PUBLISHED BY THE COLLEGIATE PRESS, INC., IOWA STATE COLLEGE, AMES, IOWA

With the death of war, a new era was born; an era which promises a New World in which technology will be the keynote. Essential trained technicians will be graduates of Iowa State and similar colleges. Never before in the history of Iowa State has there been such a tremendous task.

In addition to the skilled technicians there must be teachers who will study, work and carry truth to their various countries. Already exchange students from China, India and Latin America are spending long hours in research laboratories at ISC. More students from war-wounded countries will come and return to teach their people better methods of farming. By increasing efficiency through education, women students will indirectly be raising the standards of living. New generations will be educated in the concepts of truth.

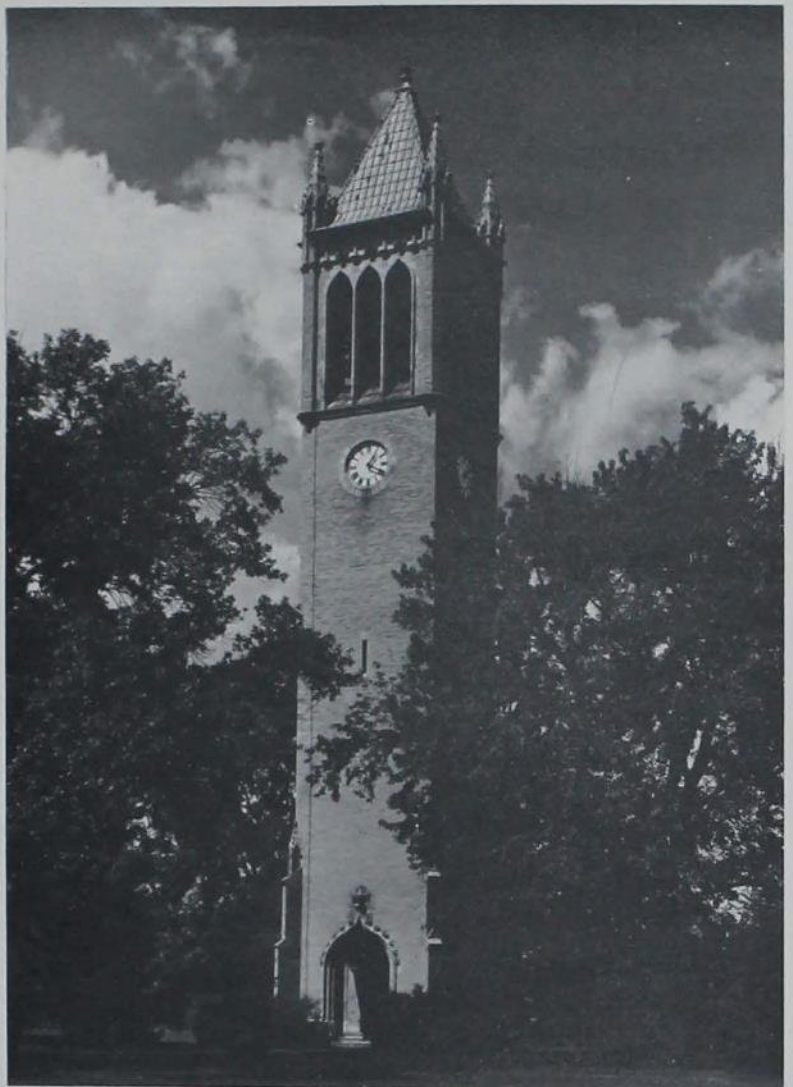

To this role that Iowa State will play in building and educating the New World, we reverently dedicate the Bomb of 1946.

Lean, long Joe Burkle has a ready grin that makes him "Joe College" for many a coed. Exercising his social aptitude, Joe was chairman of the Junior Prom and Men's Panhellenic Dance. He let off steam as president of the Representative party. Once in a while he could be found at the FarmHouse. As a senior he was on the Union Board, was secretary of Cardinal Key and student body president.

A wearer of the Cardinal Key, Garland Fisher serves as president of the Independent Party with a spirited interest in the Ward System. He has been Ward social chairman, secretary of Social Council, and was on Engineering Council for two years. He was a member of Cardinal Guild, and was dubbed a Knight of St. Patrick.

From her colorful journalistic past and future, no one would guess the awful truth. Ruth Midgorden during her freshman year was petrified by the thought of walking into the Press Building. According to the record, Ruth overcame her fear. She walked up the ladder to sit on top as editor of the Daily Student. Ruth is a member of Mortar Board, Omicron Nu, Theta Sig and Phi U.

One of the cheeriest grins on campus belongs to AGR president, Bill Killpack. He not only has a charming personality but an outstanding ability of leadership. Bill withstood the tapping ceremony at Homecoming and so was made a member of Cardinal Key. Filling his time by service on the Union Board, he also was vice-president of Ag Council. People still remember dancing to some of the smooth bands Bill was responsible for as booking agent for Cardinal Guild.

Tri Delt Jo Ann Reeves is known on campus for the quiet way she gets things done. Not content after being associate editor of the Homemaker, she proved that an editor can be a business manager, too. The director of the magazine acts as an editor with a knowledge of business. And then, success tagged Jody for Phi U and Mortar Board, after she spent four years on the Home Economics Curriculum Committee.

Well-known for his sincerity and ready smile is Phi Psi Roger Williams. Rog was associate editor of the Iowa Engineer his junior year. He proved his ability as a leader when he became president of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, Engineering Council and became a Knight of St. Patrick. A valuable member on the Engineering Publication Board, his "gift of gab" is well-recognized in any group.

