The mission of the Army Officer Education Department is to qualify selected undergraduate and graduate students for commissioning as second lieutenants in the Army or Army Reserves. Classroom academic work is supplemented by on-campus leadership laboratory sessions and by a six-week summer session at an Army installation. Professional activities sponsored by the department include the Pershing Riffes, the Society of American Millary Engineers, the Counterinsurgency Unit, and Riffe and Pistol Teams. Social activities include the Scabbard and Blade, which sponsors the annual military ball.

Karl Friederich, editorial adviser Dale Boyd, business adviser

On the First Day the staff created the SENIOR'S BOOK. They said, "This is good." On the Second Day they created the BOOK OF GREEKS and were pleased with their efforts. The Third Day they saw the greeks lonely so created the BOOK OF RESIDENCES. They smiled to themselves.

The Fourth Day they took an arm and a leg and created the BOOK OF SPORTS. Then they breathed color into it and it came to life.

On the Fifth Day they felt a need for achievement and said, "Let the BOOK OF ORGANIZATIONS be born." And it came to pass.

On the Sixth Day they created fire and thundar and excitement and, outdoing themselves, created the BOOK OF YEAR. They put color and sound into it and it also came to life. And the staff said, "Ah, that is good!"

On the Seventh Day the staff rested and looked down upon their work and smiled. Greatness had come from their hands.

> In any profession-engineering, physics, teaching—a student must possess the ability to analyze and argue a number of problems. The ability to advocate or oppose an issue in a clear and forceful manner should be sought by everyone, regardless of his profession. It is the purpose of the lows State Debaters to develop this ability.

> Debaters each year attend thirty to thirty-five intercollegiate debate tournaments on college campuses throughout the United States. Tournaments regularly attended by lows State include Michigan State University, Dartmouth College, Texas Christian University, and Wayne State University.
