward provides social contact for independent women living off campus. Its name comes from the first letters of the words "town girls." It began in the spring of 1958 after having lapsed since 1945. It placed first in the all-college scholarship rankings.

COLLABORATING TO write a story for the Ward News are these Tau Gamma members.

IVA JEAN DAVIS, a member of Tau Gamma Ward, gets ready to run off some pages of the Ward News for members of the group.

East Ward, which includes downtown Ames, won the ward softball championship. Besides intramurals, a project for the men was their Veishea float, called "A Three-Year March." During the year East Ward, the smallest of the wards, was led by Al Seim. East Ward was formerly called Nu Ward.

AL SEIM, of East Ward, takes the chance to put his feet up and relax while studying in between classes in the Ward office.

TWO MEMBERS of East Ward get together in the Union for a game of pool after class.

Northwest Ward

Northwest Ward is the largest ward in membership. Located west of the campus and north of West Street, it includes the area which was formerly Iota Ward and part of Eta Ward. Officers included Don Cronin, chairman; Tom Krumboltz, programmer; Jerry Barrick, development chairman, and Howard Gray.

STRAINING TO TIP the ball over to the opponent's side are these two Northwest men.

MEMBERS OF Southwest Ward post a notice on their bulletin board which stands at the southwest entrance to the campus.

Southwest Ward

Southwest Ward received the Veishea trophy for its parade entry, entitled "Northern Patrol." The float depicted the space age with a rocket. Southwest Ward, which was formed from three and a half smaller wards, includes the area of Campustown west of Hayward Avenue and south of the campus and West Street.

WARD MEMBERS often get together in the Commons to visit and play a hand of cards.

South Ward

The men of South Ward earned the highest grade average of the men's wards in fall quarter scholarship rankings. This ward, which was formed from two other wards, comprises the area of Campustown south of the campus and between Beech and Hayward Avenues. Chairman this year was John Anderson.

DON BARBER, program chairman for South Ward, calls group members about a meeting.

BOB NEISWANGER bites his lip and hopes for a strike in a Saturday afternoon game of bowling with other members of South Ward.

In creating the Bomb of 1960, it has been our constant goal to compile an accurate, complete record of life at Iowa State University. The guidance and understanding of those with whom we have worked, in addition to a capable and reliable staff, have made the approaching of such a goal possible. It has been a privilege to edit this book, and now to present to you the finished product, the Bomb of 1960.