Trim, athletic Tad James is one of the few coeds who daily trudge to Engineering Hall. Yes, she's Tri Delt's Arch E. major. Being full of the "old nick," she's an apt co-editor of the Green Gander. Recipient of the Freshman I Award for athletics, Tad is a member of the Women's I Fraternity, secretary of the Recreation Board, and was treasurer of WAA. She is a Knight of St. Patrick, and was honored with the Tau Beta Pi Woman's Badge.

BMOC is a title that fits Stanley Howe perfectly. This is quite evident when one realizes that he has been president of Cardinal Key, business manager of the Iowa Engineer, treasurer of Cardinal Guild, secretary of Tau Beta Pi and a Knight of St. Patrick. Stan also found time for the Engineering and Ward Executive Councils.

Gamma Phi Melena Adams hails from Tennessee. When she yearns for the sunny southland, she can be found working in the warmth of the "Y". Melena has been a stand-patter in YWCA work, and was elected secretary her junior year, president her senior year. She was also secretary of Phi Upsilon Omicron, president of Welch Hall, and a member of Mortar Board.

With a reputation of brawn versus brains, SAE Dave Lush was elected BJOC. Jovial, congenial, and scholastically inclined, he was a member of Alpha Phi Omicron, Tau Beta Pi, and Pi Tau Sigma. Dave was president of YMCA his junior year and a member of the Bomb Publication Board for two years. Cardinal Key tapped him for membership his junior year, and he was also made a Knight of Saint Patrick.

Gamma Phi "Bill" O'Brien's gray coupe is nearly as well known on campus as her subtle wit. President of Women's Science Club, this genial pre-med student also walked off with the presidency of Science Council. In the past she has served on Cardinal Guild, was president of Naiads, secretary of WAA, president of Freshman Y, and pep queen committee chairman of the 1945 Homecoming.

While there was a war to fight, Lois Gramlich was on the alert. After serving on the War Council for two years, Lois was elected president for her junior and senior years. She was president of Dormitory Council, of Roberts Hall and president of the Independent Party Council. Phi U claimed her for two years, and she was tapped for Mortar Board her junior year.

A bewildered freshman once asked about her, "Doesn't she ever walk to the Press Building?" Any girl who has as much to do as Tri Delt Beverly Sieg is forced to run wherever she goes—and "Bev" has been places! She proved her ability as managing editor of the Bomb of 1945. Then "Bev", with her talents and new ideas, edited the 1946 Bomb. She was a member of Phi Upsilon Omicron and Mortar Board.

Pretty Chi O Mary Krumboltz, the first woman to be editor of the Iowa Engineer, has a variety of talents. She is a member of Cardinal Guild, art editor of Sketch, secretary of AIA and represents her fellow man on Engineering Council. Mary was chairman of ticket sales for both the Engineers' Carnival and Ball and was also the only woman elected in December to the Knights of St. Patrick.

It's almost unheard of for a lovely Veishea queen candidate to be tapped the outstanding woman on campus on the next day, but it happened to Gamma Phi president Pat Stow. President of Mortar Board and Women's Panhellenic, she was elected Junior Prom Girl for popularity and activities. She has been president of Phi U, Recreation Board, Four-fold Founders, Red Cross, and Freshman Home Ec Club, and was chosen for Omicron Nu, Psi Chi, Phi Kappa Phi and Social Council.

STUDENT ADMINISTRATION

Two of the season's most enthusiastic rooters, Betty Anderson, attendant to the Homecoming Queen, and date, Bill Andrea, give with all they've got at the Homecoming Game. Their pep and go is typical of the school spirit which Cardinal Guild fosters. The Guild, led this year by Joe Burkle, builds such fans as these by sponsoring long, loud pep rallies, parades and mixers.

Guild members Jim McCauslin, Harriet Keen and Jo Visser center their interest on the Union bulletin board—or have their practical minds been aroused by that cash register? President Joe Burkle checks with Arlene Scholten, Bill Killpack and Marie O'Brien on the business of the moment.

Returning men and materials inspired Cardinal Guild to reorganize Yel Jax, men's

At last the true meaning of Cardinal Guild and the many services it performs have been explained and realized. President Joe Burkle found a very cooperative cabinet with Jim McCauslin, vice president, Jack Menne, secretary, and Stan Howe, treasurer. Working together, the Guild reapportioned the activity fund for the first time since 1936. After considering the changes in curriculum and the point system of ISC, it spent many hours revising the freshman handbook. Speaking of freshmen, it's the Guild members who steer the newcomers through Freshman Days and registration. As vets returned, the Guild aided in the housing situation by classifying residences.

Ellen Mitchell, Stanley Howe, Pat Stow and Jack Menne confirm the coming events.

Yel-Jax, the complement to Twisters was reorganized. Yel-Jax is the men's pep club which was inactive during the war for obvious reasons. Its members can be marked by their loud yellow jackets and equally high-colored spirits which are stimulated by Cardinal Guild. In the spring the Guild, with a new constitution, organized the Campus Properties Committee, and prepared to revive old traditions and spirit.

The Recreation Committee, Guild's spouse, puts "creation" in recreation.

When campus activities latched onto this link, the Union Board made society whirl

"Hubbub of the campus" is a phrase appropriately describing the College Union, and it is the work of the Student Union Board to see that our college club is made worthy of such a title. Foremost among the many successful functions to highlight the social season were the Registration Dance; the introduction of "The Skyliners", a new campus band; and the enjoyable, though confusing, all-college mixers. In addition to all this the board has charge of all the game equipment and game rooms in the Union. Problems arose this winter when cafeteria lines became too long to be accommodated in time. Rumor had it that they had to employ a new salad girl—Dr. Schilleter himself.

No Union lab time for Dr. Schilleter, director of Memorial Union.

Composed of two representatives from each of the divisions, plus two from the graduate college, the Board met each Tuesday under President Vince Nielson to approve major budgets and plans for major social functions, to invite guests and ideas for Coffee Forum, and to decide Union policy. Assisting Vince were John Huling, vice-president, and Mr. Schilletter, Union Director and secretary of the Board. Acting in an advisory capacity are ex-officio members Joe Burkle, Student Body President, Kenneth Krogh, editor of the Daily Student, and booking agent of Cardinal Guild, Bill Killpack. Other members are elected by the student body in a spring election, and may hold their positions until graduation.

Charlene Stettler's life is an open book to Ken Anderson and Jeannette Pickford.

Returning vets reversed ratio of men to coeds, reduced problem of Social Council

Working with the new social director, Miss Rex, on the year's social calendar are members of Joint Social Council, which is made up of the social directors of all organized houses. Gloria Youngblade wields the president's gavel, Cecile Habben is vice-president, and Dick Towle writes the minutes. Under the council's jurisdiction are Friday night exchanges, house dances, fire-sides, and various other events. Each year they sponsor Courtesy Week when, guided by handbills of helpful hints, everyone dresses his manners in their Sunday best.

A mellow moon smiled upon Ag students as queen of the Harvest Ball was crowned Starting the year with a bang, Ag Council planned and presented one of its proudest traditions, the Harvest Ball with Dean Kildee crowning lovely Annabel McQuown, queen. President Howard Voelker worked with his council which is made up of representatives from each division to bring speakers to the Ag campus for Farm and Home Week. Ag Council is the link between students and faculty to effect curriculum changes with Gene Walker as vice president, Shirley Beneke, secretary, and Maclyn La Rue, treasurer.

The investigators of all the Ag Council activities are Maclyn La Rue, Shirley Beneke, Gene Walker and Howard Voelker. Dean Kildee gives the crowning achievement to Annabel McQuown, Queen of Harvest Ball, while Vince Nielson looks on.

Beards blossomed out all over as Engineers revived annual Carnival after four years

With Roger Williams as head of Engineering Council, the engineers were off to a fresh start this fall. They dug around in the pre-war files and emerged with a post-war version of their famous Carnival. Some-one revived a mid-Victorian contest and coeds were said to have been shocked and shaken by the consequent bearded men on campus. Although it was a "close shave", Jim Kopke won the beard contest by an eyelash. A serious note was the tapping of the Knights of St. Patrick. In the spring, Engineering Council plans the Engineers' Ball and selects beauties as candidates for Engineers' Lady.

Gypsy Rose Gibson and Bubbles ? of the Arch E booth entice the Engineering Carnival customers. James Kopke, the beard-growing winner, didn't let any moss grow under his feet but he certainly let hair grow under his chin.

Against black and silver backdrop, host of students danced at the Home Ec Ball

To the Home Ec Council this year came the honor of having its president, Cornelia Lindstrom, chosen as national college chairman of the American Home Economics Association. The council helped sponsor the Faculty-Student teas every two weeks. Christmas found the council members packing gift boxes to be sent to Europe. On the social calendar, the Home Ec Ball opened the fall formal season to the sweet swing of Sam Campbell's orchestra.

After it had apparently died during the war, the Mardi Gras was raised from the dust

With their identity concealed by masks and vivid costumes, students danced on February 2nd at the traditional Science Mardi Gras. The only all-college costume dance was under the reign of Queen Flo Markey and King Dick Barta. These, with four attendants were chosen from the Science Division. An informal faculty-student party was sponsored by Science Council. Under the leadership of Marie O'Brien, the council has been analyzing the science curriculum.

Junior AVMA eliminated war-accelerated program, planned expansion and Vet Ball

Expansion is the by-word of the Veterinary Division this post-war year. Adding land and new equipment to many departments was one expression of the increase. New X-ray equipment is being installed in the Clinic for work in radiography, fluoroscopy, and therapy. Many standard operations have been filmed in color for use in surgery classes, and a complete State Diagnostic Laboratory is to be instituted.

This Bomb has a lot of kick to it.

The Dormitory Council is composed of the presidents of all women's dormitories. Serving as council president was Naomi Fenske. Panhel council works out problems on quotas, rushing and sorority inter-relationships

Seeing that sorority relationships run smoothly is the prime object of Women's Panhellenic Council. Guided this year by Pat Stow, it is made up of the presidents of the ten sororities and a representative from each house. The council meets bi-weekly, rotating from house to house. With Miss Rex, social director, it discusses rushing, the quota system, and other sorority problems.

Pledge presidents Riley Deal, Mary Ellen Watt, Ione Smith and Advisor Ruth Ellen Gustafson are on their toes in making intersorority pledge dance plans. The Sigma Kappas and their dates take the Cyclone Cellar by storm during intermission of the Women's Panhellenic Dance.

The Wards, now including married couples, aims to promote social and athletic events

Organized again in full force this fall was the Iowa State Ward system. With Jim Westervelt as president, the Ward looked forward to a successful year at ISC. The Wards are organized to promote interest in athletics, college activities, and social functions. Augmenting the regular ranks of independents is the Mu group, composed of married couples on campus.

Interfraternity Council instituted permanent record files, renewed Pledge Trainer Council

The Interfraternity Council is playing a major role this year by boosting fraternity policies to prewar standards and above. With Phil Gibbs, as president, Howard Ormiston as vice president and treasurer, and John Cooper at secretary, the council has instituted a system of permanent records of every fraternity man on campus. The Pledge Trainers Council has raised the length of pledge training and the grade requirements for initiation. Socially, the annual Men's Interfraternity Ball took the spotlight.

There's always something for council members Larry Hanel, Frank Forbes, Phil Gibbs and Bill Killpack to discuss. Food after a picnic is always appropriate.

Independent Party encourages individuality and active participation in campus politics

The Independent Party is a working political body which is composed of a representative from each dorm, ward, the town group, and group X. With the capable leadership of Garland Fisher as president, Etha Schipull as vice president, and Eloise Burton as secretary, the party set out this year to establish unity within the independents. Generally it aims to acquaint independents with campus politics and activities. At the beginning of fall quarter Jim McCauslin, treasurer, was elected campaign manager.

Representative Party put student body president in office with strong four-point platform

With Joe Burkle as president, the Representative Party set an enviable record last year. Mark Pendleton headed the committee which drew up a new constitution. The party was further strengthened by initiating a four point platform to unite its members solidly behind its aims. Composed of a member from each sorority and fraternity, the council helped sponsor Panhellenic Field Day last spring, which was an unprecedented success.

Firesides held in faculty homes presented inspiration for fellowship. Lynn Fuhrer Lodge added stimulation and interest to many student and faculty groups.

Life at the Bomb office began early last fall. Typewriters began to pound out the general index under Alice McMahill, index editor. The layout, resulting in pages and pages of drawing for Ellen Jane Bolick, layout editor, and her assistants was begun. Sports Editor Mark Frudden rounded up

The demand for more and unusual shots of campus activities kept Marion Dawson, photography editor, and her staff of photographers hopping to meetings and developing the results. Copywriters finished copy in a very frustrated manner in order to meet deadlines under Copy Editor Sherron Boyer. The Iowa State Daily Student after four lean, war years is finally getting back to its pre-war standards. With Ken Krogh and Bob Stafford, returned veterans, to take over the offices of editor and business manager, the "Dilly Stoopid" has been given that revitalizing shot in the arm.

Its hard to keep men away from files. A deadline always brings plenty of life. Jay Beckley probably has some reason other than sentiment for cutting out that Mother's Day ad.

During those years, as in other institutions and war plants, the women came through. Prof. J. D. Ryder discusses the theory and practical application of the ignition. Tom Ryan, Bob Baumert and Rog Williams work well under pressure.

Chemical engineers worked on dedication project, fostered professional interest and fun

The American Institute of Chemical Engineers is a professional organization open to all chemical engineers. The campus organization fosters among engineers a knowledge of new developments in this and related fields. With Roger Williams as president, the Chem Es took second place in the Engineers' Carnival and had a very successful spring picnic which is a tradition. It has been active for a year and a half securing a portrait of Dr. O. R. Sweeney which will be placed in the new building.

ASCEs took field trips to commercial plants and were honored by national office

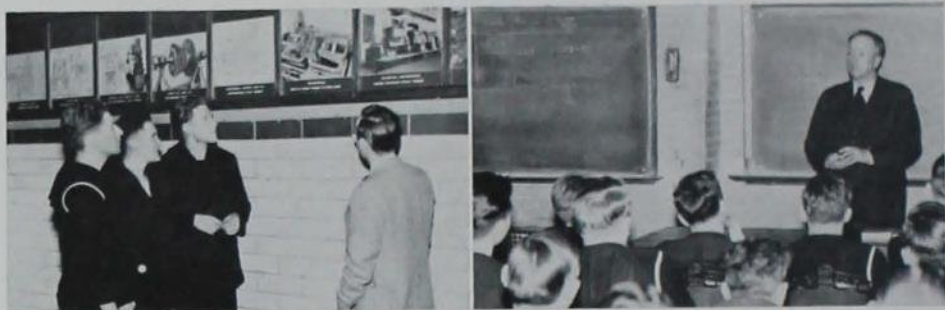

The American Society of Civil Engineers at Iowa State was honored for the fifth time for its reports to the national office. Meetings of the society feature discussions and lectures on the chosen careers of important members. One such talk was given by J. C.

Stevens, national president of ASCE. The presidency changed hands during the year from David Comann to Bob Jordan to Bill McBride. Bill Jamison is vice president; Fred Beatty, secretary; and Irving Osborne, treasurer.

When MEs have their backs against the wall they look at the posters. There is always room for anyone to learn something—even a ME.

ASMEs developed professional interests, had picnic with faculty members in spring

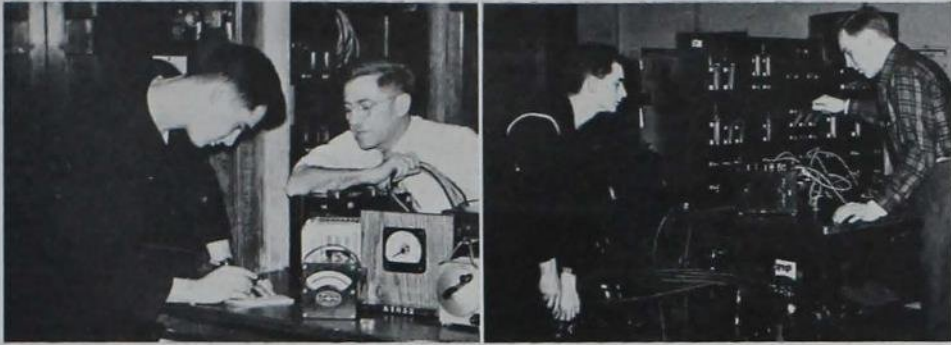

Although it is the student chapter of a national Association of Mechanical Engineers, membership is not limited to MEs. It strives to broaden the views of engineers by sponsoring interesting speakers who talk on all phases of engineering. In the spring things take a light turn as students and faculty members take the day off for a picnic. Chairman this year was Roger Bowden who was assisted by Richard Dove, vice chairman; Jim Stanek, secretary; and Ralph Marrs, treasurer.

AIEE worked in library on illumination problems, studied new developments in field

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers really did some traveling in fact and in theory. This student branch of the national organization sponsored a trip to Cedar Rapids and heard from professional men on latest developments. Among the outstanding speakers were representatives from many electrical companies. Under Jack Menne, president; Bob Miller, publicity chairman; Dick Hales, secretary-treasurer, the group enjoyed a most successful year with Ben Willis as faculty advisor.

In explaining something to a group of aero science students everything is kept on the same plane. These fellows' minds appear to be in the clouds.

Besides sponsoring technical contest for a prize, Aero Es gave student-faculty picnic

According to Bob Johnson, chairman, the aeronautical engineers are definitely "up in the air" about their technical organization. During the year the engineers heard many talks on aviation. Art Boreman of Des Moines, who has aviation as a hobby, spoke on postwar possibilities in the air world. Besides the technical quality, which includes studying problems of the science, the Aero Es manage to have a big faculty-student picnic in the spring. Members are eligible for the national organization.

Beginning its postwar expansion, the Division of Veterinary Medicine has added seventy acres of land to the Research Institute and has planned an additional wing for that institute. A State Diagnostic Laboratory with a complete staff will occupy the old barracks building to be renovated and enlarged. All students enrolled in the Division of Veterinary Medicine are members of the Junior American Veterinary Medicine Association and are bound together by professional interest.

Cooperating with other campus groups, the Alumni started plans for athletic field house

The Alumni Association is positive proof that college Joes and Judies don't lose their college contacts upon graduation. It has on file a complete list of alumni, addresses and biographical information. Supported by the members, the organization cooperated with the Homecoming Committee and the Athletic Department to bring back to the campus Glenn S. "Pop" Warner, the respected coach of the original Cyclone team. It initiated plans for an athletic field house which will seat 14,000 people.

Twisters, coeds' pep organization, collected for the March of Dimes and cheered games

As pep and go personified, the Twisters started the year by giving football games added color and noise. Bent on helping to develop school spirit, they yelled loudly and succeeded in getting Yel-Jax, the brother group, reorganized. They resumed an almost forgotten custom of Wednesday afternoon mixers in the Union. Not satisfied with merely decorating the gym for basketball games, they carried huge blankets into which the enthusiastic students pitched dimes for the March of Dimes.

To a newcomer walking into a party of the Cosmopolitan Club, it would seem that here is a cross-section of the international scene. The Cosmopolitanites are not only students from other countries but include students and faculty members interested in gaining international understanding. The programs were inclusive, spreading from pastoral scenes and rural life of South America to industrial centers in India. During the year, movies were shown and interesting talks were given by members.

It wasn't a case of not seeing the forest for the trees for Forestry Club this year. With Harold Bergman as head lumberjack, the foresters went to work in earnest felling problems. They maintained a forest tract near Boone and had time to have fun, too.

It was a rugged dinner and some of the boys tasted elk for the first time. Picnics, stag and with food, were the order for spring. On the more stylish end of their social events, was the costume Hoe Down held at the Ames Country Club.

Although the war ended, the work of the Red Cross went on. Last spring classes in first aid and staff assistance were held regularly. With the coming of peace, work was directed into other channels, particularly at Christmas time. A drive was held for gifts for servicemen in Veterans' Hospitals. The campus group also held a very successful drive for the National Red Cross under Cecelia Grask, chairman; Marge Lyon, vice-chairman; Mary Ellen Watt, secretary; and Phyllis McCracken, drive chairman.

and co-op grocery store, was set up for the vets and their wives. As a social outgrowth to solve the recreation problem, they instituted Mr. and Mrs. Night in the gym. They were also instrumental in the canvass which uncovered rooms for 1200 students.

The Iowa State Concert Band gave many interesting concerts including the "Concert in Swing", a formal concert of Symphonic music, and a series of summer concerts which were well-attended. The high point of the activities of the concert band was the spring tour which was one of its many successes.

ISC puts out the welcome mat for the alumni.

Assuming the proportions of the prewar Homecoming under the leadership of Maxine Mallory, the 1945 event was a pleasant surprise to old and new students alike. The parade was endlessly amusing with the Chi Omegas taking one first prize with their roller-skating corn-borer and the Betas taking the other first prize for their "Hellzapoppin" float and also for their house decoration. Everyone yelled and ate to his heart's content at the picnic and pep rally at which the committee presented "Pop" Warner, the coach of the original Cyclone team.

Nat Towles and his orchestra furnished a smooth finish to Homecoming activities.

Iowa State College on REGISTRATION DAY

Once upon a time, as all good stories go, there was a little boy and a little girl. One fine day they packed their bags and left home. They journeyed far to a place they'd dreamed of—the lovely campus of Iowa State. At last they reached this fair land and began to realize their childhood dreams. They were busy almost immediately unpacking, laughing and getting acquainted with their future classmates. By the time the Registration Dance rolled around, they had hit it off with another couple and the natural result was a gay double date.

Hmmm, one of the exact, orderly registration lines! Yon Tai Yu and Hin Cheung Hoh get plenty of practice writing their names in English during registration week. A future engineer looks forward to some heavy reading. It's at this point that many a freshman wonders why she left home and mother.

A coed goes through RUSH WEEK

The Chi Omega fireplace induces a warm reception. Tea for two expands into tea for five at the Pi Phi house.

The Gamma Phis create an hour of charm. The rushees at the Tri Delt house are surrounded like queens on a throne.

Rush week started with her madly unpacking and organizing her time and clothes. Never before had she realized the meaning of rush week. Now she went to parties, smiled, went to parties and raced from house to house every morning, noon and night. She was impressed by the scores of poised young women she met. And she learned to like tea.

Campus turned green during FRESHMAN DAYS

Four new students with guide books in hand casually inspect the campus.

Pres. Friley and Dean Helser receive new students. Ginny Jackson and John McCreedy decided to dance their way through Freshman Days at the Freshman Mixer.

The truth will come out as another freshman gets her number at Iowa State.

Voted on all campus hit parade were DANCES

Little did she dream of the many proms and dances she would attend during the year. She wrote home in a hurry for costumes for the Mardi Gras during winter quarter. Her father was perturbed but happy when she asked for new sweaters for the frequent football mixers. During the summer that she had been getting ready to come to school the twinkling Starlit Prom created a memory which still lingered.

Jerry Siegwart and his date give the Student Union Board dance a whirl. Pat O'Connell, Arch Murphy, Helen Bruns and Joe Burkle take a break at the Senior Prom.

Delo Ryan and Bill Castner are at the Drake Homecoming dance. It's just those cave man tactics coming out in Mary Lueder and Jack Griffiee. Cel Grask and Jabe Bell cooperate on a step at the Home Ec Ball.

On the perpetual bulletin board is a lacy program, a touch of the Queen of Hearts Ball. At the end of her freshman year she came to the conclusion that the wardrobe of a college girl should include a couple of date dresses, a pair of blue jeans, a plaid shirt, and thirteen formals.

Alice Osborne and her date do some mixing at the Freshman Mixer. Astaire and Rogers execute a graceful twill at the Harmony Ball.

Mermaid Dottie Ueltz and Neptune Vince Nielsen dance through the Mardi Gras crowd with the aid of Neptune's fork. Harry Sidles and his queen step out of the heart of the Queen of Hearts Ball.

As crowds cheered, GAME

He's willing to explain the smallest details of the game to her. Two Chinese students show international spirit at a basketball game.

It was a brisk autumn day when he took her to the first big game. With a blanket under one arm and her on the other, he bucked the crowd and found a spot a little off the 50-yard line. Then he proceeded to set up his radio, spread the blanket, and they settled down to cheer the team obediently on to the end—whether it be victory or defeat. After the clamor of the football season, he explained to her that the little men running around on the basketball floor were not fighting with the referee, that the object was to make a basket. She smiled

Interest in that play swings high as the cheerleaders appeal to the crowd. There's just twice as much color and pep when Marilyn and Joyce Leithardt cut loose at the Homecoming game.

The pause that restores--VACATION!

sweetly, if not stupidly, and went on munching peanuts, screaming when the others screamed.

At the end of fall quarter they were busy packing bags and buying tickets for the Thanksgiving trip. She could hardly wait to get home to see the old crowd, to compare notes on college life, to sleep. After putting her aboard the train one afternoon, he followed the word of the older boys and hitchhiked. He arrived home two days ahead of all buses and trains he could have taken and is still laughing.

"Waitin' for the train to come in." Just fifteen more minutes and this waiting room will be as bare as the proverbial cupboard—they hope!

One bus won't hold these vacationists so there'll be another along any minute. Iowa State teaches you to use your thumb as well as your head.

When grass is a grab and half high - PICNICS!

Then came spring with its birds and flowers—happy hours to spend tramping o'er the hills and brooks and the inevitable golf of course. One bright Sunday morning he called for her at seven and they were off to their picnic of the AAPLI. An infant organization last year, it has grown to be one of the most coveted clubs on the campus, that is, to picnic-lovers. The Associated Association of Picnic Lovers Incorporated caters to those who would rather go on a picnic than. . . So in bright plaid shirts, hair sailing in the wind, they chased rabbits, ate toast and dill pickles, and cut capers in little pieces.

Dora Davis and her date are big shots when it comes to picnics. It must have been a wet rain that sent these AAPLI-ers inside to drink their milk.

Carla Schmielau, Joan Kilty and dates are out to prove it's a good thing to take food for the ants on a warm spring evening.

The old folks GRADUATE

At the end of spring quarter she kept him in the dark for a week about a "big event". Then, after telling him she'd turned down all her dates for the last weekend, she asked him to stay with her to see her older brother graduate. It took a bit of coaxing but after he went to Baccalaureate, he was so impressed that he stayed. Solemn-faced seniors smiled at last as that prophetic piece of paper was handed to them.

It's the last that's best as a lovely smiling senior receives her diploma from President Friley. The scene: Great Hall, Memorial Union. The seniors go around in circles to the very end.

Tassels swing jauntily as the seniors prepare to mount the platform at graduation ceremonies.

Old Glory unfurls her stars and stripes in the morning breeze.

Cmdr. C. R. Myers gives George Gallaher, past student body president, a warm handshake—and a commission which came later. Cmdr. C. R. Myers speaks a few parting words after Capt. Richard B. Levin accepted the command of the Iowa State NROTC and V-12 unit.

J. Kaplan and J. Miller take the liberty of doing something they have to do to get their liberty cards. Lt. F. G. Klepper shows Delmar Breuer some of the finer points in naval drilling.

NROTC . . . V-12 . . . NROTC

Rupturing the quiet and order of the halls of Friley was the stirring announcement of the war's end. A joyous feeling of victory accompanied by the sudden realization that this was the beginning of the end of the navy unit swept the quarters. It is the navy unit that kept the college martially collegiate. Football victories were possible only because of naval strength and great football and basketball stars rose in the dark blue sky of the sports world.

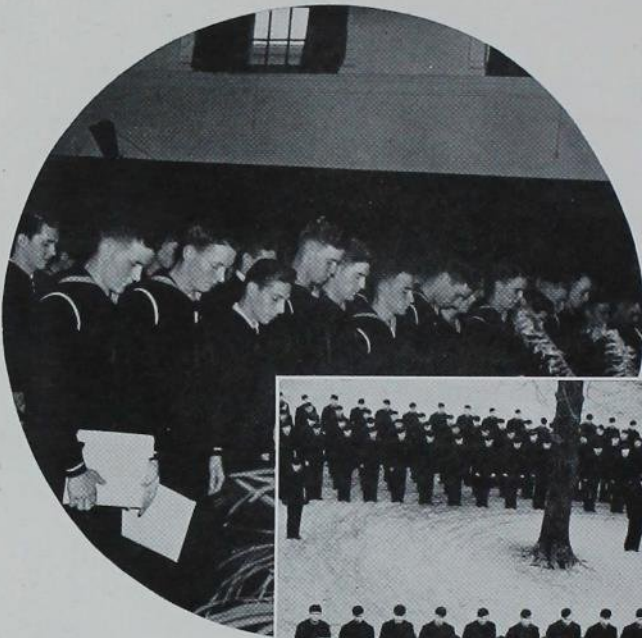

Glen Rapp, Doug Reed and Sam Deal don't overlook the details.

"Chick" Sutherland and "Mike" Michalske recruit two more men, providing they endure the navy calisthenics. Bob Hessel, Rog Henrickson, Ed Jett and Art Jeske put away a quart (milk) in the Friley Hall cafeteria.

Here's the scoop on the navy chow line.

V-12 . . . NROTC . . . V-12

The student body was led by a man of intelligent friendliness and sight who hung his jacket in Friley. The social world was kept whirling and every coed looked forward to the navy formals with a gleam in her eye, a smile on her lips and a twinkle in her toes. Now the men, though decreasing in numbers are wearing the trim dignified uniform of the NROTC. And speaking of uniforms, it was a snappy looking class of men who wore their ensigns' uniforms for the first time upon graduation the winter quarter of 1964.

Mable's bite is worse than her bark.

In order to have a couple of minutes' relaxation from the navy graduation dance there must be a few couples. A sea of sailors concentrate on Dr. Materson's history lecture.

Jimmy Stewart, who really knows his orchids, chose the 1946 Bomb Beauties.

"I just received the photographs of the eight lovely girls from whom you asked me to select the four 1946 BOMB BEAUTIES. It has had me going around in circles a bit but I've finally made my selections. Will you please tell all the contestants how very charming I think they are?"

"My very best wishes to all the students of Iowa State College and my personal congratulations to the four beautiful winners."

... and they had an unforgettable time during Veishea. He laughed when she almost fell into Lake La Verne in a splurge of excitement when the boat she was rooting for also collapsed. After she changed her clothes he apologized for his humor by taking her to Veishea Vodvil where she had a chance to laugh at the amazing antics of the skit-makers. When they were talking over a coke about all they'd seen, they couldn't help remembering the good hot dogs they'd had at the all-college picnic. Pictures of the lovely queen still dance through his head.

TRADITIONS . . . TRADITIONS .

Sunday night was such a rush at the houses that she accepted his invitation to go to dinner with pleasure. She told him how the women simply scrambled downstairs after the good things the cook set out for them. But it wasn't only Sundays that the gals favored the kitchen—one of the favorite sounds was the noon whistle from the power plant ripping the cold air. They remembered how steamy hot the chocolate had been on the night that they rang the victory bell after winning another football game.

Highlights of their nights were reflected in the graceful sprays of the Union fountain through the velvet night around the pool. That was just one of the unforgettable nights—the first night of Homecoming was another when the band formed its own campanile and a star rose from the ground amid the soft strains of Stardust. . .

Highlights and shadows of the Union font provide a study in black and white.

You might say this is the lighter side of the campanile. The marching band really shines when it comes to figures.

Three cautious coeds skirt the zodiac. With a star rising over his shoulder, Tom Swearingen enters Gold Star Hall.

"That's where my money goes." Platter chatter over a coke in Trophy Tavern makes an afternoon a success for these colleagues.

During the year they learned all the loved traditions of Iowa State. It was on a rainy afternoon when she was walking through Gold Star Hall that some of her friends amazed her by refusing to walk over the zodiac—it was bad luck before an exam they explained. Later that afternoon when he was walking her home from classes she told him about it and he surprised her by pitching pennies off the bridge at the bottom of Union Hill for luck on his math exam the next day. Before they went home they had a coke and a couple of dances in the rugged Trophy Tavern with its handcarved table tops. A couple of weeks later they attended the Horticulture Show where they made like Ferdinand—just sniffing the pretty flowers—watching the lovely white swans on the lake. She was disappointed one evening to find that the swans had been taken in for the coming winter at the same time the flowers were put away. And, like Old Man Winter, the night watchman sees to it that all the young things are safe for the night.

What does a night watchman watch? The Horticulture Show is the place to use flowery phrases.

According to swans "in-the-know," there are no ugly ducklings in this brood. "The fleet's out" on Lake LaVerne as two cruisers smooth things over for the little tugs.

It must be a hot serenade to bring these coated Tri Delts out on a winter night. Despite the cold air these KDs are in perfect harmony.

It was on a fall night after everyone had been in bed for some time when vibrant young voices awakened the women to a serenade. With cries of "serenade, serenade" on their lips they jumped out of bed, grabbed a coat or blanket and headed for the fire escape. Laughing, teeth chattering, they listened. A week later they returned the serenade and the fellows were the surprised people—but pleased too.

From a man's point of view this Phi Psi serenade strikes a note of - - - - well?

Tradition says a woman is not a coed until she has been kissed under the campanile at midnight—darn these 12 o'clock nights. It was the night of the Senior Prom that they took the fateful step up the steps of the campanile. . . . A couple months later friends were admiring a certain stone on her finger at their five-pound party.

El Schroder and Beth Clause have that old gleam in their eye as they congratulate Phyl Nuss and Noel Willis during their five pound party at the Alpha Gam house.

Could this be a time table that the cheerleaders are consulting? High stepping twirlers strut their stuff at the Homecoming game.

We'd hate to be on unfriendly terms with these gridiron gorillas. "Mabel", Navy mascot, indulges in a little horseplay with that Missouri mule.

As they walked across the campus for the last time that year they thought of the many good times that were beginning to be memories . . . and those that were yet to appear. . . .

Jerry Siegwart, as a gentleman's gentleman, seems to have forgotten something of Mr. D. Gibson's.

Dennis Gibson is really up in the air about something. It couldn't be that they think the Dilly Stoopid is bunk stuff in the Armory.

CAMPUS HOMES

DORMITORIES

Although freshmen women are largely restricted from activities their first quarter, Birch Hall, a freshmen residence hall, got into the swing of campus activities by putting up Homecoming decorations and participating in the parade.

The traditional White Christmas Breakfast highlighted the activities for fall quarter. Also in December the women in their gay holiday formals held an open house. Birch

In pre-war days Hughes Hall housed Iowa State men, but in the fall of 1945 women took over. However, at the beginning of winter quarter, the women vacated the east wing in favor of returning veterans and their wives.

Under the leadership of Tenny Richards Brinkman, president, Hughes Hall got in the swing of campus life. First honor won was the election of Betty Lou Anderson as attendant to the Homecoming Queen.

Honors go to Lyon Hall for capturing the coveted first prize for their minstrel show in 1945 Veishea Vodvil. The highest award for lawn decorations during Homecoming was also won by Lyon.

Helen Layton, chosen for the lead in the campus production of "Claudia", was also cast in the role of Dinah in "Mr. Pim Passes By".

Lyon Hall was well represented in the Freshman Creative Writing Contest when Margaret Rutherford won first prize and Elizabeth Adams third prize.

Alpha Delta Pi marked ninety-fifth anniversary with interesting Founders' Day dinner

Dancing under a blue ceiling gleaming with silver stars to the tunes of Jerry Sherman and his band climaxed the social season for the members of Alpha Delta Pi. The occasion was the annual winter formal held at the chapter house January 5. The house was also the scene of firesides, five-pound parties, and after-hours parties held throughout the year.

Heading the WAA Intramural Board was Jerrien Larsen. Alpha Deltas in Naiads, women's swimming club, were Lois Cline, Sarah Stulb, and Priscilla Larson. Performing in Dance Club during the year were Ruth Henkel, Marie LaFontaine, and Virginia Norton. Members of Bowling Club were Peg Lyon, Mary Jane Gray, Dorothy Dickinson, Betty Kulhanek, Priscilla Larson, Joan Meredith, Arlene Jensen, Betty Stevenson, Annabelle Bent, and Bev Hallback.

Converting dining room to tavern, Alpha Gamma Delta opened its social season

Alpha Gams and guests were welcomed to the candlelit tavern, alias the dining room, as a hayride opened the social calendar. During the calmer hours of Homecoming, the house was in a whirl again—a small jam session, typical of the friendliness of the house. There was glamor from the word “go” in the Blue Mist Ball, traditional winter formal. The 18-piece orchestra gave forth with sweet swing to make the ball a charming memory.

There were honors coupling the fun too. Delta Phi Delta and Omicron Nu claim Jeanne Renaud, Alpha Gam president. Margie Kitley belongs to Iota Sigma Pi, chemistry honorary, and Phi U member Marilyn Girton is vice-president of Sigma Alpha Iota and a member of Omicron Nu. Ruth Marie Gaessler is active in Phi U and has earned the honor of being chosen for Women’s I fraternity.

With aid of transfer students Delta Omicron of Kappa Kappa Gamma was founded Kappa Kappa Gamma was founded at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois on October 13, 1870. The organization has a membership of seventy-four chapters in universities and colleges of the United States. Delta Omicron chapter has been granted a charter and installation of the chapter will be May 25, 1946 at Iowa State College. The badge of the fraternity is the golden key; the colors are light and dark blue; and the flower is the fleur-de-lis. The national publication is the Key. The founders of Delta Omicron chapter are Wilma Winberg, who transferred from Massachusetts State, Arma Jo Smith, Kansas State, and Patricia Piller, Kansas University.

The Harvard Trophy, national honor award of Phi Delta Theta, was won again this year by the Phi Delt's of Iowa State. This award is given to the chapter that is most outstanding in college activities. Two high contributors of points toward the trophy were Phil Gibbs and Jack "Speedy" Fathauer. Business manager of the Iowa Engineer was Robert Jordan, who led the ASCE, backed by Sterling Nebblet as secretary.

Phi Deltas worked and played hard to win 13 athletic letters, several student positions

ASME had as its treasurer Tom Acker who somehow found time to prexy Pi Tau Sigma. Phil Gibbs served as vice president and secretary of YMCA.

Participation in sports yielded thirteen letters. Eight men were chosen for Knights of St. Patrick and Quentin Wells was initiated into Tau Beta Pi. Phil Gibbs reigned as BJOC at the Junior Prom.

Shining light of Phi Gamma Delta is Dick Howard, Big Six All Conference football player, who heads the record for the longest run in the nation. In the Kansas State game he gained the record with a 106 yard run. To keep athletic honors in the house, Phi Gams took the touch football championship.

A hayride followed by a big Homecoming Dance opened the year's social activities. Drawing more attention, however, was the annual steak fry with big juicy T-bone steaks taking the spotlight. Returning veterans filled the ranks of the pledge class and added familiar faces to active chapter meetings.

The Phi Psis were more than active in the athletic world this year with championships in intramural golf and horseshoes.

The journalistic spirit reigned high in the house too with Larry Hanel acting as events editor of the Iowa Engineer and feature editor of the Bomb. John Morris and Gene Harrison held offices on the staff of the Iowa Engineer while Dan Slater's cartoons were featured in the Green Gander.
